Cosmopolitan Books

AUTUMN

Cosmopolitan Book Corporation
119 West 40th Street
New York

IN ANNOUNCING its list for the Autumn of 1927, Cosmopolitan Book Corporation wishes to point out a broadening of its field and an increase in the number of its publications.

Cosmopolitan has been known in the past as a "house of best sellers." It is intended to retain the right to that sobriquet. But in addition to the best obtainable widely read fiction it has branched into popular science, history and travel.

Mr. Harry Hervey is represented by an account of exploration in Indo-China, Mr. Allan L. Benson by a layman's study of Geology, and four of the generals in the late war by their respective (and opposing) viewpoints of the battles of the Marne. Finally, Cosmopolitan has obtained the right to publish two translations: one the memoirs of Queen Hortense, the step-daughter of Napoleon Bonaparte; the other is "The Black Journey" a narrative of the recent epic trip across the heart of Africa made in auto trucks.

Irvin Cobb, Peter B. Kyne and Robert Hichens have already appeared on Cosmopolitan lists, and it is a distinct honor to announce the addition of L. Adams Beck. Their respective books represent them at the height of their distinguished literary careers.

THEY ALSO SERVE

An Epic of an Artillery Horse

by Peter B. Kyne

THIS is the story of Professor, the horse, told by himself through a great interpreter of deeds of derring-do, Peter B. Kyne. Foaled on a Western range, three-quarters thoroughbred and one-quarter Percheron, cougar killer, hazer, versed in bulldogging, roping and running, Professor and his cowboy owner are thrown into the Great War. There amid hail of shrapnel the man and the horse rise to heroism.

Professor is a mighty horse among mighty men—Irish Rogan, who served the world around with the army and who never grinned wider than when the bullets sang, Ern, who coralled two doughboys after his arm was broken and kept No. 1 gun speaking from behind the corpses of its crew, the Major, who overlooked barrack misdeeds in men who were faultless at the front, and the Skipper, who lost his heart to sweet Mary Vardon.

Peter B. Kyne's stories are written close to the heart. His saga of a horse belongs among the classics. It is a new and vivid viewpoint of memorable days in bloody France. For those who love a good story it will be meat and drink; for those who also love dumb animals—unforgetable.

With halftone illustrations and a jacket in color by C. Leroy Baldridge and line decorations in the text by Paul Brown.

The Memoirs of QUEEN HORTENSE

Published by Arrangement with Prince Napoleon

Edited by JEAN HANATAU

Translated by ARTHUR K. GRIGGS

THIS book might well be entitled "The Private Life of Napoleon Bonaparte." Written by his stepdaughter, the Queen of Holland, and jealously guarded by her family until the present time, it throws a searching light on Napoleon as the head of his quarrelsome family of Corsicans; as an alternately stern and loving husband; as an Emperor relaxing from the cares of state by an anonymous visit to a street fair; as a family man finding it harder to rule the arrangement of his whist tables than the Councils of Europe; as a harassed creature of the state drying the tears of one wife while waiting to greet the other that policy demanded.

Queen Hortense and her son, Napoleon III

No one knew Napoleon better than Hortense, that romantic schoolgirl who, as the daughter of Josephine and the wife of Napoleon's brother, was an unwilling actor in the drama of the Empire. Her story is of prime historical importance.

THE BACCHANTE

A Novel of a Woman with a Devil in Her Soul

by Robert Hichens

THE name of Robert Hichens suggests at once his novel "The Garden of Allah"—a lavish and unusual story. In "The Bacchante" he has written a compelling story which, perhaps, surpasses "The Garden of Allah."

Excepting flashes of Switzerland and the northern coast of Africa, Mr. Hichens's new novel is laid entirely in bohemian London. From its pageant of fools and philosophers, poets and artists, "slumming" débutantes, actresses and playwrights, nobles incognito, art patrons and myriad others, he has selected Valentine Morris, a woman from nowhere, as his central character.

Without known antecedents, with a beauty that wells up from something not physical, she makes an immediate sensation among that blasé coterie. Hundreds pay homage to her; stubborn bachelors fall in love with her—and yet some perverse demon, or some silent episode of her past makes her unattainable.

"The Bacchante" may be a tragedy — that reader would be shrewd indeed who could make up his mind—it is certainly a momentous picture of the tumult in a woman's soul, of her strange fidelity and her still more strange inconsistency.

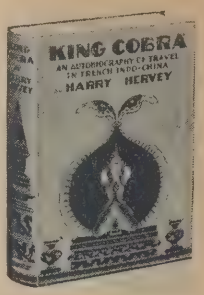
KING COBRA

An Autobiography of Travel in French Indo-China

by Harry Hervey



"DRUMS beating on the mighty Mé-Kong, wild reed music of dancers in the forest, the whispering glide of cobras through ruined temples . . . " thus speaks Harry Hervey of his wanderings in Indo-China.

His was an expedition to discover age-old ruins known even to natives purely through legend, to penetrate the very center of uncharted jungles, and to study a race that sprang from strange sources before Christ. It is seldom that such exploits are headed by a man like Mr. Hervey, who combines an insatiable wanderlust with the vision of a gifted novelist.

The result is "King Cobra," a book that is far more than a mere narrative of bizarre travel. In it are three stories; that of the gorgeous Khmer civilization, that of the French occupation in Indo-China, and the narrative of the author's own adventure. In rich and marching prose Mr. Hervey drifts away from the bustle of the Western world into a spellbound land of toppled palaces under seas of vegetation, of wild beasts screaming in the night, and of slanted eyes that hold the wisdom of remote China and ancient India.

CHIVALRY PEAK

A First Novel

by Irvin S. Cobb

THE announcement of a first novel by Irvin S. Cobb will be greeted by most people with incredulity. But it is a solemn fact. Famous for his brilliant journalism, an after-dinner speaker whose anecdotes go the rounds of the world, and a short-story writer whose very name provokes reminiscent chuckles in almost every American, nevertheless Mr. Cobb has not heretofore published a novel.

It is with the sense of prophesying an event that news of the forthcoming book is given. "Chivalry Peak" is shot through with the quick contagion of Mr. Cobb's wit and his canny understanding of people. It is a story of the West of today, of a train bandit with hot brown eyes, of a swindler, of a lady in dire distress, of a quick-draw man who never fired a shot; it is a story replete with that most desirable quality—action, and one that injects masterful writing into a background which is glamorous, but which has suffered much abuse from the pens of unworthy authors. Here is a classic Western story. Mr. Cobb is indeed a promising novelist.

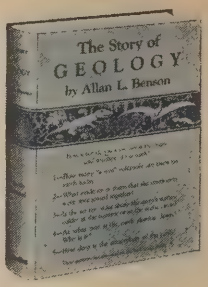
THE STORY OF GEOLOGY

by Allan L. Benson



IT is a recent discovery that the sciences are as absorbing to the layman as the arts. Presented in an understandable form, chemistry, biology, astronomy, even philosophy, have thrilled tens of thousands with a new excitement. Now Allan L. Benson reproduces in an untechnical way the prodigious drama of geology. For a long time a student of the subject, he felt the lack of a book which made clear to the man in the street all the important facts and theories relative to the origin and history of the earth. He supplied that lack by writing "The Story of Geology," a book that is entirely comprehensive while it is free from scientific jargon.

It is a fascinating book. The reader sees with his own eyes the rush of a seething ball through space, the churning surface of continents, the sweep of forgotten seas, the progress of giant reptiles through primeval jungles, and the beginnings of his own frail species. He grows dizzy in the contemplation of the slow eons of preparation that preceded his appearance. He realizes that geology is no longer a chain of frail speculation, but a powerful and literal picture of the Universe. "The Story of Geology" is a contribution to the public mind of inestimable value.

THE HOUSE OF FULFILMENT

The Romance of a Soul

by L. Adams Beck

"THE House of Fulfilment" is the story of two journeys—a physical one to a Tibetan monastery and back again, through a relay of perils, and a spiritual one that proves even more breathlessly exciting. It is a trip crowded with manifold beauties, so intense that they would be cloying save for the broad sweep of the story and Mrs. Beck's never-failing sense of everyday reality.

Brynhild Ingmar, the lovely sculptress; Cardonald, carrying to India the weight of a great disloyalty; Lord and Lady Dunbar, gracious hosts of the strangest of mansions; the mountain-climbing philosopher Haridas; these are real people all. To make their journey with them is not only to read a love story of unique beauty, but also to understand the wisdom of the East.

L. Adams Beck, whose personality was long a literary mystery and whose career as a writer was prophesied by Oriental mystics, is a profound student of Eastern philosophy. Her novels and articles upon this theme have won her an established fame.

This is Mrs. Beck's first modern novel

THE TWO BATTLES OF THE MARNE

Opposing Generals Fight a Decisive Battle After Thirteen Years

The Stories of

Marshal Joffre, Marshal Foch, Crown Prince Wilhelm and General von Ludendorff

IN this amazing book four great generals in the World War account for their stewardship—a stewardship that embraced the lives of millions of men, the very existence of nations, and the fundamental concepts of humanity. The Allied Armies are represented by Joffre and Foch; the Central Powers by von Ludendorff and the German Crown Prince. Each of these celebrated men gives a clear account of his instructions, his aims, his objectives and the strategy necessitated by the campaigns. From these accounts arises a vivid and detailed picture of the tremendous intellect and energy behind war. Probably such a book has never before been compiled. It will answer many discussions and it will enthrall everyone to whom "September 1914" has significance.

THE BLACK JOURNEY

by

Georges-Marie Haardt

and

Louis Audouin-Dubreuil

THE adventurous Citroën expedition across Africa, starting in Morocco, south to the Belgian Congo, then east to Lake Victoria and Madagascar, is the subject of this extraordinary travel narrative. The spirit of the devil-may-care explorer, with his tales of wild peoples and strange beasts, is allied here with that of the naturalist and the student of human nature in the raw. Pigmies, cannibals, dancing-girls and dark warriors, strange beasts and scenes of breathless beauty jostle each other in the crowded pages of this vital and altogether unusual book.

The Golden Book

The Story of Fine Books and Bookmaking, Past and Present. By Douglas C. McMurtrie $6.00

HERE is a volume that booklovers have long been seeking. The true booklover is interested in more than the text of a book; he has a keen appreciation of the printing, the paper and the binding of the volumes he most highly prizes. There is today no book on the market to which he may look for information regarding the processes of bookmaking or their historical development.

"The Golden Book" will give such a reader just the facts he desires and in very attractive and readable form. For while the principles of the book arts are discussed most fully and the historical derivation of present standards of fine bookmaking clearly outlined, it is in no sense a text book. It more resembles a series of chats in the library between a booklover of real erudition and good taste and his associates through the bond of a common enthusiasm.

"The Golden Book" will answer any but the most highly specialized questions on books and their makers. It covers the origin and history of the alphabet; the genesis of paper; scribes and books in manuscripts; the invention of printing; type design and its development; book illustration and decoration; bookbinding and the work of celebrated binders; the life and work of eminent printers such as Jenson, Aldus, Froben, de Colines, Plantin, Baskerville, Didot, Bodoni, Benjamin Franklin, William Morris, and others down to Theodore L. DeVinne, whose work has made an impression on the development of typography; and finally, modern fine printing and its leading exponents. The actual processes of book production are simply described and the following subjects are also covered: book collecting, book plates, book clubs, printers' marks, children's books, miniature books. The volume closes with a discussion of principles governing the production of the ideal or "golden" book.

The author is a well-known authority on the history of printing and is himself a typographic artist and book designer of eminence. He has written a score of books and monographs on the subjects covered in "The Golden Book," but all written for the specialist. This is his first volume addressed to the general reader and it was written at the express instigation of the publisher, who felt that Mr. McMurtrie's rare store of knowledge should be tapped in the interest of the book-loving public.

"The Golden Book" is designed by Mr. McMurtrie and printed under his supervision. It is a small quarto of about four hundred pages, printed on a watermarked laid paper made especially for this volume, and bound on a unique plan in cloth stamped with an all-over design in gold on both front and back covers and backbone. There will be over a hundred and fifty illustrations.

There will be an edition of 220 special copies on rag paper in a different binding and with three extra illustrations. They will be numbered and signed by the author. Price $20.00.

Sidewalks of New York

A Novel of the East Side. By Nat J. Ferber $2.50

SYNOPSIS of the story: Sam Posternock, dubbed "Waterhead" on the East Side, was born of a slavy and the son of her employer, one Yusel Bernstein in a small Russian hamlet. He is adopted by a family which comes to New York.

Here he becomes a member of a family of thirteen kids and learns life from the housetops, viewing the intimacies of his elders via the areaway and on the sidewalks of New York.

He meets a sexton, who, as a sideline, conducts a matrimonial agency. The tombstones suggest to him the idea of marrying to one another the survivors of those reposing under the tombstones. Sam becomes his aide and bosom pal, the matchmaker being without kin.

On the sidewalks Sam meets Goldie, who becomes leader of the Allen Street gang. She is the daughter of a Jewish girl who has been betrayed by an Italian.

Alter Posternock, father of the family in which Sam was adopted, suffers many trials, and ultimately achieves wealth. His offspring, grown, compel him to move from the ghetto. They move and leave Sam behind.

Sam, a hell-raising kid without schooling, gets some schooling in time, and this makes of the little gangster a book worm.

With a pal, Moishke, he joins a political club. Goldie, affected by what she has seen from the housetops, achieves a premature womanhood and finding her pals futile, turns her back on them, including Sam.

Goldie runs into Joe Burns, who pretends to marry her, but who really attempts to shove her into one of many brothels under his control. Goldie, daughter of a Sicilian, lets fly and wrecks the brothel and almost wrecks Burns. Burns, it later turns out, is Sam's father.

Sam wakes up one day to find himself married. This marriage goes on the rocks and he returns to the political club of which he had become a hanger-on. The big boss is interested in him and he is used in a political steal that results in a larceny from the people of many millions of dollars.

The big guns get from under, but Sam gets caught and, while he is not imprisoned, he is hooted to the ground.

The political boss had been operating with Joe Burns in the political steal in which Sam was the goat, even as this political boss had protected Burns in a variety of shady enterprises. When the storm breaks, Sam turns to those he served, but they shut the door on him. Goldie, too, is hounded by Burns and at the close of the book Goldie, Sam and the old matchmaker meet in a happy reunion.

The Satyricon of Petronius Arbiter

Illustrated with Woodcuts in three colors by Allen Lewis. In Two Volumes $20.00

THIS is the first definitive and complete Petronius in English. The edition is limited to 960 copies, price $20.00 per set. Sixty copies on hand-made paper at $40.00.

This Satyricon is a reprint of an extremely rare and very fine translation, printed in Paris in 1902 and commonly attributed to Oscar Wilde. This edition, an unexpurgated one, containing both the authentic and unauthentic Petronius items, has had the advantage of being edited by Susan Wilbur, assistant literary editor of the Chicago Evening Post and an able classical scholar. Miss Wilbur provides an introduction and notes.

The volumes will be illustrated in three-color woodcuts by Allen Lewis, one of the foremost woodcut illustrators of the country. The typography is by Douglas McMurtrie, well known typographic expert. Sixty copies will be printed on hand-made paper, specially bound. These will have an extra set of plates, signed by the artist.

Secret History of Procopius

Translated by Richard Atwater (Riq.) $20.00

Here is true historical romance, filled with warm and whimsical anecdotes as intriguing as a Dumas novel and as fascinating as the Arabian Nights, now made available for the first time in modern but unexpurgated English. The translator, Richard Atwater, is not only a classical scholar but knows how to write in popular style. Sometime Fellow in Greek at the University of Chicago, he is better known as the volatile and vitriolic columnist of the Chicago Evening Post.

So candid and intimate a revelation was Procopius's "Secret History" of the court of Justinian that the author could not publish it during his lifetime. Since the finding of this rare manuscript centuries later, scholars have delighted in its unique chronicle of a wild and colorful age, when the Roman Empire in the hands of the Empress Theodora danced madly to its impending fall.

This edition of Procopius is an unusual example of fine bookmaking. It is designed both as to typography and binding by Douglas C. McMurtrie, the eminent typographic artist. In view of the importance of the publication Mr. McMurtrie has designed an entirely new and original type face which will be known as the Procopius type, and in this type the book is hand set. It is printed throughout on hand-made paper, and issued in a handsome binding of Byzantine design. The edition is limited to 760 numbered copies, signed by both the translator and the typographic designer, and will thus have a unique appeal to the collector.

There are thirty special copies on Imperial Shidzuoka Vellum, price $30.00.

The First Printers of Chicago

By Douglas C. McMurtrie $5.00

THIS very unique book, handsomely printed on hand-made paper, in an edition limited to 250 copies, autographed by the author, is a real contribution to American bibliography.

Mr. Douglas C. McMurtrie is a well-known authority on typography and a student of the history of printing. The book includes a bibliography of the issues of the Chicago press from 1836 to 1850.

Perversité

By Francis Carco, Translated by Ford Madox Ford $2.50

FORD MADOX FORD'S translation of "Perversité" (Perversity), the masterpiece of Francis Carco, the young French writer, and one which the translator has called "a second Madam Bovary," contains a curious study in elemental psychology.

Picture a man not vicious but congenitally so brutish that his consciousness is barely above that of the lower animals. The man's sister is a prostitute of the Parisian boulevards, living in squalid lodgings into which she nightly brings her means of livelihood. The brother lives in one of the rooms of this sister's apartment, and he can hear, through the wall, what is going on in the adjoining room. He lives a life debased by poverty and brutalized by grinding toil, and as a result, his consciousness barely flickers as he listens to those sounds from the other room. At the same time, this dubious "hero" is afflicted with a great fear, which is really a fear of life, but which resolves itself into many minor physical phobias.

The sister acquires as a lover a sadistic sailor, who becomes her souteneur. This sailor discovers the fear in the other man and proceeds to play upon it. The book contains one chapter in which the Marquis de Sade would have revelled. Yet the whole is done with unerring literary taste, emphasized by Mr. Ford's masterly translation, while the cumulative effect of the tale is one of a haunting horror and pathos.

The Story of Phallicism

In Two Volumes, By Lee Alexander Stone, M.D., and other eminent authorities. Introduction by Frederick Starr

$15.00

THIS work, the first exhaustive treatise of its kind, edited and compiled by the author of THE POWER OF A SYMBOL, long since sold out and now a collector's rarity, contains, in rewritten form, absolutely all the material in the former work and, in addition, many new papers, here collected for the first time, not merely on phallicism, but on ancient and modern prostitution and allied topics as well, by such authorities as ELIZA BURT GAMBLE, THEODORE SCHROEDER, C. STANILAND WAKE, DOUGLAS C. MCMURTRIE and others.

This is a work which neither the student of mythology and religions nor the collector interested in the subject can afford not to have in his library. As a DEFINITE SYMPOSIUM, it is, distinctively, the first in kind, uniting, as it does, within the covers of two volumes, the contents of many no longer extant tomes and the results gleaned from vast fields of erudition.

The work is handsomely bound in two volumes, stamped in gold, top edges gilt, and boxed. The edition is POSITIVELY LIMITED to 1050 numbered copies.

Heavenly History

By Eleanor Follansbee

$2.50

THIS is a history, based upon scholarship and leavened by fantasy, concerning Heaven and its denizens. It is a parade of man's virtues and vices, mirrored in the objects of his worship. The charm of angelic tradition, the status of Satan, and the sins we know too little about are all to be found therein. Handsomely printed.

A Key to the Ulysses of James Joyce

With a Map of Dublin. By Paul Jordan Smith $3.00

THIS is a delightful and remarkably informative piece of work, by the author of "Cobweb". This book will prove a revelation to those who read or tried to read Ulysses, the great masterpiece of the twentieth century, and it will prove an impetus to those who have not read it and should get acquainted with this astonishing piece of literature. Paul Jordan Smith, in his preface to this book, has this to say regarding the masterpiece of the iconoclastic Irishman:

"The Ulysses of James Joyce is, for most who have turned its curious pages, a puzzle-book to be gazed at and then thrown, somewhat profanely, aside. To some it has proved a challenge; to a few it has been a delight.

"But the average novel reader expects a work of fiction to be simple, straightforward prose. No amount of talk about expressionism, dadism, or the subconscious mind can reconcile him to the unintelligibility of Joyce's unpunctuated pages. He is outraged. Where he expected to find a story of love and ambition and struggle, he finds a bewildering crossword puzzle. And I am afraid that he cannot be touched by the plea that Joyce has achieved a masterpiece of modern subjective fiction, and that he is a pioneer, breaking his way into strange, new fields, of interpretation. He wants a story and that is the end of it.

"But there are always a few who, from one motive or another, are willing to give more serious effort to the understanding of waybreakers, and it is for these that I have written this little book."

Silent Guests

A Mystery Novel, By A. E. Forrest $2.00

A YOUNG man looking for a lost heir; a lonely estate in the Canadian wilderness; the peculiar owner and his young and beautiful half-sister, through whose strange mentality is given a startling insight into the unknown, unraveling the mystery enshrouding their lives.

Here is a story admittedly more incredible than the average mystery story, but differing from it in that the most incredible things in it happen to be true, and because it calls the reader's attention in the most dramatic way to two great problems; one, the reality of messages from beyond; the other, the existence of a great evil in the here and now.

Gemixte Pickles

By K. M. S., Author of "Die Schönste Lengevitch" $2.00

HERE'S something different again. There is laughter in every line. Written in that delightful, piquant German-American dialect, made famous in the author's first book, "Die Schönste Lengevitch," this new work of K. M. S., "Gemixte Pickles", will fill a million hours with laughter. The book is not only humorous, it is hilariously funny.

The popularity of "Gemixte Pickles" will not rest entirely on its laughter-provoking elements, but also on its remarkable human interest—which, without becoming sentimental, mirrors the homely idiosyncracies of middle class men and women.

K. M. S. has struck a new note in American humor, and "Gemixte Pickles" as well as "Die Schönste Lengevitch" take their place with the richest contributions to our literature.

Dialogue Between a Priest and a Dying Man

By the Marquis de Sade $7.50

From an Unpublished Manuscript Edited with an Introduction and Notes by Maurice Heine. Translated by Samuel Putnam

THE Dialogue Between A Priest and A Dying Man was De Sade's first written work and has just been discovered among the late Marquis' private papers in Paris. The edition is limited to 650 numbered copies. The type is distributed and the Dialogue will not be reprinted.

The edition is on French handmade paper and includes an illuminating essay on De Sade by Maurice Heine, who was responsible for the discovery of the manuscript. The translation is by Samuel Putnam, translator of Aretino and LaCroix.

The volume is bound in boards stamped with an all-over design in gold. The decorative title page is printed in two colors. That the book is a work of art is indicated by the fact that the typography has been designed and the printing personally supervised by Douglas C. McMurtrie, well-known authority on typography.

The literary importance of the Dialogue lies in the light it throws on the philosphy behind De Sade's other work. It may not be generally known, but De Sade was one of the world's greatest atheists. The atheist leaders recognized this fact but were timid about acknowledging it on account of the writer's "unpleasant" reputation. We have here De Sade the philosopher.

Works of Aretino

In Two Volumes $17.50

Translated into English from the Original Italian, with a Critical and Biographical Essay by Samuel Putnam. Exquisitely Illustrated by the late Marquis de Bayros with 22 Full-page Plates. Edition strictly limited to 1250 copies. Biography by Francesco de Sanctis. Bibliography, Appendices, etc. 2 volumes (9½" x 6½").

"The Putnam Aretino may now join the Burton Arabian Nights in the library of the connoisseur."
—Riq. (Chicago Post).

Huysmans' Down Stream

Three New and Important Items In One Volume

"Down Stream" (A-vau l'eau), "Marthe"
"A Dish of Spices" (Le Drageoir à épices)
Translated by SAMUEL PUTNAM (Translator of "Aretino" and "Lacroix")

"Down Stream" is a novelette of great literary importance. It is really the first of that trilogy of which "Against the Grain" (A Rebours) and "Down There" (La-Bas) are the other two members. The three works properly should be read in the order mentioned. Each marks a stage of Huysmans' journey away from the Naturalism of the Zola school towards that end which Barbey d'Aurevilly predicted for the author upon the publication of "A Rebours."

"There is nothing left," wrote d'Aurevilly, "except the ball of a pistol or the foot of the Cross." Huysmans chose the foot of the Cross.

History of Prostitution

In Three Volumes By Paul LaCroix $30.00

("Pierre Dufour"–"Le Bibliophile Jacob")
Translated with a Biographical Essay By SAMUEL PUTNAM

It is, as has been said, not merely the standard text, but practically the only text on this dark phase of history. And old "Bibliophile Jacob's" vast store of learning, which might otherwise have remained forever buried, lives again in Mr. Putnam's vivid translation.

Now for the first time translated from the French. Frontispiece Illustrations. A strictly Limited Edition of 1250 Copies. Beautifully printed and bound. Over 1800 pages in 3 Large Volumes.

Apples and Madonnas

Emotional Expression in Modern Art. By C. J. Bulliet

With 24 full-page illustrations $3.50

This is the first really human book that has appeared on "Modern Art." Divesting the new art expression of its cloak of mysticism—that is to say, de-bunking it—the author has disclosed the aims of the modern masters to be little different from those of the giants of old. They have simply given sincere expression of the life of their times—an era of eager intensity. Cezanne, Matisse, Picasso and the others are shown to be normal human beings very much in earnest, and not the "crazy clowns," "mountebanks," and "morons" they have been styled.

The book is in the spirit of the articles the author has been writing for the past three years as Director of The Art World Magazine of the Chicago Evening Post—articles that have done much to make Chicago a conspicuous center of "liberalism" in art, not only in the eyes of America, but of Europe as well—especially Paris and Munich. The book is easy to read, and its message is readily grasped.

The "American Scene" is fully discussed, setting out what the new artists have been doing in New York and Chicago from the time of the Armory Show in 1913 to the year 1927. In the chapter "The On-Rushing German Expressionism," the author discusses the mid-European "wild art" that has just begun to make its appearance in America.

Antheil, and a Treatise on Harmony

By Ezra Pound $2.00

WHEN young George Antheil's first "tinpan" opera (we are quoting the dubious pleasantries of an adverse press) was produced in Paris some years ago, it created a literal riot. When Mr. Antheil and his work were heard recently in New York, they effected a mental but none the less real commotion.

What's it all about? That is the question which the ordinary burgher is asking—and, be it whispered, some of our bewildered highbrows and infuriated music masters, as well. And this is, precisely, the question which Ezra Pound, dean of American expatriates, has answered, with annihilating lucidity, in his book, Antheil.

In his work, Pound endeavors to erect a whole novel system of harmony, one which, he asserts, has always been the true system. The attempt would be a daring one on the part of even a master of music. Coming from a literary man, it is more than likely to cause recriminations. Also in this volume are "The Treatise on Harmony," a paper on "William Atheling" and "Varia."

A Marriage with Space

And Other Poems by Mark Turbyfill $2.00

Mark Turbyfill's "A Marriage with Space," the phenomenal, fourth-dimensional, intensely interesting poem which was recently awarded the annual Levinson prize. Turbyfill is a sensual mystic—or a mystic sensualist, as you will. His work is never cold, but brims with finely controlled emotion. Coming, as he does, in the steps of Sandburg, Masters and the other great ones, his work has been heralded as epoch-marking. Like Manet's "Picnic" in painting, Wagner's "Thannhauser" in music, it marks, according to many, the end of an old order of verse, the beginning of a new one. In any event, it is a document you cannot afford either not to read or not to own.

Tides to the Moon

A Book of Poems. By Nahami Krupp $2.00

DELICATELY daring, unashamed because she transcends shame, Nahami Krupp writes not with a pen, but with a quill from the wings of the Muse.

Here are lyrical poems of the inner life which transcend the limits of the purely physical contacts—the conventional imageries of traditional verse—but achieve, as it were, an incandescent lucidity. Here is an imagination sprung from the profound sources of individual being, a luminous clarity and a spiritual intensity rare in English poetry of today.

In her landscape poetry she often approaches real heights. Mere sentiment, which is alloyed with pathos, is wholly lacking in her verse. The internal music of her poetry—her rhythms—are usually sure and sweep on with real power, as in "Time heaps his melting moments noiselessly."

Very often she attains the great phrase. She is, nevertheless, curiously modern, as in

"Drunken mouths of joy."

It is our conviction that here is a poet born, one destined to become in her medium one of the major voices of America.

The Ultimate Lover

And Other Poems, by Marion Ethel Hamilton $2.00

THREE major themes—the experience of a full life, are here richly recorded in subtle and moving lines and patterns of glamorous verse. Here are poems intense with woman's primal passion of love for man; poems, poignant with the tender pathos of motherhood denied; poems in which the moods of nature are keenly felt and distilled in a few lines, with the sharp brevity and power of the Japanese.

Here, too, are poems in a more leisurely manner, rhythms that overflow the rigid bounds of condensation and grow reminiscent, wistful and sad with the perspective that intensifies those human emotions that have already seared their ways into our memory.

The collection is, above all, a rich, human document, the passionate and romantic content of a woman's soul.

William McFee Introduces

Innocents Aloft

By Henry Justin Smith $2.00

(Author of "Deadlines" and "Josslyn.")

Twelve chapters of this volume tell the experiences of a group of American travelers who, in a tourist motor-coach, followed the Route des Alpes from Geneva to Nice. Their unpreparedness, their naïveté, their extravagances, and their sufferings are described with humorous zest, and their appreciation of beauty with poetic value. This is not only a blithe "travel story," but a magnificent picture of the Alps which are the glory of Southeastern France.

1001 Afternoons in Chicago

By Ben Hecht $2.50

With all the original illustrations and four-color cover and jacket by Herman Rosse. Price $2.50

"What Maupassant was to Paris and O. Henry was to New York, Ben Hecht is to Chicago."

—Riq. (Richard Atwater)

Broken Necks

By Ben Hecht $2.50

Companion volume to "1001 Afternoons in Chicago."

The brutal throb, the crude, poetical lusts of the American city fill these ironic stories written by the author of "Erik Dorn" and "Humpty Dumpty."

"If Mr. Hecht ever gave an editor a power of attorney to select from "1001 Afternoons in Chicago" and "Broken Necks" a dozen or more stories—the resulting volume would be the peer of any that has come out of America." —Llewellyn Jones

The Cheerful Cherub

Revised and enlarged edition (Over 300 pages)

By Rebecca McCann $2.00

The Cheerful Cherub's antidote for gloom is a little daily verse that will help correct your perspective on life by making you laugh at yourself like a good sport.

When Lilacs Bloom

(Reflections in a Garden)

By Flora Brent Hamilton $2.00

A book on Marriage, Love, Divorce, and Children

"Explorations in personality" Flora Brent Hamilton calls these delightful papers. "Delicate and charming" was Havelock Ellis' verdict when he read the manuscript. The author probes the deeps of the feminine soul and finds the "beast within" not always so bad as he is painted. She loves to delve in mysterious and even forbidding corners. She observes Ellis' precept, to the effect that the duty of the writer is "to reveal new strata of life" by "digging in his own soul," thus discovering "the soul of his family, of his nation, of the race, of the heart of humanity." Her gift of poetic imagination and exceeding lightness of touch puts her on a level with the Comtesse de Noailles, Colette and the best woman writers of modern France. There is none other quite like her in America.

Die Schönste Lengevitch

By K. M. S. $2.00

Henry Bellamann says: "I do not know of any book of humor that I can so unreservedly recommend for a continuous series of laughs—one of the funniest books ever written and a book that could only have been done in America."

Fanny Butcher: "Some of his descriptions of operas in 'Die Schönste Lengevitch' are classics."

New York Sun: "A most amusing performance."

Chicago Evening Post: "You don't know what the Schönste Lengevitch is? Then you have never really laughed."

Harry Hansen: "I got more humor and fun out of this book than anything I have ever read."

The God of Fundamentalism and Other Studies

By Horace J. Bridges $2.00

The first part of the book a brilliant and scorching analysis of Fundamentalism. Other chapters include "Thomas Henry Huxley," "Clarence Darrow on Mechanism and Irresponsibility," "Erasmus and the Reformation," "Hilaire Belloc on the Jewish Problem," "Ludwig Lewisohn versus America," and the "Genius of Joseph Conrad;" truly a brilliant array of intellectual richness.

Our Fellow Shakespeare

Famous Men of Science. Revised and enlarged. 344 pages, 16 illustrations. 8vo . . . . . Net, $2.00

"Life stories of Kelvin, Pasteur, Fabre, as well as Copernicus, Newton, Herschel and others. Mrs. Bolton does not stress the scientific side of her subject so much as the human. She is concerned with the men themselves, and tries to reveal the secret of their careers."—Boston Transcript.

Born of New England stock, Mrs. Bolton was married soon after the Civil War, and removed to Cleveland. She was associated with Frances E. Willard and others in the woman's temperance movement, in the seventies: then became associate editor of The Congregationalist for three years. In the eighties, she and her husband traveled extensively in this and foreign lands where she met many noted people whom she was later to describe with such photographic fidelity in her books. Busy to the last she passed away February 20, 1916.

Antique Spanish (genuine leather) Net, 4.50

"This edition has not only been revised, but materially enlarged. The additions, together with a list of illustrative passages quoted from the poets, and an index and dictionary, bring the work up to more than nine hundred pages, and make it simply invaluable for reading or reference."—Living Age.

Thomas Bulfinch deserves especial mention as one of America's earliest classical scholars and editors. He was born in Boston in 1796, in almost the beginning of the Republic, and was graduated in 1814 at Harvard University.

Soon after leaving college he took up the profession of teaching but soon abandoned it for a business career and became connected with the Boston Merchants' Bank. However, he never lost his love for the classics and devoted his leisure moments chiefly to mythology.

He won his literary reputation in 1855 by the publication of his "Age of Fable," which, as he stated, was intended to "popularize mythology and extend the enjoyments of elegant literature." This was followed by the "Age of Chivalry" and "Legends of Charlemagne," and some half dozen other works dealing with legend or ancient history.

Bulfinch's books at once sprang into popularity, not only as supplementary text-books, but for general reading. They have been continuously reprinted ever since. The author himself became well-known in literary circles and numbered Longfellow among his personal friends. He passed away in 1867.

LILIAN GASK

Lilian Gask is a popular English writer who has achieved remarkable success in her stories of animals. She combines the close observation of a trained naturalist with the imagination of the story-teller. As a Fellow of the Royal Zoological Society she has been given the freedom of the London Zoo—that wonderful collection of birds, beasts, and reptiles brought from the far corners of the world.

She likes best to fondle the animal babies. Furry little creatures, known only to the public at large as denizens of barred cages, nestle confidently in her arms and make timid bids for affection.

All About Animals. 200 illustrations, 8vo . . . . . Net, $3.00

This popular writer on animals here gives us another interesting survey of her furry friends—both in the haunts of man and in their native wilds.

"Wholesome, stimulating in patriotism and manhood, noble in tone, unstained by any hint of sectionalism; full of good feeling; the work of a hero who himself did what he saw and relates."—The Detroit Free Press.

WARREN LEE GOSS

Warren Lee Goss was a veteran of the Civil War. His "Recollections of a Private," published soon after the war, first brought him fame as a writer; and his later series of boys' adventure stories headed by "Jed" still rank as prime favorites. Mr. Goss was born in Massachusetts. After the War he entered newspaper work and began his series of books which brought him at once into the forefront of popular writers for boys. He continued in active authorship until over ninety, remaining as alert mentally—and almost physically—as half a century and more before. At the time of his death, in 1925, he was the dean of American authors.

CHRISTIAN D. LARSON

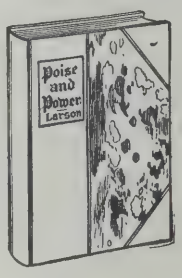
Poise and Power Series

It is only a few years, not more than a quarter of a century, since modern psychology began to proclaim the new science of human thought and action, so that we have had but a short time to demonstrate what a more intelligent application of our energies and forces can accomplish. But already the evidence is coming in from all sources, revealing results that frequently border upon the extraordinary. Man can do far more with himself and his life than he has been doing in the past; he can call into action, and successfully apply, far more ability, energy and worth than his forefathers ever imagined.

It is the purpose of these books not only to discuss these greater powers and possibilities in man, but also to present practical methods through which they may be applied, and to encourage as many as possible to study and apply these greater powers within them so that they may not only become greater and richer and more worthy as individuals, but may also become the forerunners of that higher and more wonderful race of which we all have so fondly dreamed.



These handy-size volumes are just the thing for carrying in one's pocket or bag on a journey. They are direct, terse, to-the-point utterances on every-day subjects in which all thinking people are interested. 16mo, cloth . . . . . Net, $ .90 each

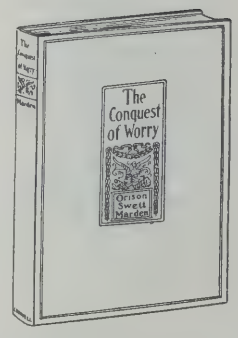
THE MARDEN INSPIRATIONAL BOOKS



Lord Northcliffe, the great English publisher, who was a world figure, wrote: "I believe Dr. Marden's writings will be of immense assistance to all young men."

John Wanamaker: "I would have been willing, if it had been necessary, to have gone without at least one meal to buy one of Dr. Marden's books."

John Burroughs said: "You preach a sound, vigorous, wholesome doctrine and preach it with much eloquence."

Mr. Roosevelt wrote to the author: "I am so deeply touched and pleased by your editorial [reprinted in 'He Can Who Thinks He Can'] that I must write and tell you so. Believe me, nothing could have given me more pleasure, or made me more resolute to try not to forfeit the respect of those for whom you speak."

Each book, 12mo, cloth . . . . . Net, $1.75

Be Good to Yourself. Showing the importance of keeping oneself at the "top of condition."

Choosing a Career. Considerations relating to the choice of a life calling and suggestions.

Conquest of Worry. The two greatest enemies of the human race, are Fear and Worry.

Every Man a King or Might in Mind Mastery. Emphasizes the truth that "as a man thinketh, so is he."

Exceptional Employee. Will help young men and women to "get out of the rut."

Getting On. This book will show you why many men do not get on; why others cannot be kept back; and the secret of how to forge ahead.

He Can Who Thinks He Can. Points the way to making the most of talents and education. Reinforced by many telling examples from the lives of others.

How to Get What You Want. A book for the times, and bristles with things worth quoting. A book that is no less practical than its title.

Joys of Living. Do you feel at times that you are missing your share of happiness? This book will help you to get real happiness out of life.

Keeping Fit. Any live business man who has been a good liver should read this book and heed its warnings.

Love's Way. Is there a better way than the mad scramble for wealth or position?

Making Friends With Our Nerves. Recognizing that one of the crying modern complaints is "nerves," Dr. Marden asks the reader to be honest with these faithful servants.

Making Life a Masterpiece. Urges the necessity of being true to the best we know. A book which preaches a lofty ideal.

Making Yourself. Full of wise advice on poise, conversation, reading, spare moments, etc.

Masterful Personality. There are some who naturally take the lead, and others that "knuckle under." In which class do you belong?

Judge Ben B. Lindsey: "Dr. Marden is one of the wonders of our time. I personally feel under a debt of obligation to him for his marvelous inspiration and help."

President McKinley once wrote: "I have read with unusual interest 'Pushing to the Front.' It cannot but be an inspiration to every boy or girl who reads it, and who is possessed of an honorable and high ambition. Nothing that I have seen of late is more worthy to be placed in the hands of the American youth."

Each book, 12mo, cloth . . . . . Net, $1.75

Miracle of Right Thought. Inspiring and reasonable. Will bring new life and new power to those who read it.

Optimistic Life. This book shows that "kindness is catching," that one of the most powerful forces is amiability. A book for those who smile.

Peace, Power and Plenty. Teaches that great achievements are wrought by self-confidence; that the bodily condition follows the thought; and that growing old is largely a habit.

Progressive Business Man. An exceedingly timely and useful book packed with pointers for wide awake business men.

Pushing to the Front. One of the most famous and widely read of the Marden books. Shows how successful men and women of all times and countries have, in the face of obstacles, struggled and won out.

Rising in the World. Preaches the higher success. A sterling book that sounds a trumpet call to honorable exertion.

Round Pegs in Square Holes. The Psychology of Success.

Secret of Achievement. This is a life-chart. By it you can check off the points that fit your case, and lay your course.

Self-Investment. No other investment will give you such returns as the culture of the finer self. This book gives some fundamental truths.

Selling Things. Sales managers will welcome this book. It inspires enthusiasm and gives confidence.

Success Fundamentals. A hand book on salesmanship, efficiency, health rules, and other every-day factors in the problem of success.

Training for Efficiency. A collection of the best of Dr. Marden's inspirational philosophy and practical teachings.

Victorious Attitude. Dr. Marden is a soul doctor. Put yourself in his hands, and doubt, fear, and all other evil growths of the spirit vanish.

Woman and Home. Gets at the very heart of questions that are uppermost in the public mind to day.

You Can, But Will You? Chapters on "The New Philosophy of Life," "The Price of Success," "The New Philosophy in Business," etc.

JAMES RUSSELL MILLER

Dr. Miller is the world's most widely read devotional writer. The secret of his success was told by him to a young minister who longed to be useful in a new field. "I have always loved people," he said. "I have had an intense desire all my life to help people in every way; not merely to help them into the Church, but to help them in their personal experiences, in their struggles and temptations, their quest for the best things in character. If you want to have success as a winner of men, as a helper of people, as the friend of the tempted and imperilled, you must love them and have a sincere desire to do them good."

Building of Character. The most important work is not the making of a living, but the making of a life. These chapters carry suggestion and inspiration in this line. 12mo . . . . . Net, $1.50

Dr. Miller's Year Book. A passage for each day, with a verse of Scripture and some practical thoughts for life. Suited for devotional use. 12mo . . . Net, 1.50

Dr. Roget was of Swiss extraction, but born in London, in 1779. He was educated at the University of Edinburgh and studied medicine, afterwards practicing as a physician in Manchester and London where he gained high reputation. He was made a Fellow of the Royal Society in 1815, and served for fifteen years as its secretary. In 1839 he became connected with the University of London and wrote on many medical subjects. He died in 1869.

But the work that best preserves his name is the great "THESAURUS OF ENGLISH WORDS AND PHRASES, classified and arranged so as to facilitate the expression of ideas and assist in literary composition." To the compilation of this work Doctor Roget devoted much of his time between 1840, when he retired from active practice, and 1852, when it was published. During his own lifetime the work went through twenty-eight editions. Many generations of literary men, of journalists, and of all who direct words to an audience by pen or mouth have testified to its extraordinary practical utility.

Johanna Spyri

JOHANNA SPYRI

"Madame Spyri, like Hans Andersen, had by temperament a peculiar skill in writing the simple histories of an innocent world. In all her stories she shows an underlying desire to preserve children alike from misunderstanding and the mistaken kindness that frequently hinders the happiness and natural development of their lives and characters. The author, as we feel in reading her tales, lived among the scenes and people she describes, and the setting of her stories has the charm of the mountain scenery amid which she places her small actors."

Johanna Spyri drew the material for her children's stories from scenes which were most familiar to her. Born in the little town of Hirzel, high up in the Swiss mountains, she herself lived much of the life which she was to depict so graphically as to make it peculiarly her own in literature.

All her life she loved and understood children, as every reader of her charming stories must realize; for no one else, whose heart was not full of sympathy and affection, could have succeeded in preserving such faithful vignettes of childhood.

LYOF N. TOLSTOI

Tolstoi's long and active career is expressed in his books. Born in 1828 and passing away in 1910, his whole life was a message of individuality and protest. Of no author could it more truly be said, "He lives in his books."

The 16 volumes comprising this set are printed in uniform style, pocket size, on Bible paper, with photogravure frontispieces, two-color title pages and decorative end papers.

The text is translated directly from the original by such competent scholars as Aylmer Maude, Nathan Haskell Dole and Isabel F. Hapgood. The type page is excellent and the illustrations comprise rare portraits and scenes.

"I should agree with Mr. Howells in placing Tolstoi with all his faults, at the head."—THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON.

"My father has read your translations and approves of them very much—they are very faithfully and carefully done to his mind."

LYOF N. TOLSTOI—Continued

"As you read on, you say, not, 'This is like life,' but 'This is life.' It is not only the complexion, the very line of life, but its movement, its advances, its strange pauses, its seeming reversions to former conditions, and its perpetual change, its apparent isolations, its essential solidarity. It is a world, and you live in it while you read, and long afterward; but at no step have you been betrayed, not because your guide has warned you or exhorted you, but because he has been true, and has shown you all things as they are."

Recollections of Johanna Spyri's Childhood. Translated by HELEN B. DOLE. 64 pages, illustrated . Net, $ .60

"Heretofore there has been no information accessible concerning the life and character of Johanna Spyri, whose 'Heidi' has become a children's classic. But so great is the popularity of her stories for children that librarians and others have been much harassed by inquiries concerning her. All these will doubtless be glad of this book, which gives the chief facts about her life and some interesting, colorful glimpses of her childhood." New York Times.

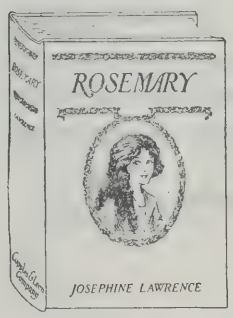
Rosemary and the Princess

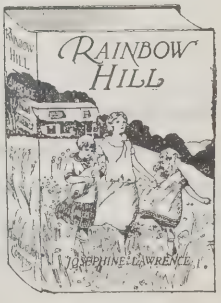
Complications enter the Willis household when Kathleen Stuart, a delicate, pampered young cousin from Chicago, comes to spend the winter. She is called the "Princess" on account of her beautiful clothes and sophisticated ways. Rosemary, Sarah and Shirley each reacts in her own way, and the result is a lively time for the Willises.



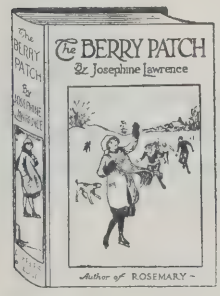
Rosemary

Rosemary Willis is twelve years old, the eldest of three sisters. She is charming, quick and radiant, with a snappy temper. Sarah is two years younger. Her unruly ideas lead her into numerous troubles before she changes her mind. Shirley is the baby and pet. There are others who help complicate as well as untangle troubles.

Rainbow Hill



RAINBOW HILL is a companion volume to ROSEMARY, continuing a new series of experiences, for the charming little girls, Rosemary, Sarah and Shirley. They are sent to live for the summer in an old country home known as Rainbow Hill. Here is mingled the work, play and self sacrifice that develops the family character.

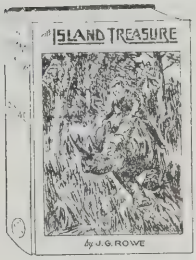


The Berry Patch

THE Berry family home, with the Berry children scurrying around in it, looked well enough like a wild garden to be called the "berry-patch." The clash of personal wants, and pride in school and home show how unhappy dispositions can become lovable characters and attain admirable success.

Next Door Neighbors

NEXT DOOR NEIGHBORS may not always be as agreeable as they might be, but very likely more will be imagined than ever comes to pass. Adventure and fun ran a race to see which could excite in these young folks the most laughs and thrills.



Sea Stories For Boys

By JOHN GABRIEL ROWE

Every boy knows the lure of exploring and loves to rig up caves and huts and tree-houses, fortifying himself against imaginary enemies. For this reason these tales are bound to please boy readers everywhere, for they tell what boys do who are shipwrecked and have to make themselves snug and safe in tropical islands where the dangers are real.

Large 12 mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Colored jacket.

Price per volume, $1.00 net.

1. CRUSOE ISLAND

Fire destroys the ship that Dick, Alf, Frank and Fred are on and they find themselves stranded with Josh, an old seaman, on an unknown island. They live there a year before being rescued, and have to keep their wits busy every minute prepared for anything, from terrible storms to gorillas and treacherous Malays.

2. THE ISLAND TREASURE

It is fascinating to watch these boys fit themselves into the weird wild place they have to live in after their friends have been captured by natives and their ship lost in storm. They make a cliff home, a cave stronghold, and a house inside a huge hollow tree, and have a great time outwitting their enemies discovering hidden treasure chests.

3. THE MYSTERY OF THE DERELICT

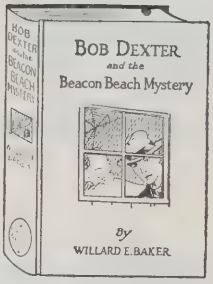
After their ship and companions have perished in tempest, the boys are adrift in a small boat on a lonely sea when they spy a ship. Such a strange vessel!—no hand guiding it, not a soul aboard—a derelict. They take possession, resolving to sail into port and claim salvage, but find themselves in the clutch of a ghastly mystery instead. They clear that up only to become involved in a stranger one.

The Bob Dexter Series

By WILLARD F. BAKER

Author of "Boy Rancher Series"

THIS is a new line of stories for boys, by the author of the Boy Ranchers series. The Bob Dexter books are of the character that may be called detective stories, yet they are without the objectionable features of the impossible characters and absurd situations that mark so many of the books in that class. These stories deal with the up-to-date adventures of a normal, healthy lad who has a great desire to solve mysteries, and the volumes relate in an entertaining way how he does it.



12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Colored Jacket. Price, per volume, $1.00

1. BOB DEXTER AND THE CLUB-HOUSE MYSTERY.

Or The Missing Golden Eagle.

THIS story tells how the Boys' Athletic Club was despoiled of its trophies in a strange manner, and how, among other things stolen, was the Golden Eagle mascot. How Bob Dexter turned himself into an amateur detective and found not only the mascot, but discovered who had taken it, makes interesting and exciting reading.

2. BOB DEXTER AND THE BEACON BEACH MYSTERY.

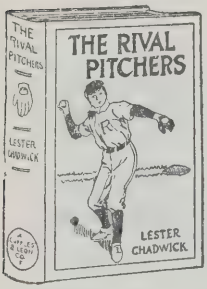
Or The Wreck of the Sea Hawk

WHEN Bob and his chum went to Beacon Beach for their summer vacation, they were plunged, almost at once, into a strange series of events, not the least of which was the sinking of the Sea Hawk. How some men tried to get the treasure off the sunken vessel, and how Bob and his chum foiled them, and learned how it happened that the lighthouse beacon was extinguished so often, forms the basis of this tale.

3. BOB DEXTER AND THE STORM MOUNTAIN MYSTERY.

Or The Secret of the Log Cabin

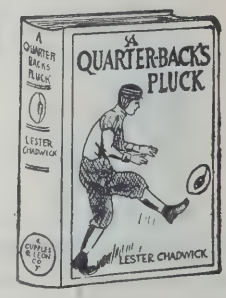
BOB DEXTER came upon a man mysteriously injured and befriended him. This led the young detective into the swirling midst of a series of strange events and into the companionship of strange persons, not the least of whom was the man with the wooden leg. But Bob got the best of this vindictive individual, and solved the mystery of the log cabin, showing his friends how the seemingly impossible feat of a man going through a closed door was worked.



The College Sports Series

By LESTER CHADWICK

Mr. Chadwick has played on the diamond and on the gridiron himself, and has proved himself a coach of no mean ability.



12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Colored Jacket. Price, per volume, $1.00

1. THE RIVAL PITCHERS
A Story of College Baseball

WHEN Tom Parsons came to Randall College he was looked upon by some as a mere country boy, a "hayseed." He soon showed his ability and was put on the scrub team. Another pitcher was jealous of him and did his best to keep Tom off the leading nine.

2. A QUARTERBACK'S PLUCK
A Story of College Football

OF all college and university sports football is undoubtedly king, and in this story Mr. Chadwick has risen to the occasion and told a story straight out of his own heart and one that is bound to grip the reader from the first.

3. BATTING TO WIN
A Story of College Baseball

AS before, Tom, Phil and Sid are to the front. Sid, in particular has developed into a heavy hitter, and the nine depends upon him to bring in the needed runs. Then some thing happens, and poor, misjudged Sid is debarred from playing.

4. THE WINNING TOUCHDOWN
A Story of College Football

FOOTBALL was a serious proposition at Randall that year. There had been the loss of several old players, and then, almost at the last moment, another good player had to be dropped. They went to work and practically reorganized the eleven, and made that glorious touchdown that won the big game.

5. FOR THE HONOR OF RANDALL
A Story of College Athletics

NOW the boys are on the track, and the winning of the hurdle race, hundred-yard dash and long-distance run are told in Mr. Chadwick's best style. There is a mystery, and a wealth of information on athletic contests.

6. THE EIGHT-OARED VICTORS
A Story of College Water Sports

ONCE more we meet the lads of Randall College. This time the scene is shifted from baseball, football and track athletics, to boating, and the particulars are given of some great aquatic races, including an eight-oared shell race of the never-to-be-forgotten variety.

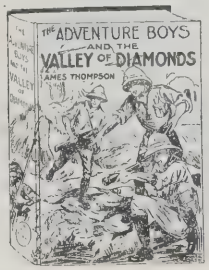
The Jewel Series

By AMES THOMPSON



Stories brimming with real adventure, vivid and accurate in detail, and with a good foundation of probability. They take the reader realistically to the scene of action.

Besides being lively and full of real situations, the books are written in a natural, straightforward style, very attractive to boy readers.

12 mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Jacket in colors.
Price per volume, 65 cents.

1. THE ADVENTURE BOYS AND THE VALLEY OF DIAMONDS

Malcolm Edwards and his son Ralph are hardy adventurers with ample means for following up their interest in jewel clues. In this book they form a party of five, including Jimmy Stone and Bret Hartson, two boys Ralph's age, and a shrewd, level headed sailor named Stanley Greene, and set out to find a valley of diamonds in the heart of Africa.

There are spies, and narrow escapes of all sorts, and ferocious natives, and with it all a great deal of fun.

2. THE ADVENTURE BOYS AND THE RIVER OF EMERALDS

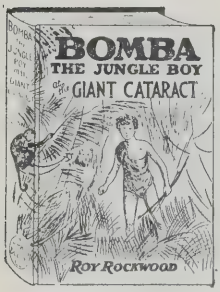
The five adventurers, staying in a hotel in San Francisco, find that Pedro, an elevator man, has an interesting story to tell of a hidden "river of emeralds" in Peru. The idea appeals to Mr. Edwards, and with Pedro as guide they set out to find it. This Pedro, by the way, furnishes much amusement all through the trip.

The river of emeralds is a surprise in many ways when they finally get to it after escaping the traps set for them by jealous Peruvians.

3. THE ADVENTURE BOYS AND THE LAGOON OF PEARLS

They start out on a pleasure cruise in their yacht "The Wanderer" meaning to stop off at the South Sea Island of Guadualcar to visit a missionary friend of Mr. Edwards', and to leave him a phonograph he has been wanting. The fun starts when they get into trouble with the head hunters on the island.

Then, all except one of the boys are stricken with tropical fever. They have some hair-raising experiences, but are rewarded by a wonderful pearl discovery.



The Bomba Books

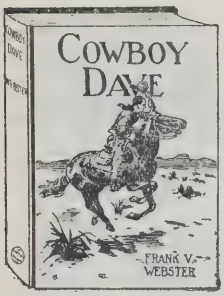
THE BOY RANCHERS help to capture Delton's Gang, who are engaged in smuggling Chinese across the border. They are amply rewarded.



The Webster Series for Boys

By FRANK V. WEBSTER

WE have made a distinct find in Mr. Frank V. Webster, who is under contract to write exclusively for us. We are his sole publishers, and all of the books he has written are listed on this page and the next. Mr. Webster's style is much like that of the late lamented Horatio Alger, Jr., but his tales are all up-to-date. These are the cleanest, cleverest, boys' stories obtainable to-day.

Each book has a specially designed wrapper, in full color.

12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, per volume, 65 cents

THEODORE ROOSEVELT: HERO TO HIS VALET, by James Amos.

For twenty years the author was the personal attendant of Theodore Roosevelt. Here he tells the story of those years, presenting a new picture of Roosevelt.

"A very intimate account, written in a pleasant, natural manner that makes it exceedingly readable. . . . Worth adding to any Roosevelt collection for its human and personal note."—The Chicago Evening Post.

Cloth. 12*mo. Illustrated.* $2.00

COUNTERPOINT, by Josephine Daskam Bacon.

Mrs. Bacon's first full length novel in ten years—a work more ambitious in scope than any of her previous novels and one destined, in the publisher's belief, to equal if not to exceed her success of several years ago, Margarita's Soul. Counterpoint is a story of today written from a thoroughly modern viewpoint, but with the spaciousness of the novels of a generation ago. The story deals with the interplay of four rich personalities: Mary Falconer, the prima donna, magnificent in her lawlessness; Naomi, her vivid, independent young accompanist; George Frascogni, great artist and great lover, and Will Stickney, the Puritan, drawn into this exotic circle of artists who live at concert pitch.

Ready in September. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.50

THAT LAST INFIRMITY, The Epic of a Social Climber, by Charles Brackett.

Armed with a million dollars and a mother's pride in her lovely daughters, Aloysia McCarthy, a charming Irish widow, sets out upon the conquest of the world.

"Entertainment of the first order. Full of sparkling episodes."—The New York World. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

MY HERESY, The Autobiography of an Idea, by Bishop William Montgomery Brown.

The life story of a man who lost a religion and found a faith.

"A bit of palpitating humanity. The terror of a little book like this is that it takes the starch out of everybody who reads it."—REV. WILLIAM NORMAN GUTHRIE. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

THE MAN WHO WAS BORN AGAIN, by Paul Busson. Translated by Prince Mirski and Thomas Moult.

A blending of the picaresque and the supernatural. This tale of robust living in a vivid age is filled with a vigor and excitement that give reality to its most uncanny episodes. Jacket and end-papers by Mahlon Blaine.

Ready in August. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.50

SHADOWS WAITING, by Eleanor Carroll Chilton.

Described by its author as "A melodrama of the intellect," this novel has been widely acclaimed by critics as a book of unusual beauty and interest.

"It is simply and solely one of the finest, ablest, most distinguished and most beautifully written books that America has produced in a good many years."—The New Republic. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.50

THE BOOK OF THE GLOUCESTER FISHERMEN, by James B. Connolly. Illustrated by Henry O'Connor.

The saga of a disappearing breed of American heroes. This is a book of the rough sea, written by a man who has sailed it with the men whose courageous exploits he records. In his many books of fiction, Mr. Connolly has written nothing more dramatic than this true tale of the men of Gloucester.

Ready in September. Buckram. Octavo. Boxed. Illustrated. $5.00

THE PEOPLE NEXT DOOR, An Interpretive History of Mexico and the Mexicans, by George Creel.

A rounded picture of Mexican history from the dawn of American civilization down to the present day. Vivid personalities, battles and intrigue quicken its pages.

"Covers a great deal of ground with a celerity that is amazing."—The New York Times. Cloth. Octavo. With two maps. $4.00

An assembly of essays and studies in Mr. Davis' characteristic vein, most of which have attracted wide attention when they appeared in such magazines as Harper's, The Saturday Review of Literature, etc. The collection includes: Portrait of a Cleric, which created a sensation upon its appearance in a magazine; The Age of Impotence, Have Faith in Indiana, Portrait of an Elected Person, and other studies of the manners and personalities of these times.

Ready in September. Boards. 12*mo.* $2.50

IN SUCH A NIGHT, by Babette Deutsch.

A novel recounting the drama of one night's events, told successively from inside the minds of several characters. Caught at a peak of emotional intensity, a dozen lives are silhouetted against a festive background.

"A finely done novel in the modern manner . . . she gives you at least six unforgettable portraits."—Sunset Magazine. Boards. 12*mo.* $2.00

THE ARRESTED MOMENT & OTHER STORIES, by Charles Caldwell Dobie.

A collection of short stories selected from the best work of a man who has achieved an enviable reputation in this field. Mr. Dobie's short stories have not only commanded the attention of a large magazine public but have won high praise from critics who find an unusual technical excellence in his work. Every story in the book has been three-starred by Edward J. O'Brien.

Ready in September. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.50

LESS THAN KIN, by Charles Caldwell Dobie.

Set in San Francisco and the California hills, Less Than Kin tells the story of a group of persons whose fortunes are subtly dominated by a woman, the notorious Selina Parsons, procuress and dealer in perjuries, intent upon a curious revenge.

"Never has the drama of 'self-possession' been better done."—Lawrence Rising.

Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

THE GOLDEN COMPLEX, A Defence of Inferiority, by Lee Wilson Dodd.

"This very original book is as wise as it is witty. Perhaps Mr. Dodd is sometimes 'spoofing,' yet for all its light humor, this is a serious book, a frontal attack, a genuine satire, and the general reader is likely to learn more modern psychology from it than from a dozen partisan tomes. . . . It should be an excellent choice for reading circles and discussion clubs."—Henry Seidel Canby in Book-of-the-Month Club News.

Boards. 12*mo.* $1.75

CONTEMPORARY EUROPEAN WRITERS, by William A. Drake.

A series of essays on some forty notable figures in various literatures, including Jean Cocteau, Pierre Louys, Luigi Pirandello, Vladimir Mayakovsky, Paul Valery, Franz Werfel, Jacinto Benavente, Paul Morand, Karel Capek, and Jakob Wassermann.

Ready in September. Cloth. Decimo. $2.50

THE SORCERER'S APPRENTICE, by Hanns Heinz Ewers. Translated by Ludwig Lewisohn. With Illustrations by Mahlon Blaine.

The first of this noted German writer's novels to be translated into English. It tells of the progress of religious hysteria among a group of peasants whose minds have been inflamed by a stranger.

"A fierce and perilous tale. . . . The intense power of the narrative, the thrilling horror of its climax, would be sufficient merit for any book."—The New York Herald-Tribune.

One of the Fifty Books of the Year chosen by the American Institute of Graphic Arts for typographic merit.

PINWHEEL, A Play, by Francis Edwards Faragoh.

A modernistic drama of Manhattan, first produced by The Neighborhood Playhouse in New York, February 4, 1927.

"In 'Pinwheel' he sets down, in an ultra-modern, impressionistic but withal in an artistically sane and balanced manner, his impression of New York as an essential entity, a direct force."—The Hartford Daily Courant.

Cloth. 12*mo.* $1.50

SALAMMBÔ, by Gustave Flaubert. Illustrated by Mahlon Blaine.

Flaubert's magnificent story of ancient Carthage has at last been given an adequate setting in this edition, uniform in general style with The Sorcerer's Apprentice, by Hanns Heinz Ewers. Mr. Blaine's drawings are especially adapted to the illustration of a book of so barbaric a nature. The translation, which is complete and unexpurgated, has been edited with an introduction by Ben Ray Redman. Ready in October. Cloth. Octavo. Boxed. With numerous full page illustrations and drawings. $5.00

THE CONQUEROR'S STONE, by Berry Fleming.

A novel of romance and adventure in the Carolinas of the year 1766. The dark career of Nicholas Waine, pirate and fine gentleman, reaches its height in the crowded weeks of his visit to his father's plantation.

"A piratical tale it is, one with an unusual appeal, with all the blaze and action that can be crowded into a book."—The Macon Telegraph.

Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

WILD, by Carol Denny Hill.

These chapters in the blithe career of a youthful seeker after Culture and Experience form a faithful if slyly mocking picture of the adventures in college and night clubs of one who has lived wildly if not too long.

Ready in August. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

NOTABLE BRITISH TRIALS. Edited by Harry Hodge.

A series of volumes which have enjoyed wide popularity in England and abroad as a unique and fascinating library of crime. This series includes more than forty titles, each containing a transcript of the testimony at the trial and a lengthy introduction by a well known writer. The following six volumes are now ready. Small octavo. Cloth. Each volume $3.50

The Trial of Abraham Thornton (1817). Edited by Sir John Hall, Bart.

Abraham Thornton's trial for murder and criminal assault is memorable as having brought about a change in the law, the scandals attached to the proceedings resulting in the abolition of appeals of murder and the ordeal by battle.

The Trial of Burke and Hare (1828). Edited by William Roughead.

The magnitude of the crimes of this notorious pair, who confessed to sixteen murders, set a record in homicide. Incited by the large sums paid by anatomists for subjects for dissection, they established in Edinburgh a sort of murder factory in order to supply surgeons with material.

The Trial of Madeleine Smith (1857). Edited by F. Tennyson Jesse.

When Madeleine Smith, daughter of a respected citizen of Glasgow, became engaged, she endeavored to secure certain compromising letters which she had written to Pierre Emile L'Angelier, with whom she had had a clandestine association. Her attempts were unsuccessful. L'Angelier died suddenly. At the trial the case for the Crown was that Miss Smith had given L'Angelier cocoa poisoned with arsenic.

The Trial of Mrs. Maybrick (1889). Edited by H. B. Irving.

James Maybrick, a Liverpool cotton broker, died at his home under mysterious circumstances. A suspicion had arisen in the minds of his attendants that his wife was attempting to poison him. She was arrested, tried for his murder, and convicted. The justice of her conviction, gravely questioned at the time, has been the subject of criticism ever since.

The Trial of Oscar Slater (1909). Edited by William Roughead.

Few cases have occasioned more sensational rumors than that of Oscar Slater, who was tried for the murder of Miss Marion Gilchrist. The obvious weakness of certain links in the formidable chain forged by the Crown, the surprising verdict and the illogical reprieve combine to merit for this case a conspicuous niche in the gallery of Scottish causes celebres.

The Trial of Herbert Rowse Armstrong (1922). Edited by Filson Young.

Among the murderers specializing in arsenical poisoning, Armstrong might be described as the tea-time poisoner. His was a simple and ingenious method, if people would only come to tea. Mr. Justice Darling, who tried the case, characterized it as "deeply interesting" and "of very great importance to the public."

GEORGE SAND: THE SEARCH FOR LOVE, by Marie Jenney Howe.

This biography is a sympathetic portrayal and interpretation of one of the most gifted and contradictory figures of modern times—the first modern woman. Mrs. Howe shows us the fascinating spectacle of a woman reared in the most conventional traditions transformed into the freest spirit of her generation. George Sand is presented to us as pioneer of feminine freedom, as lover and as woman of genius. The publishers believe that this book will prove to be one of the important biographies of the fall.

Ready in October. Cloth. Octavo. Illustrated. $5.00

AT THE SIGN OF SAGITTARIUS, by R. B. Ince.

Philosophic satire, fantasy and humor underlie these eleven tales engendered under the Sign of the Archer, "a rebellious sign; a sceptical sign; a rascally Voltairian sign."

"A civilized book, a witty book, an ironic and satiric book."—Harry Salpeter in The New York World. Boards. 12*mo.* $2.00

THE VICTORY MURDERS, by Foster Johns.

French, English and American crime experts join forces to solve the mystery of two curiously-linked murders and to avert a threatened third.

"There is a triple mystery and the entire novel is based upon a motive new in fiction. It makes an interesting story with plenty of excitement and suspense."—The Boston Globe. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

THE BLACK ANGELS, by Maud Hart Lovelace.

A novel of youth in a younger America, the story of the Angel Operatic and Concert Troupe, beginning in the days before the Civil War and following the Troupe's vagabond fortunes into the eighties.

"Perfectly charming. The book has a swing to it and a lilt that is like one of the songs."—Arthur Gibbs. Cloth. 12*mo.* $2.00

TAVERNS OF OLD ENGLAND, by Henry Parr Maskell, author of Old Country Inns. Illustrated with line drawings by Alan S. Gill.

Mr. Maskell describes pleasantly and with the enthusiasm of one who is at once a humanist and an antiquary the history and traditions of the most famous and some of the more obscure of English taverns. His book is a contribution to the history of a byegone custom and a guide for the curious traveler.

Ready in September. Octavo. With numerous illustrations. $4.00

THE BIBLE IN IRELAND, by Asenath Nicholson. Edited by Alfred Tresidder Sheppard.

A first-person account of the journeyings of "an American Borrow" in Ireland during the early part of the Nineteenth Century.

"A fascinating story, full of humor, pathos, shrewd observation, exciting adventure and heroic sacrifice."—The New York World.

Cloth. Small Octavo. $3.00

CHINA AND THE POWERS, by Henry Kittredge Norton.

A survey of the present situation in China, as it affects the United States and other powers.

"By far the most realistic, sensible, practical discussion I have ever seen of foreign relations with the Chinese people."—William Hard.

Cloth. Octavo. With five maps. $4.00

INTERNATIONAL ENCYCLOPÆDIA, THE NEW — Edited by FRANK MOORE COLBY, M. A., and TALCOTT WILLIAMS, LL.D., L.H.D., Litt.D. Assisted by nearly 500 editors and contributors.

Published in two forms. Regular Edition, 25 volumes, Green Cloth, $156.00, Red Library Buckram, $168.00, Black Full Leather, $230.00. Popular-Priced Edition, 13 volumes, identical as to contents with the 25 volume edition, bound in green cloth only, price $105.00. Sold on easy monthly payments, or less 5% for cash in full.

Comprises 80,000 articles, 800 full page illustrations, of which 100 are in color, numerous text cuts. 200 maps in color forming a complete gazetteer of the world. Every article in THE NEW INTERNATIONAL ENCYCLOPAEDIA has been especially written for it. The articles are alphabetically arranged, making an index unnecessary. Unusual title words are pronounced and derivations given. Guide to pronunciation in each volume. Each set contains Courses of Reading and Study covering principal departments of knowledge. Important articles supplemented by splendid bibliographies. An American work written from an American viewpoint, but thoroughly international in scope and character. The statements are clear, succinct, authoritative and impartial. Definite and accurate information is given which it is only now possible to collect. The aim has been to include every topic in the developing history of human knowledge which could by any chance be of interest to the professional man, student or general reader.

INTERNATIONAL YEAR BOOK, THE NEW—A compendium of the world's progress in every department of human knowledge. A special volume, published in May of each year, beginning with 1907. Invaluable to libraries, colleges and schools. For full particulars address Subscription Department.

THE BATTLEFIELDS OF SCOTLAND, THEIR LEGEND AND STORY

In this volume the author tells the story of the battlefields of Scotland. He describes the scenes which witnessed the long and bitter struggle for national, and afterward for religious, freedom; and finally, the romantic but disastrous Jacobite attempt on behalf of the ancient Stuarts. References are given, drawn from the best authorities and from original sources.

CARSON, WILLIAM E.

NORTHCLIFFE: BRITAIN'S MAN OF POWER

"There is not one page in "Northcliffe: Britain's Man of Power" that is not in one sense or another a valuable contribution to the history of our time.

"Mr. Carson has done his work well. His book will remain a notable one. So far Lord Northcliffe stands alone. His broad vision of journalism, his bold daring, his phenomenal keenness, combined with an intelligent respect for standards and enlightened patriotism, make of him a unique personality in which may be found the very triumph of individualism."—The Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

Just Then Something Happened! A story for Children. Cloth, $1.50 Net

"It is a sort of Baron Munchausen, Sinbad the Sailor and Alice in Wonderland all rolled together. The youngster who likes invention, thrilling situations, unlooked-for ways of escape and a delicious foolishness as a background for it all, will find them here a-plenty. Mr. Cooke's inventiveness is only equalled by his humor and wit. From the juvenile point of view, he is a crackajack of a story-teller."

The Story Club. Stories for Children. Cloth, $1.75 Net

There are no less than forty-four bright, new, interesting stories for children within the covers of this book. Any child of six years to sixteen will understand and enjoy them. "The Vinegator," "The Gassowary," "The Cave of the Eatercow," "The Little, Lame Angel," are some of the titles. The book is fully illustrated in colors.

Told to the Little Tot. Stories for Children. Cloth, $1.75 Net

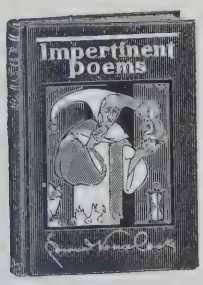
Here is a book of stories for the little folks, beautifully illustrated by Bessie Collins Pease. "The best written of all the books for quite small children," says the The Los Angeles Times, and parents who think enough of their children to give them real books of well-told stories, amusing and adapted to their infant minds, will want to know this book.

Chronicles of the Little Tot. Poems about Children. Cloth, $1.75 Net

Edward Howard Griggs and other eminent critics hailed this volume as being equal to the child poems of Stevenson, Riley and Field, and the New York American added, "There is a spontaneity to the humor, a touching realism to the pathos and a pervasive beauty in the sentiments, that raise this collection of Mr. Cooke's verses to heights seldom attained, even by the poets referred to."

I Rule the House. Poems about Children. Cloth, $1.50 Net

Of this second book of child verse, it is enough to say that it fully equals "Chronicles of the Little Tot" in its content. "The Sin of the Coppenter Man," "The Conqueror," "When Comp'ny Comes," "The Little Boy Snake," "The Monkey Man," "The Cooky Moon," "The Geographic Child" are a few of the poems of this book which are known and loved wherever there are children.



Impertinent Poems. Poems Men Like.
Cloth, $1.75 Net

"Impertinent Poems" with their keen insight into human nature, their colloquial habit of speech, their ingenious metricism and their whimsical sympathy established a new school of verse-making. Contains "How Did You Die," "Let's Be Glad We Are Living," etc.

Little Songs for Two. Love Poems.
Cloth, $1.50 Net

These are love lyrics, of course. "Forty-one delicious, finely sentimental poems written in inimitable style," says the Portland Oregonian, and the San Francisco Call adds that they are "As exquisite as any of the work upon which he has built his reputation." This is an ideal gift book for lovers of all ages.

Rimes to be Read. Miscellaneous Poems.
Cloth, $1.75 Net

This book contains a wide variety of story-poems and character-sketches, ranging from the foolery of "The Young Man Waited," the satire of "The Other One Was Booth," and the keenness of "Fin de Siecle" to the tense dramatic interest of "Connor McCarthy," causing Thomas E. Watson to exclaim in a magazine review, "Did Bryant or Whittier or Lowell write verses better than these?"

The Uncommon Commoner and similar songs of democracy. Cloth, $1.75 Net

"Since Whitman there has been no other poet who so surely gripped the vital things of democracy," says Secretary of War Baker. "Most of the lessons which the world is now learning will be found simply and winsomely told in this volume." William Allen White commends the "straight-from-the-shoulder" style, and Brand Whitlock expresses his debt of gratitude for the poems, which he says he owes "in common with all Americans."

New Oriental Edition

The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam

Translated By Edward Fitzgerald with Photographic Illustrations
by Adelaide Hanscom
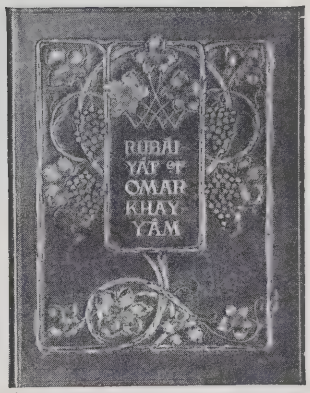
and
Blanche Cummings
With Border Designs and Decorations



This edition has been pronounced by critics to be one of the most remarkable examples of photographic art ever presented to the public, and is certain to attract wide attention.

The artists have had the assistance and advice of Dr. Orlof Orlow in arranging the costumes. Among the well-known persons who may be recognized are Joaquim Miller, George Wharton James, George Sterling, and Professor Charles Keeler, who posed as models, lending much to the value of the work by their thoughtful interpretation of the verses.

The San Francisco Chronicle says: "A new edition of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam has appeared, illustrated with photographs which are a revelation of the value of photographic art for illustrating books. The careful attention to the smallest details of Persian symbolism in the costumes and attitudes of the models and the manner in which the artists have caught the spirit of the whole poem are highly praiseworthy, and show a great amount of careful artistic work. The artists were greatly assisted by friends, who volunteered to pose as models for the photographs. All of the border designs for the pages were also executed by Miss Hanscom and Miss Cummings. The illustrations in duo-tone are printed on fine plate paper. Each illustration is set in a panel. This edition is one of the noteworthy holiday books of the season and is worth the attention of anyone who is looking for a gift that is out of the usual."

RANDALL, JOHN HERMAN

THE ESSENCE OF DEMOCRACY

Democracy is the great word of the hour. Never before has this great word dominated so largely the world's thinking. When President Wilson set forth his reasons for the entrance of the United States into the world's greatest conflict, summing it all up in that new classic phrase "to make the world safe for Democracy," he established it forever as the practical ideal for human striving the whole world round.

In his usual convincing manner he shows that real Democracy is a thing of the inner life, and must not only be a belief, but an experience.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF POWER OR WHAT TO LIVE FOR

The demand of the 20th century is not so much for new beliefs as for actual knowledge. While there will always be a place in human life for speculative thought and as long as one thinks at all for one's self, he must formulate some philosophy of life, still what every man must live by is the knowledge born out of actual experience. With the crumbling of the old traditional creeds, there will continue to come ever new and fresh restatements of the basic truths of life. But the need of the hour is for a formulation of the practical principles which everyday experience has demonstrated to be most effective in bringing life to the fullness of all its latent powers.

In his new book, "The Philosophy of Power," Dr. Randall attempts such a formulation of principles, apart from all doctrinal questions of speculative interest. It might be regarded as the Creed of the practical man who cares little about theology or dogma, and yet who is conscious of a need of some practical working philosophy for life.

THE LIFE OF REALITY

In these days of great personal perplexities, and gigantic world-problems, every thoughtful man and woman is earnestly bent upon the search for reality. Out of the din of conflicting voices, out of the chaotic confusion of clashing opinions, one question emerges supreme over all. Amid all the deceptive appearances of life and in spite of life's disillusionments, is there such a thing as Reality, to which our human gropings may lead? Can it be found and experienced in the daily storm and stress of life, and if so, what is the pathway by which man may approach and live "the life that is life indeed"?

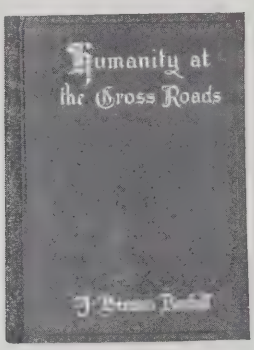
Dr. Randall firmly believes that such a real life is possible to every man, and in the chapters of this book he seeks to point out the sources and nature of that Reality for which, since the world began, every soul has been searching either consciously or unconsciously, the various paths of experience through which one moves toward the great discovery, and the resulting freedom and power in the life of the individual, who has attained the soul's supreme quest.

5¼ x 7½. Cloth, $2.00 Net



HUMANITY AT THE CROSS-ROADS

The writer believes that the true ideals of any people grow out of its actual philosophy of life and its conception of religion. Organized religion to-day has failed to grasp the significance of the new truth and seems powerless to furnish the vital forms of expression through which the resurging life shall find adequate and living manifestation. Can religion regain its lost leadership and give to the world the great ethical and spiritual dynamic demanded in the new age now dawning?

5¼ x 7½. Cloth, $2.00 Net

THE CULTURE OF PERSONALITY

This inspiring work is divided into fourteen thoughtful chapters on various aspects of personality, on the training of the mind, the mastery of the affections, the education of the will, and kindred themes.

A NEW PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE

It is the hope of the author that the philosophy of life herein set forth may tend, for some minds at least, to bring Science and Religion into closer harmony, and help to throw new light upon the pathway that leads to fullness of Peace and Power.

5¼ x 7½. Cloth, $2.00 Net

THE IRREPRESSIBLE CONFLICT IN RELIGION

In this his latest book Dr. Randall has taken up the problem of the fundamentalist-modernist controversy, which has come to such open and almost violent expression in the past few years.

The outstanding and underlying causes of the controversy are traced from the Protestant Reformation down through the ages to the World War and the present widespread knowledge and application of scientific methods and ideas.

Dr. Randall has in his own inimitable style laid down and laid open the facts of the case. He points out the permanent irrepressibility of the differences between the two parties which hold such opposing views within the same religion, and takes the position that none of the questions that are so hotly debated today go to the heart of religion but only represent the imperfect rationalization about religion.

There has been no glozing over the points of differences in the controversy by the author, and they are presented with an utter lack of bitterness or prejudice. Dr. Randall has written a book which will have a wide appeal, and will prove of great interest to both the layman and the student, because of the timely subject matter, together with his capable and agreeable style of writing.

AMBITION. By Sir John Lubbock.

Masterly Essays by this world-renowned thinker on a subject which has inspired men to a glorious memory in the making of history and moulding our opinions of Health, Wealth, Music, etc.

ARMANDE. By Edmond and Jules de Goncourt. Translated by Alfred E. Haserick and with an introduction by W. D. Orcutt.

Of the Brothers Goncourt, Victor Hugo says, "Charming writers, two minds from which spring a single jet of genius." Armande is their masterpiece.

BALLAD OF READING GAOL. By Oscar Wilde.

Only when neglected and despised, ill and miserable, did sincere feeling bring forth in Oscar Wilde his one great poem, "The Ballad of Reading Gaol;" the utter hopelessness of the condemned felon is communicated to the reader's mind in all its gruesome intensity.

BEAUTIES OF NATURE. By Sir John Lubbock.

An inspiring essay on the blessings of life and the beautiful world in which we live, to which are added strong essays on The Troubles of Life, Labor and Rest, Religion, The Hope of Progress, etc.

CHRISTMAS CAROL. By Chas. Dickens.

This familiar story possesses perennial interest for young and old. Whether regarded as a ghost story, a character study, or a parable, the "Christmas Carol" is one of the most brilliant tales in English literature.

CORSAIR AND LARA. By Lord Byron. With an introduction by M. F. Sweetser.

The extraordinary interest at the present time in Byron demands that two of his complete works be presented in this series. No better understanding of this "wild child of nature" can be obtained than in Corsair and Lara.

COURTSHIP OF MILES STANDISH. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The incident on which the story of The Courtship of Miles Standish is based was a tradition in the family of the author and is a good portrayal of early colonial life.

DESTRUCTION OF POMPEII. By Pliny and Bulwer.

Two interesting descriptions of the Destruction of Pompeii: one by Pliny, the greatest scientist of the ancient world, who wrote as an eye-witness.

DISCOURSES OF EPICTETUS. Selections.

In Sir John Lubbock's "List of the One Hundred Best Books," the Bible is first, the "Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius" second, and "Epictetus" third.

ELEGY AND OTHER POEMS. By Thomas Gray.

The "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" occupies as secure a place among English classics as "Hamlet" or "Paradise Lost," but some readers may not realize that several poems by Gray are equally perfect and impressive. This collection contains all of Gray's verse which is really worth knowing.

ENOCH ARDEN. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

In "Enoch Arden" we have one of the most beautiful and pathetic poems in the English language. Had Tennyson never written another line, he would have gone down in history as one of the greatest poets of his time.

EVANGELINE. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The purity, sweetness and refinement with which Longfellow delineates the affections of the heart make his poetry the most welcome of visitants at the domestic fireside, and of all his poems, "Evangeline" is probably the most popular.

FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE. By Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Mr. Emerson is no bookish theorist. He does not draw his conclusions from syllogisms, but from his personal observations of men and things.

GOLD BUG. By Edgar Allan Poe. With a biographical sketch of the author.

A story of great effect and absorbing interest, one of those rare books that once opened is not closed until the last paragraph is finished.

GOLDEN THOUGHTS. By Fenelon.

Judiciously made extracts from the letters of the great archbishop. Fenelon united in his personality the sweetness of the saint with the strength of the reformer, and his personal correspondence contains the very heart and soul of religious devotion.

GOLDEN WINGS. A Prose Romance and a Poem. By William Morris.

Two early productions of Morris's with the same title. The Prose Romance, written in 1856, while still a student at Oxford, and the Poem, two years later, both of which show the irresistible and quaint charm apparent in all the later writings of this architect, painter, designer, craftsman, socialist and author—who, on the death of Tennyson, was thought by many would be the next Poet Laureate.

HEROISM AND CHARACTER. By Ralph Waldo Emerson.

As Friendship and Love are linked, so Heroism and Character are complementary. In fact, we perceive a strong connection between the four subjects.

HOLY GRAIL. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

This idyl, which must rank as one of the greatest of Tennyson's poetical achievements, came to him suddenly, "as if by a breath of inspiration."

KING OF THE GOLDEN RIVER. By John Ruskin.

"The King of the Golden River" was written in 1841, at the request of a very young lady, and solely for her amusement, without any idea of publication. Later, with the passive assent of Ruskin, the charming allegory was publicly printed, and literature is thereby the gainer of this most pleasing little work.

L'ARLESIENNE. By Alphonse Daudet. With a biographical sketch by M. F. Sweetser.

L'Arlesienne is the best of Daudet's dramas, and is responsible for his fame as a playwright as well as a novelist.

LADY MONTAGU. Selected Letters.

Lady Mary Montagu, who lived from 1690 to 1762, derived her marvellous literary talents from her relationship to Henry Fielding, the novelist, and Sir John Evelyn, the diarist.

LEAVES OF GRASS. Selections. By Walt Whitman.

Walt Whitman is looked upon as the one distinctive American poet, the product of our New World democracy. Though perhaps lacking in grace, his poems are inspired by his enthusiasm and humanitarianism, and in every line the reader sees the personality of the poet—noble, generous and lofty—a great man in the highest sense of the word.

LETTERS TO A YOUNG MAN ABOUT TOWN. By William Makepeace Thackeray.

These charming but comparatively little known essays originally appeared in Punch, and, until the present edition, have been reissued in a volume by themselves but once, and then in a privately printed book now extremely rare. In his humorous and satirical manner, Thackeray shows up the follies and life of a young man about town in the middle of the nineteenth century.

LITTLE BOOK OF GERMAN WISDOM. Collected by Rev. Claude Field, M.A.

A choice collection of epigrams, quotations, etc., from the famous German statesmen, authors, etc.

LORD CHESTERFIELD'S LETTERS. Selections.

These letters of sound counsel and practical advice, addressed to his son, Philip, are what Lord Chesterfield's reputation rests upon, and it is through these that the name of Chesterfield has become symbolic of culture and refinement.

LOVE LETTERS OF A VIOLINIST. By Eric Mackay.

Originally published in England, with the name of the author suppressed, these charming love sonnets created much discussion as to authorship, some even claiming they were the work of Swinburne—from whom only it seemed could originate the fertility of thought, grace of language, ingenuity, skill in the ars poetica, wealth of words, and classic resources.

MANON LESCAUT. Vol. I. By L'Abbé Prévost. With an introduction by M. F. Sweetser.

MANON LESCAUT. Vol. II.

Not only in French, but in the emotional literature of our world has Manon Lescaut taken a classical place, and is a profound lesson drawn from weakness of human nature.

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY. By Edward Everett Hale.

Written to foster patriotism during the Civil War, "The Man Without a Country" still holds to-day as large a claim as ever on the English-reading public.

MEN AND WOMEN. By Robert Browning.

Browning is known the world over for his deep-veined humanity and rare faculty of dramatic representation. These poems have as much red blood in them as the dramas of Shakespeare. The present volume contains all the principal favorites which have sung themselves into the memory of every reader who loves vigorous, manly poetry.

MILTON. By Lord Macaulay.

A profound and masterly essay on the leader of English literature of the seventeenth century by the leading literary critic of the nineteenth century.

PASSION IN THE DESERT, AND AN EPISODE IN THE REIGN OF TERROR. Selected Prose Works of Honoré de Balzac.

Balzac is thought by many competent authorities to be the greatest novelist of the world. His short stories are quite as remarkable in their way as his longer stories, and the very best of them are to be found in the present collection.

POEMS OF SENTIMENT. By Byron.

Probably no poet in the English-speaking world has ever held as high and well recognized a position as a "sentimentalist" as George Gordon, Lord Byron. His master lyrics dealing with the subject of love, consisting principally of his shorter poems, have been selected and edited with the greatest care for this edition.

POOR RICHARD'S ALMANAC. By Benjamin Franklin.

A selection of the best sayings from the numerous issues of "Poor Richard." Helpful and inspiring; the work of a most practical mind, written for a most practical nation.

RAB AND HIS FRIENDS. By Dr. John Brown.

"Rab and His Friends," a story of a mastiff, full of beauty and pathos. In this volume the story of Marjorie Fleming, an interesting case of remarkable precociousness, is also published.

RECESSIONAL AND OTHER VERSES. By Rudyard Kipling.

Including all of the Departmental Ditties.

RIP VAN WINKLE AND THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW. By Washington Irving.

These immortal stories of Dutch life in colonial New York are the best pieces of writing that Mr. Irving contributed to literature. The pathos, quaintness, and wit are impressed upon the reader in a striking way.

ROCHEFOUCAULD'S MAXIMS.

These maxims, written by a cavalier of Richelieu's time, one who knew the world as few have an opportunity of knowing it, are witty, subtle and true. The author has grasped the whole of life, and weakness of human nature, of fashion and conventionalities are strongly depicted.

RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM.

The "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" is one of the greatest contributions that the East has given to literature. The subtle thought, the soft Oriental imagery, and the delicacy of the poetry will appeal to the poetic imagination of all ages.

SALOME. By Oscar Wilde.

Originally published in French, "Salome" was translated into English the following year, and since then translations have appeared in Spanish, Swedish, German, Polish and Russian, showing the truth of the German statement that to-day Oscar Wilde is a "World's Poet" and "Salome" a "World's Play."

SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL. By Sheridan.

Sheridan's comedies are second only to Shakespeare's. "The School for Scandal" undoubtedly his masterpiece, has had an undiminished popularity from the moment it was published to the present day.

SELECTED POEMS. By John Boyle O'Reilly.

Through several causes, but not lack of merit, Boyle O'Reilly is fast becoming merely a name to the generation of to-day. Therefore, pains have here been taken to perpetuate the choicest productions of his pen—poems worthy of rank with the masterpieces of English literature.

SIR ROGER DE COVERLEY PAPERS. By Addison.

The famous "Sir Roger de Coverley Papers" are not only treasured by all students of English literature, but by historians as well. For nowhere do we find a finer description of English life in the eighteenth century than in these papers. Furthermore, in the character of Sir Roger we find the finest delineation in English literature of an ideal gentleman.

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER. By Oliver Goldsmith.

"She Stoops to Conquer" is a comedy abounding in the keenest wit and satire. Human nature is depicted by a masterly observer, and the characters of the play are true to life.

SKETCHES OF YOUNG COUPLES. By Charles Dickens.

Some of the earlier sketches of the immortal Dickens, in which, however, are seen the clear and wonderful characterizations unequaled by any other modern author, and even unsurpassed in his later and better known works. His people live before you.

SNOW-BOUND. By John Greenleaf Whittier.

"Snow-bound" may fairly be said to sum up Whittier's personal experience, and yet so absolutely free is it from egotism that it has taken its place as the representative poem of New England country life.

SOME FRUITS OF SOLITUDE. Reflections and Maxims. By William Penn.

"To quote a book like this were impossible; at least one can hand it on, with a wrench, one to another. Some of the 'Fruits' are sounder, juicier, and grown against a sunnier wall of experience than others, but all are delicate, and the little basket which holds them will be found in all times and places a peaceful and sweet companion."—Robert Louis Stevenson.

SONNETS FROM THE PORTUGUESE. By Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

In the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," a most exquisite series of love poems, we have Mrs. Browning at her best, and in sentiment and lofty rhyme she is at times truly Shakespearian.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT. By Matthew Arnold.

An epoch-making essay, by one of the most cultured, practical and inspiring minds of our century.

TALES OF A WAYSIDE INN. By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Containing some of the best of his shorter poems, the first part of which was brought out in 1863, and which met with immediate success.

THOUGHTS OF MARCUS AURELIUS. Selections.

Marcus Aurelius was the purest and loftiest of the pagan philosophers. "His great work, 'The Thoughts,'" says Lecky, "not only forms one of the most impressive, but also forms one of the truest books in the whole range of religious literature."

UNDINE. By Baron Friedrich de la Motte-Fouque.

The charming and graceful narrative, Undine, is a gem in German literature. It breathes of the fresh fragrance of the woods, and is animated by beautiful thoughts that people the sea and air with nymphs and spirits.

THE VALUE OF TIME AND OTHER ESSAYS. By Sir John Lubbock.

Further maxims and conclusions of a great and wise optimist as well as a thoroughly modern thinker and teacher.

VAMPIRE AND OTHER VERSES. By Rudyard Kipling.

Including all of the Barrack Room Ballads.

VIRGINIBUS PUERISQUE. By Robert Louis Stevenson.

It is refreshing to find a work for boys and girls written by a man of genius, "Virginibus Puerisque" stands high among Mr. Stevenson's writings, and is enjoyed by both old and young.

VISION OF SIR LAUNFAL. By James Russell Lowell.

This great poem is drawn from the famous romance of King Arthur and the Holy Grail, a theme which has furnished inspiration to so many great minds. The "Vision of Sir Launfal" is the best of Lowell's shorter poems.

WERTHER. By J. W. von Goethe. With a biographical sketch of the author.

To appreciate the romantic and sentimental nature of the mighty Goethe one must read Werther. Though o'ershadowed by the author's other works, yet Werther alone would have made him immortal.

WILL O' THE MILL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH. By R. L. Stevenson.

This little parable of a life contains a wonderful moral and is also an irresistibly fascinating story in itself, written in the most exquisite English. Many critics think it Stevenson's masterpiece.

WIT AND WISDOM. By Sidney Smith.

Extracts from Smith's writing and conversations which flash with repartee, good-tempered satire, and wit. The comments on America and Americans are alone worth the price of the little book.

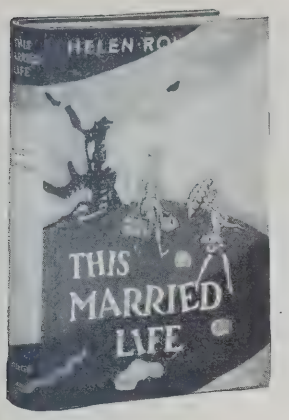
ROWLAND, HELEN

THE WIDOW (TO SAY NOTHING OF THE MAN)

Here is a little book of delightful love stories, brimful of clever, witty epigrams. The Widow is—well, say that she is lovable—only more so; and the man—read, know and love both.

4½ x 7¼. Boards, $1.00 Net



THIS MARRIED LIFE

JUST PUBLISHED!

HELEN ROWLAND'S

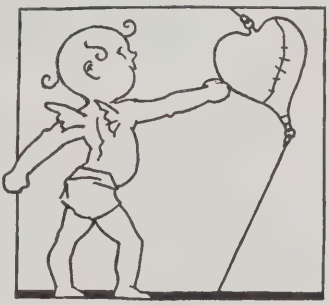
Newest and Cleverest Book

HUMOR—SATIRE—WIT

Provocative and entertaining

We know a man who rose early one morning to look over this book while he was preparing to shave. . . . When he finally got around to that delicate operation, he not only cut himself, but found himself a full hour late for the office as well.

We know a lady—but there! please read for yourself. For here is certainly the most magnificent volume of keen, swift, lovable marriagana that Helen Rowland has ever done. "This wise woman with the high spirited bow," Fannie Hurst calls her—and most assuredly she is!



Printed on excellent paper, with eight illustrations in colors including decorative head and tail pieces with special end papers and jacket by Harold Speakman.

5½ x 7½. Cloth. $2.00 Net

"IF"

A Chant for Wives

and

"THE WHITE WOMAN'S BURDEN"

By HELEN ROWLAND

The author has that happy faculty of putting into words ideas and thoughts felt by women universally in a manner that is serious yet with a poignant wit that strikes home. The book consists of two humorous poems, with line drawings and illustrations opposite each page of text by Harold Speakman. An ideal gift for everyone. Boxed.

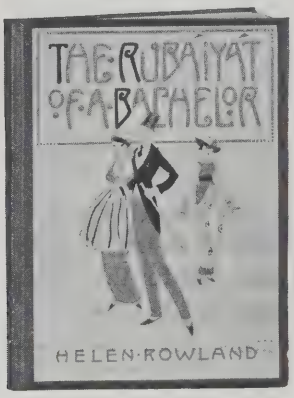
REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

Clever, cynical and witty, with a philosophical trend that will entertain men and women alike —the older ones—the younger ones. Read this book for a mirror likeness to yourself.

Border decorations in color.

5x7½. Boards, $1.00 Net



RUBAIYAT OF A BACHELOR

An exceedingly clever parody both in verse and illustrations. Every yearning, timorous bachelor should read and ponder, so too, each damsel, read and—"then, in your mercy, Friend, forbear to smile."

Illustrations and border decorations by Harold Speakman, attractively bound in cloth with inlay color.

5¾x7½. Cloth, $1.25 Net

A GUIDE TO MEN

Prelude by Fannie Hurst.

Whoever reads this keen, humorous "Guide" will know all that there is to know about the Old Adam—and all the younger ones as well. The author has the astonishing faculty of being able to turn the creature, man, inside out like an old coat, so that all his seams are visible, and what is more, she does it in such a delightful way, that he does not mind at all! A masterpiece of flashing satire. Printed in two colors, with eight full-page illustrations. Border decorations and end papers by Harold Speakman.

THE YOUNGEST SHEPHERD

On the first Christmas night, the shepherds, hurrying down to the stable of the inn at Bethlehem, left their flocks in charge of the youngest shepherd. He, too, started after them, but hearing the cry of a lamb, he turned back to the flocks on the hillside. How he finally came to the inn and the beautiful thing that happened to him there is told in this charming poem. The illustrations, with frontispiece and cover in full color, are by the author.

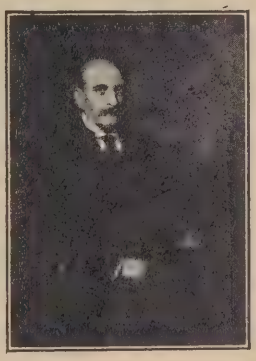
THE PORTRAIT OF A BANKER: JAMES STILLMAN, 1850-1918

By Anna Robeson Burr



The romance of "big" business—of Empire building, runs through this brilliant biography of a great financier, part of which The World's Work has selected to run as a serial this Autumn. Mrs. Burr spent a year of study in this country, Paris and Italy, with confidential access to the letters and affairs of James Stillman, J. Pierpont Morgan, E. H. Harriman, H. H. Rogers, Moses Taylor Pyne, Jacob Schiff and others. Mrs. Burr is the author of "The Autobiography—A Study," "The House on Charles Street," "St. Helios," "West of the Moon," etc.

8vo. 16 Illustrations, $5.00

ANNIE OAKLEY: WOMAN AT ARMS

By Courtney Ryley Cooper

Introduction by Will Rogers

Some weeks ago Annie Oakley died, and bequeathed to Fred Stone, the famous comedian, her diaries and personal papers. Adding these to personal knowledge, Courtney Ryley Cooper, well-known author and friend of Buffalo Bill, has written a splendid biography. A true American epic—the story of a pioneer, who as a little girl, was forced to forage with her gun, in order that her family might not starve, and who eventually became, with Buffalo Bill, internationally famous as a trick marksman, the idol of youth and the darling of royalty.

8vo. 16 Illus., $2.50

"L. M. 8046:"

A DIARY OF THE FOREIGN LEGION

By David Wooster King

Introduction by Hendrick Van Loon

On leaving Harvard, King became a member of the 2nd Regiment, Foreign Legion and later of the 170th French Infantry. He joined the Legion at the outbreak of the World War, and continued until (and after) he was buried by the explosion of a 210" shell, losing the sight of an eye. He received the Citation of the Order of the Brigade for courage at Verdun, and the Cross of the Black Star Benine (Colonial). In this straightforward diary is combined the bravery of a soldier with the art of a true raconteur.

Fully Illustrated, $2.50

FROM CLUE TO DOCK

By C. L. McCluer Stevens

Author of "Famous Crimes and Criminals."

Mr. Stevens is well known for his studies of notorious crimes and their solutions. This volume contains studies of 54 famous cases, divided into the following sub-headings: Small Clues to Big Crimes; Mysteries that have Puzzled the World; When "Justice" has Blundered; Bygone Perils of the Road; Murder by Post; Historical Crimes; Crimes of Love and Passion. Far more interesting than "detective" fiction and a treasure trove for the student of criminology. 8vo. $3.50

FOOTBALL TODAY AND TOMORROW

By William W. Roper

"Bill" Roper, as he is affectionately known, the famous Princeton football coach, has written an untechnical volume on America's great game—a volume equally valuable to the player and the onlooker who would understand the game. The up-to-the-minute text is thoroughly illustrated with action pictures of both amateur and professional players, and diagrams explaining the modern gridiron battle and its future possibilities.

8vo. Illus., $2.50

THE YELLOW CORSAIR

By James W. Bennett

Author of "The Manchu Cloud," etc.

The author, a former Consular official and long a resident of Shanghai, has a thoroughgoing knowledge of modern China, and his novels breathe the true atmosphere of that turbulent country. Here is a timely story of present day uprisings against the foreigners, of Pirates and of Revolutions, with a lovely heroine held for ransom and a most engaging and unusual hero — McDonald of the Chinese Secret Service. A thrilling novel, finely conceived and admirably executed.

12mo. $2.00

MEANWHILE

By Pierre Coalfleet

Author of "Hare and Tortoise," etc.

The author's first novel, "Hare and Tortoise," won the distinction of being chosen by The Forum to succeed "The Little French Girl" and "Soundings" in the notable list of novels which they ran serially. In "Meanwhile," the story of a young Harvard graduate whose life as an artist is stimulated by rosy illusions followed by complete disillusionment, the author's early promise comes to full fruition. 12mo. $2.50

BLINDMAN

By Reginald Wright Kauffman

Author of "Blood of Kings," etc.

A story of crime, of double-dealing, of blackmail, involving a shell-shocked hero and an innocent girl in a series of the most fantastic and blood-curdling adventures with a gang of murderers and villains who are finally worsted in a thrilling pitched battle. This is Kauffman at his best, and romance with a capital "R." 12mo. $2.00

LADIES THIRD, or SIX WEEKS IN EUROPE ON $600

By Mary Lena Wilson

Illustrated by

Wm. P. Trent, Jr.

This gay little volume, purporting to be the travel diary of a merry and observant young lady, provides most amusing reading, as well as serving a definite and useful purpose. It not only shows how one can "do" Europe for $600, but tells where to go, how to go, what to see, and how to see it. Eight full-page illustrations and delightful sketches running through the text.

8vo. Illus., $2.50

MICHELANGELO, A STUDY OF HIS LIFE AND WORK

By Romain Rolland

Author of "Jean Christophe."

A new edition of this beautiful and brilliant book has been issued at the suggestion of The American Library Association. Invaluable to students, the volume contains 24 illustrations, a bibliography, list of the master's works in public galleries, chronological table, etc. 8vo. Illus., $3.00

THE SANDGATE EDITION OF H. G. WELLS

Introduction by Theodore Dreiser

The volumes comprising this set are: Tono Bungay; Mr. Polly; The New Machiavelli and Marriage. Of these titles, Mr. Dreiser says: "Here is the best of Wells." There is a frontispiece to each volume. Four vols. Boxed, $9.50

TAO TALES

By Henry Milner Rideout

Author of "The Far Cry," "The Footpath Way," "The Siamese Cat," etc.

These nine fascinating and unique stories were told to Mr. Rideout by an old Chinese friend and servant of forty years standing, who now returns to spend his remaining years in his native village. When the old servitor was told that his name would also appear on the book, he exclaimed "Mo' betta than one hunder' tousan dollar. Now my name lif fo' effer." It is the publishers' belief that this should, and will, be so.

WHITE SWALLOW

By Emma Gelders Sterne

Illustrated by Edna E. Potter.

A charming and adventurous folk-tale, concerning Little Bear and his sister, White Swallow. Little Bear is an Indian boy who lived in long-ago times, and the baby sister who is born is called White Swallow, after a pretty bird which is building a nest in a near-by tree. A delightful and enticing story for all little children, most attractively illustrated.

Square 8vo. Illus., $2.00

RHYMES OF IF AND WHY

By Betty Sage

Illustrated by Boardman Robinson.

The author's "Rhymes of Real Children," illustrated by Jessie Willcox Smith, was one of the most successful books for children ever published by Duffield. Now she follows that fascinating volume with a new collection. The originality of the rhymes is matched by the equally original illustrations from the lavish pen and brush of one of America's foremost illustrators, Boardman Robinson.

Quarto. Illus., $2.00

THE PIXIES AND THE SILVER CROWN

By Margaret and Mary Baker

The genius of the Bakers for telling and illustrating children's stories has been exemplified in their successes; "The Black Cats and the Tinker's Wife," "The Little Girl Who Curtsied," etc. Here we have a happy tale of the adventures of a girl and boy at the Fair, and the Pixies they met on the Common. Many of the old Pixie traditions have been woven through the story.

8vo. Illus., $2.00

THE LOST MERBABY

By Margaret and Mary Baker

Published in the Spring, the demand for this lovely Baker book has been steadily growing. "A unique place among picture-story books, ... has been nothing so fascinating in relation to sea life."—N. Y. Herald Tribune.

No. 20 VESEY STREET, NEW YORK

ANATOMY OF NEGATION. By Edgar Saltus. Cloth, $2.00.

The Anatomy of Negation, Saltus's report of antitheism from Kapila to Leconte de Lisle, is no mere compilation. The imagination of its author has digested the ideas of the iconoclasts and has subjected them to alchemical processes. The result makes brilliant reading. The new edition is presented in a more attractive guise than any in which it has yet appeared.

ANCIENT PAGAN AND MODERN CHRISTIAN SYMBOLISM. Thomas Inman. Revised and enlarged. With an Essay on Baal Worship, on the Assyrian Sacred "Grove," and other allied symbols. Fourth Edition. 200 illustrations. Cloth, $2.00.

AN INTIMATE VIEW OF ROBERT G. INGERSOLL. By Newton I. Baker. Cloth, $2.00.

APOCRYPHAL NEW TESTAMENT. Translated from the Original Tongue, 21 illustrations. Cloth, $1.75.

Being all the Gospels, Epistles, and other pieces now extant, attributed in the first four centuries to Jesus Christ, His Apostles and their Companions, and not included in the New Testament by its compilers.

BIOGRAPHY OF SATAN. By Kersey Graves. With a Foreword by Marshall J. Gauvin. Fourth edition with an Index. Cloth, $1.50.

Thought has a history. Christianity belongs to the natural history of thought. Its origins are found in the development and migration of mythology. And humanity is outgrowing it today because thought, illumined with knowledge, is moving to a higher plane —to the altitude of science and Rationalism. "The Biography of Satan" is an instrument in this forward and error, by a designing knave, who establishes a new religion and a new order of priesthood by imposing on their ignorance and credulity.

BOOK OF MORMON, THE. An account written by the hand of Mormon upon plates taken from the plates of Nephi. Translated by Joseph Smith. Cloth, $1.50.

CANON OF THE BIBLE, THE. Its Formation, History and Fluctuations. By Samuel Davidson. Third edition, revised. Cloth, $1.25.

The present volume has undergone repeated revision, with enlargement in different parts, and been made as complete as the limits of an essay appeared to allow. As nothing of importance has been knowingly omitted, the writer hopes it will be found a comprehensive summary of all that concerns the formation and history of the Bible Canon.

COMPLETE WORKS OF THOMAS PAINE. With portrait. Two vols. 1800 pages. Cloth, $5.00.

DID THE JEWS KILL JESUS? and THE MYTH OF THE RESURRECTION. By W. A. Campbell. Cloth, $1.25.

By a writer who obviously has at his finger-tips all the known facts referring to the New Testament stories, and who examines them and makes his logical deductions both from the writings of contemporary historians and from the pages of the New Testament itself.

FAITH OR FACT. Taber. Cloth, $1.25.

The author of Faith or Fact has drawn a life-like picture of modern Christianity; and has shown from the admissions of Christian writers, and from the testimony of Christian ministers, what are the real aims, and tendencies of the Christian Church. His work, which is indeed an arsenal of Facts, is a most effective antidote to unreasoning Faith.

A FEW DAYS IN ATHENS. The Translation of a Greek Manuscript. By Francis Wright. Cloth, $1.00.

Everybody who knows the value of this book will read it. It is one of the masterpieces of Freethought. Reprinted from the original London edition.

FIFTY GREAT SELECTIONS FROM INGERSOLL'S WORKS. Boards, $1.00.

Lectures, Tributes, After-Dinner Speeches and Essays, carefully selected from the Dresden Edition of Colonel Ingersoll's Complete Works.

A wholly new selection—many never before published outside of the Dresden Edition—containing many of Ingersoll's masterpieces.

FORCE AND MATTER. Buchner. Cloth, $1.50.

Büchner's volume is so powerful an exposition of the thorough-going scientific theory of the universe that it may be confidently recommended to all who wish to become acquainted with present-day Materialism. The earlier chapters, dealing with the nature and indestructibility of force and matter, are sufficiently cogent to arouse curosity. The unbiased reader will sympathize with Buchner's protest against the degrading conceptions of matter which are so common, as well as against the inveterable habit of implying a severance which does not exist between matter and force, nature and spirit, body and soul.

FUNDAMENTALS OF FREETHOUGHT. By Marshall J. Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Cloth, $1.25.

Contents: Is There a Real God? Did Jesus Christ Really Live? Did Jesus Christ Rise From the Dead? The Bible a Dangerous Moral Guide. Is There a Life After Death? One Hundred Contradications in the Bible. Index.

HISTORY OF A FALSE RELIGION and BROUGHAM'S ORIGIN OF EVIL. By E. L. Bulwer (Lord Lytton). Cloth, 75 cents.

HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY. By Edward Gibbon. With portrait of Gibbon and numerous engravings of mythological divinities. 868 pages. Cloth, $3.00.

This important work contains Gibbon's complete theological writings, showing when, where, and how Christianity originated; who were its founders; and what were the sentiments, manners, numbers, and conditions of the primitive Christians.

HISTORY OF THE FIRST COUNCIL OF NICE, A. D., 325, with a Life of Constantine. A careful and unbiased history of a World's Christian Convention. By Dean Dudley. Cloth, $1.25.

ILLUSTRATED STORY OF EVOLUTION, THE. Gauvin. 48 illustrations. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Cloth, $1.25.

Written with virile force and beauty, describing the great high lights of Nature's life from nebula to man, unfolding a panorama of changing forms through the countless millions of years, the book is an epic of evolution from chaos to civilization.

LAST WORDS ON EVOLUTION. A popular Retrospect and Summary. By Ernst Haeckel. Translated from the second edition by Joseph McCabe. With Portrait and three Plates. Paper, 75 cents. Cloth, $1.25.

LIFE OF JESUS. An Unexpurgated Edition. 12 Illustrations. By Ernest Renan. Cloth, $1.50.

The life of Jesus as narrated by Ernest Renan is one of the most fascinating of books. A charming writer in French, he seems equally attractive in an English translation. It is written from the standpoint of the Higher Criticism, with a signal vein of skepticism running throughout. For the most part, the character of Jesus is conceived as idealistic, in accordance with the personal prepossessions of the writer; so much so, indeed, that believers look upon the work as more or less antagonistic to the gospel story of the so-called Messiah. But however one may view Renan's iconoclasm, there is not the slightest doubt of the highly interesting and instructive nature of this popular presentation of the life of the Nazarene.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE. Westbrook. Cloth, 50 cents.

MARTYRDOM OF MAN. By Winwood Reade. Cloth, $2.00.

This book is a very interestingly pictured synopsis of universal history, showing what the race has undergone—its martyrdom—in its rise to its present plane. It shows how war and religion have been oppressive factors in the struggle for liberty, and the last chapter, of some 150 pages, describes his intellectual struggle from the animal period of the earth to the present, adding an outline of what the author conceives would be a religion of reason and love.

NOT GUILTY. A Defense of the Bottom Dog. By Robert Blatchford. Cloth, $1.50.

A treatment of the individual's blame or blamelessness for crime which makes the book as delightful as a novel. An international classic by the author of that other classic. "God and My Neighbor."

PAINE'S COMPLETE WORKS. In two volumes. Nearly 1800 pages. Vol. 1. Religious and Theological. Vol. II. Political and Miscellaneous. Cloth, $5.00.

The reader has of course read American history and knows who Thomas Paine was. It is not neccesary for us to tell that he was one of the chief instigators and promoters of the American Revolution as well as one of the most earnest and zealous workers in the brave struggle of the Colonies for freedom and independence.

PAINE'S WORKS. POPULAR EDITION.

AGE OF REASON. Cloth, $1.00.
COMMON SENSE. Paper, 30 cents.
CRISIS. Paper 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.
RIGHTS OF MAN. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.
COMPLETE WORKS. 2 vols. $5.00.

PRAISE OF FOLLY. By Erasmus. With portrait. Life of Erasmus, and his Epistle to Sir. Thomas More. Illustrated. Cloth, gilt top, $2.00.

This book contains 85 curious engravings, designed, drawn and etched by Hans Holbein.

PHILOSOPHY OF DISENCHANTMENT, THE. By Edgar Saltus. Cloth, $2.00.

The Philosophy of Disenchanment is one of the best known works of this famous author. He shows himself a confirmed pessimist, witty, bitter, satirical, but withal, a literary master who has written as though he expected to live forever, at least in literature. The book is largely devoted to a discussion of the philosophy of Schopenhauer, "The High Priest of Pessimism," as Mr. Saltus calls him.

QUEEN MOO AND THE EGYPTIAN SPHINX. By Augustus Le Plongeon, M.D. Cloth, $10.00.

A history translated from ancient manuscripts and monuments found in Central America, the key to which has been formulated by Dr. Le Plongeon. It shows that a highly civilized people, called Mayas, lived there thousands of years before the Christian era, and that Maya colonists settled in Egypt, Chaldea, India and other countries on the Eastern Continent. It is a book of special interest to the students of ancient American history. It contains numerous illustrations.

SEARCHING FOR TRUTH. By George O. Draper. Cloth, $1.25.

SHORT HISTORY OF THE BIBLE. Being an Account of the Formation of the Canon. By Bronson C. Keeler. Cloth, $1.25; paper 60 cents.

SIXTEEN CRUCIFIED SAVIORS: or, Christianity before Christ. By Kersey Graves. Cloth, $2.00.

Containing new and startling and extraordinary revelations in religious history which disclose the oriental origin of all the doctrines, principles, precepts, and miracles of the Christian New Testament, and furnishes a key for unlocking many of its sacred mysteries, besides comprising the history of sixteen oriental crucified gods, etc.

SUPERSTITION IN ALL AGES. By Jean Meslier. Portrait. Cloth, $1.50.

The learning displayed is most marked; indeed, because of the great erudition which is to be witnessed everywhere throughout the work, it was for a long time believed that Voltaire, or some eugally well-informed person, was actually the author of the book. No library library would be complete without "Meslier."

TALES OF THEOLOGY: Jehovah, Satan and the Christian Creed. By Henry M. Tichenor. Cloth, $2.25.

TWENTIETH CENTURY PAGANISM. By Willard C. Haynes, M.D. Cloth, $1.50.

VEIL OF ISIS; OR, THE MYSTERIES OF THE DRUIDS. By Winwood Reade.

There is no study so sublime, and none so saddening as that of the early religions of mankind. To trace back the worship of God to its simple origin, and to mark the gradual process of those degrading superstitions, and unhallowed rites which darkened, and finally extinguished His presence in the ancient world.

VOLNEY'S RUINS OF EMPIRES AND THE LAW OF NATURE. With Illustrations, Portrait of Volney, and Map of the Astrological Heaven of the Ancients. Also Volney's Answer to Dr. Priestly, a Biographical Notice by Count Daru. Preface, and an explanation of the Zodiacal Signs and Constellations. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Cloth, $1.50.

This is undoubtedly one of the best and most useful books ever published. The author is supposed to meet. in the ruins of Palmyra an apparition, which explains the true principles of society, and the causes of both the prosperity and the ruin of acient states. A general assembly of the nations is at length convened, a legislative body formed. the source and origin of religion, government, and laws discussed, and the Law of Nature —founded on justice and equity—is finally proclaimed to an expectant world.

The Eckler Volney's Ruins, is the only edition made in American workshops by American workmen.

VOLTAIRE'S ESSAYS AND CRITICISMS. A new edition profusely illustrated, containing Voltaire's Letters on the Christian Religion; Philosophy of History; Ignorant Philosopher; Chinese Catechism. Cloth, $2.00.

VOLTAIRE'S ROMANCES. A new edition. Profusely illustrated. One vol., 480 pages. With portrait and 82 illustrations. Cloth, $2.00.

CONTENTS.—The White Bull; a Satirical Romance, Zadig, or Fate; an Oriental History. The Sage and the Atheist. The Princess of Babylon. The Man of Forty Crowns. The Huron; or, Pupil of Nature. Micromegas; a Satire on Mankind. The World as it Goes. The Black and the White. Memnon the Philosopher. Andre Des Touches at Siam. Bababec. The Study of Nature. A Conversation with a Chinese. Plato's Dream. A Pleasure in Having no Pleasure. An Adventure in India. Jeannot and Colin. Travels of Scarmentado. The Good Bramin. The Two Comforters. Ancient Faith and Fable.

PAPER COVERED BOOKS

AMERICA'S MENACE; or, Popery a Political System. By C. W. Bibb. Paper, 50 cents.

"The author says: "Can any sane man in this broad land fail to discern a danger? Are the danger signals we are throwing out merely the dream of an idealist, the outburst of a bigot, the overflow of an intolerant mind?" He then invites his readers to weigh the evidence he presents and then render their verdict.

ANTICHRIST. Renan. Paper, 75 cents.

BACON'S CHRISTIAN PARADOXES; or the Characters of a Believing Christian in Paradoxes and Seeming Contradictions. With Portrait. Preface by Peter Eckler. Paper, 10 cents.

BIBLE GOD, THE. Bible Teachings, and Selections from the Writings of Scientists. By Mrs. M. M. Turner. Paper, 25 cents.

BIBLE (THE) A DANGEROUS MORAL GUIDE. Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 20 cents.

BIBLICAL MYTHS. By Daniel T. Ames. (Eckler Large Type Series,) Paper, 25 cents.

CONFESSIONS OF A NUN. By Sister Agatha. Paper, 50 cents.

Sister Agatha's story, 335 pages of it, should be read by every person who wishes to hear the complete history of life in a nunnery. Many thousands of the book have been sold and every attempt of the Roman Catholic Church to suppress it have met with failure.

DEVIL'S CATECHISM, THE. Traynor. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 25 cents.

DID JESUS CHRIST REALLY LIVE? Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 20 cents.

The writer argues that the Gospels are historically worthless and that the silence of the Pauline Epistles and of contemporary history proves that a virgin-born, miracle-working, preaching Christ was unknown to primitive Christianity, that "he had not yet been invented!" A striking summary of the evidence that Jesus is a myth.

DID JESUS CHRIST RISE FROM THE DEAD? Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 20 cents.

The story of the resurrection of Jesus Christ is examined in the light of history and reason. Mythological resurrection stories from the older religions are cited. The mutually destructive contradictions of the New Testament narratives are mercilessly exposed. The whole effect is a crushing indictment of the fallacy upon which the Christian superstition has been reared.

DISCLOSURES OF MARIA MONK. Paper, 50 cents.

A narrative of her five years as a novice, and two years as a black nun, in the Hotel Dieu Nunnery, Montreal. No anti-Catholic book published has created more excitement than this work. To counteract its effects the Catholics circulated a story that Maria Monk was "no better than she should be."

FATHER TOM AND THE POPE. Ferguson. Paper, 35 cents.

GAUVIN-OLSON DEBATES ON GOD AND THE BIBLE. Speeches revised by both disputants. 128 pages. Paper, 75 cents.

GOOD WITHOUT GOD. Adams. Paper, 25 cents.

This is a statement of the rationalistic belief that moral conduct is not dependent upon a belief in deity for its corrections.

IS THERE A REAL GOD? Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 20 cents.

THE JEW: Is He a Menace to Civilization? By Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 20 cents.

This pamphlet examines anti-Jewish propaganda and particularly Henry Ford's crusade against the Jews in the light of outstanding facts. It meets the claim that the Jew is a menace by pointing out what Jews have done for civilization. A significant summary statement.

JOKE OF CHRISTIANIZING CHINA, THE. By B. W. Williams. Paper, 50 cents. Ready in August.

The world is watching the strife in China, and studying its antecedents and consequents. Closely and vitally related to the present turmoil is the work of Christian missionaries. The author of this work condemns religious proselytism in China, and contends that it has been a prolific source of strife, discord, injustice, exploitation, and humiliation to the Chinese. He declares that the missionaries have done more harm than good in China, and should be withdrawn.

"I have read with interest your forthcoming publication, 'The Joke of Christianizing China,' and find in it much food for thought. The author has presented an interesting array of facts, which will not help the propaganda of missionaries to 'save' China. Every person who gives money to Chinese "missions" should receive this book. The attempt to 'Christianize' a country like China, which has behind it an ancient and honorable civilization and a high moral code, is really a 'joke.' The author does well to expose the wrong of trying to burden China with a system of belief that is a hodge-podge of superstition. Taking Christianity to a Chinaman is like trying to help a man swim by throwing him a brick. I heartily recommend the pamphlet to every Rationalist."—Woolsey Teller.

LESSONS FROM THE CREATOR. By Manie Sands. Paper, 15 cents.

MAHOMET: HIS BIRTH, CHARACTER, AND DOCTRINE. By Edward Gibbon. Paper, 25 cents.

MAHOMET THE ILLUSTRIOUS. By Godfrey Higgins. Preface by Peter Eckler. Paper, 25 cents.

MAN AMONGST MEN, A. By F. Woolpert. Paper, 15 cents.

The author points out the incongruities and contradictions in the records given by the Evangelist. His view of the subject is substantially the same as that entertained by nearly all advocates of Freethought.

MY LIFE IN THE CONVENT. By Margaret L. Shepherd. ("Sister Magdalene Adelaide.") Paper, 50 cents.

Rarely has the story of a life in the convent been presented with the honesty, the intelligence and power of understanding that Margaret Shepherd brings to this subject. It is a scathing denunciation of Life in the Convent.

ONE HUNDRED CONTRADICTIONS IN THE BIBLE. By Marshall J. Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) 20 cents.

PRIEST IN ABSOLUTION. Paper, 20 cents.

SCHOPENHAUER'S ESSAYS:

RELIGION: A DIALOGUE, AND OTHER ESSAYS. Paper, 25 cents.

STUDIES IN PESSIMISM. A series of Essays. Paper, 25 cents.

REASONS FOR UNBELIEF. By Louis Viardot. Translated from the French. Paper, 25 cents.

SCORING THE MINISTERS. By Marshall J. Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 25 cents.

The ministers and priests of Tell City, Ind., disapproving of a course of lectures which Mr. Gauvin was delivering before the Teachers' Institute held in their city in September, 1924, combined forces, and prevented the delivery of the last address of the series. Then these clergymen, in a body, attended the last meeting of the Institute which they allowed, to hear the lecture, which they had vainly sought to have cancelled. They heard, not the address Mr. Gauvin had intended to give, but an extemporaneous address, intended for their special good—"Scoring the Ministers."

STRUGGLE BETWEEN RELIGION AND SCIENCE, THE. By Marshall J. Gauvin. (Eckler Large Type Series.) Paper, 25 cents.

The centuries long and still continuing battle of the church against the life of science is here described, and the calamitous consequences of religion's war on truth are set forth. This work shows how and why the churches, both Protestant and Catholic, have been the inveterate enemies of increasing knowledge, and therefore, of civilization.

THIRTY YEARS IN HELL; or, From Darkness to Light. By Ex-Priest Bernard Fresenborg. Paper, 50 cents.

"Roman Catholicism, as taught by priests and inspired by the papal power at Rome, is only the distant rumblings of an antiquated chariot of darkness, as the teachings of this monarchical creed has nothing in view but the enslavement of reason for the financial gain and benefit of the 'robed' few who claim to think for the masses."—The Author.

TWO BIBLE STORIES OF MAN'S ORIGIN AND DESTINY. By William B. Fleck, former Roman Catholic Priest. Paper, 15 cents.

Brings home to even the simplest mind the banefulness of the Biblical story when accepted as being the teachings of God.

VOLTAIRE PAMPHLETS. Each, 30 cents.

Chinese Catechism
Ignorant Philosopher
Letters on the Christian Religion
Man of Forty Crowns
Micromegas
Philosophy of History
Sage and Atheist
Zadig. (Including the White Bull.)

WHERE IS HELL? In This World Or Another? By Marshall J. Gauvin. Paper 25 cents.

An examination of the doctrine of hell in all its bearings—God's responsibility for hell, man's case against the God who would make a hell, the woeful effects of the doctrine, its intellectual and moral impossibility. Brilliant and thorough, humorous and humane, this book demolishes the foundation of Christianity.

WHY I LEFT THE PRIESTHOOD. By William B. Fleck, former Roman Catholic Priest. Paper, 10 cents.

The author's story is without guide or bluster. It is the simple narrative of a human soul in its struggle from mental slavery to Freethought. The author says: "I would rather continue my silence of over twenty years, but that the new light received impels me to contribute my little share in making the truth known to others who may feel disposed to accord same a respectful hearing."

MASONIC BOOKS

More Light (Revised)

An entirely new Manual of the first three Degrees of Freemasonry; giving the entire "Work," Lectures, Ceremonies of Initiation, Passing and Raising in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with the Charges and Symbolism of each, in accordance with the very latest usages, omitting all such purely esoteric matter as is personally exemplified in the Lodge, and of interest only to the initiated.

Leather Tucks [Pocket-Book Style], $3.00. Postage 4 cents extra.
Cloth binding, $2.00. Postage 4 cents extra.

REVISED

Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor

Part I

A complete guide to the three symbolic degrees of A. F. & A. M. York Rite; Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, together with the Constitution and By-Laws of the Lodge. By Malcolm C. Duncan.

Paper $1.00, Cloth $1.50. Postage 5 cents extra.

Part II

This Work is a complete Ritual of the Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master, and the Royal Arch degrees. By Malcolm C. Duncan.

Paper $1.00, Cloth $1.50. Postage 5 cents extra.

The above Rituals are complete works of the Degrees in Masonry, explained and interpreted in the clearest possible manner, and it is the design of the author to furnish in plain language a graphic description of all the Rites and Ceremonies practiced so as to facilitate the progress of the younger members of the order, step by step. They contain the ceremonies as they are (or should be) performed, the Pass-Words, Grips, Signs, Tokens, Jewels, Emblems, Lectures and Plans of the Interior of Lodges, and are fully explained with numerous Notes and Engravings. These are valuable books for the Fraternity. No Mason should be without them.

Parts I and II in one Vol. Cloth Bound, $2.50. Postage 6 cents extra.
Parts I and II in one Vol. Leather Tucks, $3.00. Postage 6 cents extra.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry

A complete Guide to the various Ceremonies and Routine in Freemasons' Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, Hierarchies, &c., &c., in all the Degrees, whether Modern, Ancient, Ineffable or Historical; containing Engravings of the Signs, Tokens and Grips, and descriptions of the Regalia and Jewels, and likewise the Pass-Words and other Secret Words in each Degree. Profusely illustrated with explanatory Engravings and Plates. By JABEZ RICHARDSON, A.M. Any Society of Masons who wish to work in the higher Degrees, or in any Degree whatever, will find this book an invaluable aid to them. 192 pages, bound in cloth, gilt. Price, $1.25. Postage 4 cents extra.
Leather Tucks [Pocket-Book Style] with gilt edges, $3.00. Postage 4 cents extra.

Morgan's Freemasonry

A Synopsis of the Blue Lodge and Chapter Degrees, as given by CAPT. WM. MORGAN, with the Circumstances of his Abduction in 1826, corroborated by Thurlow Weed, 35 cts. Postage 3 cents extra.

REVISED

Roberts' Ritual of the Knights of Pythias

Of No. Am., So. Am., E., A., A., and Australia.

A Ritual for Subordinate Lodges adopted by the Supreme Lodge. Edited by DOUGLAS ROBERTS. Illustrated by Diagrams of the Castle Hall. It includes the opening and closing ceremonies, Official Visits and the initiation into the Ranks of Page, Esquire and Knight, fully explained; also CONSTITUTION & BY-LAWS of the Lodge. MASONIC BOOKS

Lester's "Look to the East"

Containing the model Webb Work of the Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason's Degrees, with their Opening and Closing Ceremonies, Lectures, etc. Ritually and Monitorially complete. Edited by Ralph P. Lester.

This is a complete Pocket Manual of the First Three Degrees of Masonry. It contains neither passwords, grips, nor any other purely esoteric matter. It affords, therefore, a thorough and valuable guide to the above Degrees, divested of everything that any member of the Fraternity would object to see in print, or hesitate to carry in his pocket. Bound in Cloth. $2.00. Postage 4 cents extra.
Bound in Leather Tucks, [Pocket-Book Style], gilt edges, $3.00. Postage 4 cents extra.

Masonic Facts for Masons

This work by Rev. W. H. Russell is declared by the brightest and most intelligent Masons in Europe and America, of all degrees and offices, to be one that every Mason should read. It is not an exposure in any sense, but an aid to every Mason in understanding the truths of the subject, which have very great significance. The following important questions are treated in such a way that every Master, Chaplain and Member may understand what "Speculative Masonry" or the "Science of Morals" consists in, also What Masons ought to know from a Bible view; Things not generally known to Masons; What Masonry is not, and does not profess to be, and What Constitutes a true Mason. Paper cover, 50 cents. Postage 2 cents extra.

Blue Lodge Enlight'ment

A complete work of the Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason Degrees, with the Lectures, Ceremonies of Initiation, Passing and Raising in the entire "Work" with questions and answers. Especially adapted for New Jersey and South Carolina. Bound in limp cloth, $2.04 postpaid. Leather tuck (pocketbook style) $3.04 postpaid.

Howard's Odd Fellowship Up-to-Date

Containing the authorized routine for initiation, and the Lodge Degrees of Friendship, Brotherly Love and Truth, with the Opening and Closing Ceremonies in each Degree. Also the correct method for opening and closing the Encampment and for the Patriarchal, Golden Rule and Royal Purple Degrees, including the Rebekah or Ladies' Degree. By Percy Howard.

This work purposely excludes all esoteric matter, but is in all other respects strictly in accordance with the amendments and alterations adopted by the Sovereign Grand Lodge at St. Paul, Minn.
Paper covers, 50 cts. Postage 3 cts. extra. Bound in cloth, $1.00. Postage 4 cts. extra.

Cushing's Manual

The Manual of Parliamentary practice, containing rules of proceedings and debates on deliberative assemblies.
Paper covers, 25 cts. Postage 3 cts. extra. Bound in cloth, 50 cts. Postage 4 cts. extra.

Barber's American Book of Ready Made Speeches

On a great variety of topics and suitable for all social and public occasions. It provides over one hundred and fifty models of humorous and serious speeches and addresses of welcome, condolence, and for presentations, with suitable replies, at political and public assemblies, club dinners, and other festivals; also, toasts for public, private, and trade re-unions. This book suggests a wide range of material for ready speakers, and a much needed aid to all who may be called upon to make a speech.
Boards, 75 cts. Postage 4 cts. extra. Paper, 50 cts. Postage 3 cts. extra.

Spring's Banjo

By HORATIO WINSLOW $2.00

A Portmanteau Historical Novel and Hymn to Youth with a Musical Accompaniment and Fashion Notes of the Period.

Reading about this curiously human great-great-granddaughter of Becky Sharp, you may find yourself choking up a bit and looking for a handkerchief, before the final chuckle.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

By DUDLEY CAREW $2.00

Courage . . .

That is what Roma had and Joyce hadn't. The courage to take Tony.

Does it matter what form the breaking-free takes? What if Roma is the instrument of freedom with her money and her desires? In the end, she is no more the victor than Joyce who lets Tony go because of her cowardice to make him stay. It is Tony himself who is the real victor. Not over a woman, or over two women, or over two women and a man. A victor over himself and the shackles of bondage.

The Mysterious Wife

By GROVE WILSON. Author of Man of Strife, Sport of the Gods, etc. $2.00

The town seethed with excitement when Nathan Forbes married a girl nobody knew. That the wife chose to live the life of a recluse, and that the town had already chosen the home girl as his wife, did not help to quiet matters. Suddenly, Mrs. Forbes disappears, the villagers turn ugly and the mob rules. Of course, it is all for the honor of the town and the vindication of the higher morality—Nathan, standing alone, against impossible odds, struggling against the fiercely inevitable——

The denouement is as startling as it is unexpected.

The Secret of Lourdes

By STUART MARTIN

Illustrated. $3.00

Lourdes as a place of pilgrimage and as a place where miraculous cures are said to occur is well known throughout the Christian world. The author, a non-Catholic, writes as an unbiased inquirer who has examined the facts for himself.

The result is a book of intense interest—one which will stimulate the faithful and puzzle the sceptical.

The Letters of Marie Antoinette, Fersen & Barnave

Edited, with a foreword, By O. G. De HEIDENSTAM.

Translated from the French by Winifred Stephens and Mrs. Wilfrid Jackson.

Illustrated, octavo. $5.00

This unusual book contains two series of letters which have lain for over a hundred years in the library of the castle of Lofstad in Sweden. In the astonishing love-letters between Marie Antoinette and the handsome Count Axel Fersen, known is Paris as "the Friend of the Queen," the true nature of the relations between the Queen and her admirer is at last revealed. The correspondence between Marie Antoinette and Barnave, a prominent member of the Constitutional Left in the Constituent Assembly, is of great interest. Both series throw much light on the personality of the Queen as well as on the inner history of the period.

The Road to Paris

By MICHAEL MONAHAN. Author of Nemesis, Adventures in Life and Letters, etc., etc.

Newly revised, and with divers new illustrations added. Octavo. $4.00

Richard LeGallienne calls this unique travel book the best of its kind since Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad."

The Charm of Indian Art

By W. E. GLADSTONE SOLOMON

Illustrated in black and white and color. Octavo. $3.50

"Mr. Solomon is principal of the Sir J. J. School of Art in Bombay, curator of the art section of the Prince of Wales Museum and the author of various works on art subjects. In the present volume his purpose is to present to western readers some of the less known aspects of both ancient and modern painting and ceremonial as connected with painting. . . . It is a fascinating volume, quite unique."—Boston Transcript.

Modern Industrial Consolidation

By J. GEORGE FREDERICK. Author of Masters of Advertising Copy, etc. $7.50

The Wall Street Journal says, "The book should prove interesting to the banker who is interested in forming consolidations; the corporation executive who wants sound, constructive facts on development of mergers, reorganizations and combinations; the promoter and student of business, the publicist, the lawyer and the accountant."

The Industrial Digest says, "An authoritative and comprehensive study of a difficult economic problem—and still intensely interesting reading, even for the layman. This is the unusual result the author of this work has attained. While industrial consolidations cannot be called new, the public has been coming gradually to a new attitude toward such organizations, which Mr. Frederick here presents so clearly.

Be one financier, manufacturer, lawyer, legislator, editor or simple citizen interested in the cost of living, this book is worth reading as an aid to clear thinking on a subject that is bound to command more and more attention."

Masters of Advertising Copy

Edited by J. GEORGE FREDERICK

New Edition. $5.00

"If the 26 experts whose names are printed in the table of contents of 'Masters of Advertising Copy' were scheduled to speak at an advertising convention on the subjects which they discuss in this book, every advertising man would be asking himself the question, 'Can I afford to stay away?'—not 'Can I afford to go?' "—Editor and Publisher.

"Many books and magazine articles have been written on the subject of advertising by men prominent in that field, but it is seldom that we have the opportunity to profit by their experience in such condensed form as in this new volume."—New York Daily News Record.

A Quaker Adventure

By A. RUTH FRY

Illustrated. 29 plates and a map. $3.50

A fascinating story of the relief and reconstruction activities of the Friends amongst the civil population of Europe during and after the War. The illustrations are of unusual interest and variety.

The Living Corpse

By LEO TOLSTOI

Translated by Anna M. Evarts. $1.50

As produced in New York under the title REDEMPTION with John Barrymore in the leading role it proved one of the leading successes of the New York stage.

As mere literature it ranks with Tolstoi's finest dramatic creations, for it is as good a reading play as it is an acting play.

The Literary Revolution

By STANTON A. COBLENTZ Octavo. $2.50

A dynamic and provocative discussion of the forces that have agitated modern literature. The author assails the innovators and pleads the cause of those essential literary qualities which modern tendencies have been obliterating.

Rational Mysticism

By WILLIAM KINGSLAND Octavo. $5.00

In the present work the main thesis, the unitary nature of life and consciousness and of man and the universe, is carried into the region of mystical philosophy and experience, and is examined in the light of ancient and modern historical mysticism,—more particularly in reference to the great modern revival of interest in mysticism and occultism.

Based upon modern discoveries and concepts, it leads up to the deepest issues of our spiritual nature and mystical consciousness.

Nancy Lloyd

By ANNA L. B. THOMAS $2.00

This journal of a Welsh Quaker, who emigrated to Pennsylvania during the days of the making of America, will charm and delight the reader.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

The Not Impossible She
By ARTHUR WEIGALL $2.00

The N. Y. Sun says, . . . "a vast amount of solidly brilliant writing . . . a generous quantity of unoffending outspokenness, numerous persuasive character portraits and considerable rowdy, but none the less natural but effective humor."

Music and Musicians
By L. J. DE BEKKER $6.00

"One of the most sensible musicians' lexicons extant."—Musical America.

"The book is most alarmingly up-to-date. Even a music lover who is also a musician might find much to edify him in Mr. de Bekker's dictionary." Deems Taylor in N. Y. World.

Wolfgang Goethe
By GEORG BRANDES

Authorized translation by Allen W. Porterfield. 2 vols. Boxed. $10.00

". . . conceived in the genuine fire of enthusiasm. But it is an enthusiasm tempered by the judgment of a mature student of comparative literature."—N. Y. Sun.

". . . will continue to be sought as long as Goethe's life and works have a message to tell."—Saturday Review of Literature.

The Magic Flight
By YOSSEF GAER

Illustrated in black and white and color by Robert Joyce. $2.00

"The stories are all told simply and clearly and with plenty of conversation to make them attractive to young readers . . . the book itself is better made than most juveniles."—Saturday Review of Literature.

Approved, by the N. Y. Board of Education, as supplementary reading in Public Schools.

The Brain and the Mind
By PAUL SÜNNER $1.50

"In the compass of less than a hundred pages and with six illustrations the little volume is a marvel of adequate compression without failure in interest."—Boston Evening Transcript.

The Love Letters of St. John
Edited by BOLTON HALL. $1.50

"Timidly daring, this little book shows St. John in love with the pagan mother of an illegitmiate child, but so abstractly, metaphysically, sanctimoniously in love that one seems to be witnessing the philanderings of a consecrated moon-beam."—N. Y. Sun.

In Search of Reality: Organic Evolution

By J. E. WILLIAMS $2.50

"A novel answer to the chief riddle of evolution is given in this book. Its aim is to outline briefly a few of the theories suggested at various times to explain the mechanism of heredity, evolution, growth, senescence and death, and to carry physio-chemical explanations as far as possible towards a solution of the problems of life."—Boston Transcript.

Adventures in Philosophy

By J. C. WORDSWORTH Octavo. $4.00

The book is mainly constructive in character, and not only attempts to put as clearly as possible the metaphysical views of the author, but indicates their consequences from an ethical standpoint. The later chapters discuss two of the most important developments in recent philosophy, those associated with the names of Einstein and Bergson.

Easter in Palestine

By DAME MILLICENT FAWCETT, LL.D. Author of What I Remember.

Illustrated. Octavo. $3.00

This interesting work by Dame Millicent Fawcett has been compiled from the notes of her two visits to the Holy Land. She is able to compare the progress made between her first and second visit with the detailed record given in the Report of the High Commissioner, Sir Herbert Samuel, on his Administration of Palestine during 1920-25.

The Newspaper Worker

J. P. McCARTHY $2.50

"A volume of unusual value."—Boston Herald.

"Packed full of helpful hints and advice to writers, especially reporters."—Chicago Record Herald.

Man the Puppet

By ABRAM LIPSKY, Ph. D. Octavo. $2.50

". . . admirable study in folk psychology and the folk mind. . . . He has set out to observe the common man in a spirit free from dogma or preconception; and he has succeeded in writing a sane and wise book about the mind of the man in the street."—From a full page review in the N. Y. Sunday Times.

Torchbearers of Spiritualism

By MRS. ST. CLAIR STOBART Octavo. $3.00

The author discusses the stories of the lives—with the psychic episodes in these lives—of twenty-one of the world's great religious teachers, viz.: Voluspa, Rama, Krishna, Orpheus, Hermes, Moses, Pythagoras, Buddha, Lao-Tzu, Heraclitus, Socrates, Plato, Apollonius of Tyana, Plotinus, Christ, Mohammed, Joan of Arc, St. Teresa, George Fox, Swedenborg, and John Wesley.

The Road to Peace

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN $2.50

"As a corrective of international impotence, Mr. Bernstein's revelation of the minds of the world's leaders is an important contribution to the literature of peace."—N. Y. Times.

Daphnis and Chloe

From the Greek of Longus by GEORGE THORNLEY (1657).
Twelve plates in colors and numerous decorations, by JOHN AUSTEN.
Large octavo, beautifully bound and boxed. Limited to 250 copies. $20.00.

". . . we have been caught deliciously in the midriff by a reprint of George Thornley's 1657 translation of 'DAPHNIS AND CHLOE.' It is a pastoral and brings fresh air to the hot-house of a stern-minded, book-cluttered head."—Kenlm Digby in N. Y. Post.

The Songs of Sappho

Translated into rimed verse by MARION MILLS MILLER.
With an introduction by Prof. David M. Robinson, Litt. D.
Octavo, illustrated with many rare pictures, boxed. $20.00

"This handsome volume is the only complete collection of all the known fragments of Sappho."—The Nation.

Afterglow: Pastels of Greek Egypt

By MITCHELL S. BUCK
Introduction by ARTHUR MACHEN. $2.00

"These half dozen sketches are as lovely in form and temper as their matter is suggestive."—Saturday Review of Literature.

The Life of Casanova: 1774 to 1798

By MITCHELL S. BUCK $2.00

"Mr. Buck's convenient handbook to the adventurer's old age will be welcome to all 'good Casanovists'."—N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

Anthology of Italian Lyrics

Translated by ROMILDA RENDAL $2.50

". . . retain much of the Italian atmosphere, the aestheticism, rhythm and color of the originals, (they) are their own excuse for being. This is indeed a book to place on the shelf with the Oxford collections."—Boston Transcript.

Three Women of Annam

By C. L. CHIVAS-BARON $2.50

"Chivas-Baron, member of the French Academy, has written, in simple, limpid prose, the stories of three women. He has succeeded marvelously in putting himself inside the Annamite mind and heart and writing from that position."—N. Y. World.

Practical Physics (A Laboratory Manual)

Volume I—Precise Measurements;
Lab. Studies in Mechanics and Heat . Price $1.50

Volume II—Electrical Measurements;
Lab. Studies in Elec. and Mag. . " 1.50

Volume III—Photometric Measurements;
Lab. Studies in Light and Sound . . 1.25

Elementary Electricity and Magnetism, . . . Price 1.25

This book presents the elementary theory of electricity and magnetism without departing for a moment from the things and conditions which are met with in practice; it sets forth a point of view that has been urged by the authors for many years, and it deserves very careful examination and trial by teachers of Applied Electricity in Technical High Schools.

Advanced Electricity and Magnetism, Price $2.50

This book presents certain important topics (Magnetism of Iron, Ship's Magnetism and the Compensation of the Compass, Inductance, Electrostatics, and Electromagnetic Wave Motion) in a manner that is unique in its simple but rigorous mathematical style and in its vivid emphasis on what is practically real.

Simple Tables, for Students of Physics and Chemistry

Price per 100, $2.50

The Elements of Calculus,

Franklin, MacNutt and Charles . . . . Price $2.00

A teacher of mathematics in a well-known technical school who uses this book states that he finds it highly satisfactory. In his opinion the book is unique in its directness and intelligibility, and it leaves nothing to be desired in the matter of precision and rigor.

Bill's School and Mine, by W. S. Franklin.

A collection of Essays on Education . . . . . Price $1.00

These essays are so compact and so forcible that the Independent called the book "A Package of Dynamite," and the reviewer in The Elementary School Journal (University of Chicago) says "Impossible to read these essays lying down."

Elements of Electrical Engineering, Franklin and Esty.

Volume I—Direct Currents . . . . Price $4.50

Volume II—Alternating Currents . . . " 4.00

This two-volume treatise was published in 1906-7 and it has been and still is very extensively used as a text book in our technical schools.

Dynamos and Motors, Franklin and Esty . . . . Price $3.00

This is a one-volume arrangement of the simpler parts of Franklin and Esty's ELEMENTS OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING.

Elements of Electrical Engineering, W. S. Franklin.

Volume I—D. C. and A. C. Machines and Systems . Price $4.50

Volume II—Elec. Lighting and Misc. Application .. ' 3.00

This two-volume treatise was finished in 1917. It is much simpler than Franklin and Esty's ELEMENTS, and several teachers who have used it have found it highly satisfactory,—

(a) For a first course or "Survey course" for Electrical Engineering Students, and

(b) For use by Students of Civil, Mechanical, Chemical and Mining Engineering.

(c) Volume I alone is suitable for Trade School and Night School students who have had some Training in Elementary Algebra and Geometry.

Dynamo Laboratory Manual, Franklin and Esty.

Volume I—Direct Current Studies and Tests . Price $2.50

Electric Waves, W. S. Franklin . . . . . Price $4.00

Transmission Line Theory,

by W. S. Franklin and F. E. Terman . Price $4.00

SUPPLEMENT OF

NEW PUBLICATIONS

Published Since July, 1925

All of the books listed in this supplement are also listed in the main catalog and in both General and Classified Indexes, but are assembled here for the convenience and guidance of those who wish to know our newest publications.

BIBLE DICTIONARY, A NEW STANDARD

A completely revised, rewritten, and reset edition based on the original work which for several years has been the leading authority. In view of many recent discoveries which have been at the disposal of the editors, this work will be the newest and most complete of its kind available. The editors of the original edition, Professor Melancthon W. Jacobus, Professor Edward E. Nourse and Professor Andrew C. Zenos, have spent nearly a year making this new edition, assisted by thirty-seven of the ablest Biblical scholars of this country, Great Britain, and the Continent. So thorough has been the work of revision that the volume is practically new. Several new and very helpful articles are added. Professor James Moffatt and Professor John E. McFadyen have contributed informing articles on The Right Approach to The Bible and how it should be approached and interpreted, thus affording a guide to the study of the Bible as well as to the most profitable use of the new Standard Bible Dictionary. Other new articles deal with English Versions of the Bible, The Religion and History of Israel, The Synoptic Problem, Greek Religion, and Roman Religion.

FEATURES

1. It treats upon the languages, literature, history, biography, manners, and customs, and the theology of the Scriptures.
2. It is a book not only of facts, figures, and dates, but also a book of explanation—interpretation of the meaning of words, phrases, and passages, giving an analytical exposition of the entire thought of the book in which the text appears.
3. It is the joint product of forty Bible scholars of INTERNATIONAL REPUTATION.
4. Every leading article is SIGNED with the initials of its author.
5. American and English Revised Versions and King James' Version are used.
6. THE BASIS FOR ITS LIST OF TITLES was not the judgment of any one man or set of men, but THE CONCORDANCE TO THE BIBLE ITSELF.
7. Correct proportion in the treatment of all subjects is carefully maintained.
8. Toward debated problems it is open-minded.
9. While liberal, it is BY NO MEANS RADICAL. It is conservatively progressive.
10. It is dominated by evangelical faith in the message and mission of Jesus.
11. Much—VERY MUCH—of its material is drawn from ORIGINAL sources.
12. Some of its collaborators have spent years in Egypt and the Holy Land to investigate Bible questions or engage in archeological researches.
13. THE LATEST DISCOVERIES in Assyria, Babylonia, Nineveh, Luxor, etc., are included
14. It is not a book of fads or fancies—it is essentially a dictionary OF the Bible, not one ABOUT the Bible. This alone stamps the work as UNIQUE.
15. It is judiciously illustrated—not a picture book. Many of the illustrations were obtained from original sources, such as the Suvia Paton collection at Hartford.
16. The eleven COLORED MAPS were especially prepared for this work by eminent Bible scholars who sojourned in Bible lands and have given to the world the results of their studies.
17. It is the only Bible Dictionary that gives the pronunciation of title-words in a perfect system of notation.
18. It is the only Bible Dictionary that TRANSLITERATES THE HEBREW AND GREEK so that those unfamiliar with these languages can get an intelligent idea of the words before them.

19. It is the only single-volume Bible Dictionary that supplies the KEY TO FURTHER STUDY by its admirable bibliographies.
20. Its LABOR AND TIME-SAVING TYPOGRAPHICAL DEVICES and its SYSTEM of CROSS-REFERENCES are especially valuable.

Imperial 8vo, Cloth, 989 pages. $7.50; Buckram, $8.50; Three Quarter Morocco, $12.50. Thumb-notch index, 75 cents extra. Helpfully illustrated.

BONNER, MARY GRAHAM

A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading. A delight to all parents who have the responsibility of selecting reading matter for their children and for all adults who make gifts of books to children. Each and every book is briefly described in this volume, not in a dull, analytical manner, but with genuinely interesting and enlightening comment, flavored with a candidness and a charm of literary expression that make the descriptions doubly satisfying and informative. The author is known to thousands of book-lovers as editor of the Children's Book Department of The Literary Digest International Book Review, and as author of many books for children and articles on children's reading. She is exceptionally well-fitted to appraise children's books because from earliest childhood she was abnormally fond of them and through the intervening years has shown an ever increasing devotion to them. Through this volume the author opens up the entire world of really clean, sound, and valuable books for children of four to sixteen, from the picture books of earliest childhood to the splendid works for girls and boys in the middle of their teens. With this guide every book you select for children will be a success.

BRADLEY, WILLARD KING

Inside Secrets of Photoplay Writing. Here is a work which gives all the successful "tricks of the trade" in addition to a complete quota of what might be termed the mechanics of photoplay writing—those important features which often make the difference between acceptance and rejection of photoplays. The author is an outstandingly successful photoplay writer, so his suggestions come from one "on the inside." Not only does the author show you how to write successful photoplays, but he gives copies of his original text of two of his well-known productions —"The Beloved Imp," and "The Sidewalks of New York," in which you find his recommendations put into actual practice.

BRAZELTON, ETHEL M. COLSON

Writing and Editing for Women. A complete guide for women who wish to prepare themselves for professional writing through home study—a text-book for the use of schools in teaching journalism to women. The author's experience has given her exceptional qualifications for preparing a practical manual of this sort. She was special writer for the Chicago Tribune and Chicago Record-Herald, and later became literary editor of the last-named paper, and has done practically every kind of newspaper and magazine work; she is now instructor in the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University. This volume covers a very large field with surprizing completeness and unusual clarity, and in it the author seeks to pass along to others such methods of craftsmanship and salesmanship which have won success for her as free-lance writer, critic, and editor. The thirteen main chapters are: How to become a reporter; how to write for children; how to run a woman's department; what club editors must know and do; why women succeed with civic subjects; how to become a "publicity secretary"; the handling of commercial propaganda and advertising; the requirements of a house organ or trade paper; women as literary and dramatic critics; how to write about moving pictures; the technique of editing and editorial writing; how to write feature articles that will be accepted; how to syndicate them; how to get and keep a position as reporter or editor. In fact, every field is covered in which the ambitious, up-to-date woman can reasonably hope to earn money as a writer or editor. A score of prominent writers and editors in various lines have contributed several pages of advice which the reader will find of unusual value.
12mo, Cloth. With appendixes. About 300 pages. $2.50, net.

BRUCE, H. ADDINGTON

Your Growing Child. A volume of such specific help and such gripping interest to every parent that it may seem surprizing that no other writer has produced one of similar character. H. Addington Bruce, author of "Nerve Control and How to Gain It," "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," etc., is an authority on psychology and mind-body relationships, and is one of the few men who can write about a scientific subject in language which the average person may readily understand. What the parent-reader will most appreciate is the fact that the author does not lay down hard-and-fast rules for the management of the young, realizing that no book, however excellent, can serve as an adequate substitute for the exercise of parental common sense and intuition in dealing with children. It does, however, give the most helpful instructions for the exercise of intuition and common sense, for thinking and acting, and in general for conserving home life in the best sense of the term. Summarized, what the parent will find in this volume is the latest research, the latest established principles of psychology as applied to the character training and mental training of children—a cheerful guide and one which is full of encouragement and practical common sense.

CROCKETT, ALBERT STEVENS

When James Gordon Bennett Was Caliph of Bagdad. The first book about James Gordon Bennett—sportsman and proprietor of the famed New York Herald—to be written by one closely associated with the Commodore for many years and who took orders from him alone. The author portrays a man without a counterpart in the history of journalism or in the annals of his day when he was a world-figure. He tells how Bennett managed his newspapers; his eccentricities in dealing with employees; his lack of regard for expense in gathering news; gives accurate pictures of life among Americans in London, in Paris, and at a fashionable French resort at the beginning of the century; thumb-nail text pictures of semi-historical personages and occurrences; and bits of international scandal. The author, Albert Stevens Crockett, is a nationally known newspaper man who for some years was accounted the best interviewer in New York. There is information, interest, and surprise on every page of this book.

DALTON, FRANK EUGEN

Swimming Scientifically Taught. (Seventh Edition.) Completely rewritten, and brought up to date with much new material, records of the latest Channel swims, and 87 illustrations of swimming positions and strokes specially posed for this work. The author, expert swimmer and instructor himself, and son of the Captain Davis Dalton who swam the English Channel in 1890, describes all the up-to-date strokes used by modern swimmers, including the famous crawl, trudgen, trudgen-crawl, breast, over-arm; diving, floating, sculling, rolling, treading water, plunging, trick swimming, water-polo, somersaults, etc. The author gives details of the successful English Channel swimmers, from Capt. Webb in 1875 to Gertrude Ederle and others in 1926, describing their achievements. He also records the exploit of George Young whose record-breaking feat in swimming from Catalina Island to the California shore was accomplished with the trudgen-crawl stroke in January, 1927. A chapter is devoted to methods of rescuing and reviving drowning persons and what to do in emergencies. For years this book has been a standard manual of instruction for men, women, and children. The method of teaching is so plainly explained and so splendidly illustrated by photographs and diagrams that every movement and position can be accurately copied.

DIX, DOROTHY

Dorothy Dix: Her Book. Every-day Help for Every-day People. A famous editor has described Dorothy Dix as "the most popular woman journalist in the world," because she "understands human nature, and, with her sympathy and broadminded tolerance, she strikes a note that rings true in every heart." In these pages she has a message of cheer and of wit and wisdom for all men and women, for the young, the middle-aged, the old—for husbands and wives, for fathers and mothers, for sons and daughters, for sweethearts and lovers. And all she has to say—out of her profound knowledge of life and human nature—is pungent, sincere and absolutely free from mushiness or sentimentality. Her style is her own, but her manner of speech is that of every-day people. Some typical Dorothy-Dixian chapter headings are: "How a Husband Likes to Be Treated," "The Ordinary Woman," "Spoiling a Wife," "Are You Good Company for Yourself?" "Keeping Young," "To Marry or Not to Marry," "Grafting on the Old Folks," "The Mother-in-Law," "Our Lives Are What We Make Them," "Queer Things About Marriage," "Sell Yourself to Your Children," "Don't Make Your Children Glad You Are Dead," "Don't Be Afraid to Let Your Husband See You Love Him," "Taking Husbands As Is," "What Price Pleasure?" "Giving Children Advantages," "Invalidism a Graft," "Should Women Tell?"

FINCK, HENRY T.

My Adventures in the Golden Age of Music. Autobiography of a man who for forty-three years was music editor of the New York Evening Post and was considered the most brilliant writer of his day. With the same searching scrutiny and analysis that characterized his musical criticisms he has examined his own life and produced a volume of personal reminiscences that begins with his earliest boyhood recollections and goes through to the end of his distinguished journalistic career. He recounts his boyhood romances, his college-day adventures, his leisurely wanderings in Europe, and his personal appraisals of the musical celebrities with whom he came in contact as a newspaper man. He quotes liberally from his mental diary as to his acquaintances and friendships among the distinguished men and women he met, including Theodore Thomas, the de Reszkes, Adelina Patti, Anton Seidl, Emma Eames, Emma Calvé, Lillian Nordica, Nellie Melba, Enrico Caruso, Marie Jeritza, Amelita Galli Curci, and many others who have appeared on the operatic or concert stage in America during the last half century. The author has a brilliant style of writing which sustains the reader's interest throughout.
8vo, Cloth, 31 illustrations, 478 pages, $5.00, net.

"Place Finck's 'My Adventures in the Golden Age of Music' in company with Huneker's 'Steeplejack' and you have the two chattiest, most discursively entertaining books of their kind ever written in this country!"—Charles L. Buchanan, in the New York Herald-Tribune.

"What has always impressed the readers of Henry Finck's colorful observations in our world of music has been decidedly and pre-eminently his fine courage to sustain his own opinions, the while voicing no corrosive acrimony in as frank disapprovals as he found necessary. His natural kindness and understanding, his belief in constructive criticism, made it worth while for any conscientious artist to pause, peruse, and ponder."—Geraldine Farrar.

"This autobiography of Henry T. Finck, for forty years the distinguished musical critic of New York, is without exception the most interesting book of its kind published for many years. Not only does it give a fascinating account of the author's remarkable training for and interesting experience in his chosen profession, but it is an accurate history of the music of New York for the last half century, and contains charming pen-pictures of all the great artists and composers who have been heard in America during that period, many of whom were his devoted friends. This delightful book has not a dull page in it, and should appeal to every music lover and find a place on the shelves of every library."—Mrs. Theodore Thomas.

FISCHER, LOUIS, M.D.

Health-Care of the Baby. (Sixteenth Edition Revised.) The importance of this new edition may be realized when it is understood that the recent advances made in the management and feeding of normal infants have made necessary radical changes in diet, particularly in the quantity of milk given. Complete instructions are given for feeding healthy and full-term infants as well as for premature, sick, and delicate babies. What to do in emergencies and accidents is well covered and wise counsel is given regarding what action to take in treating the principal diseases and affections of childhood, including a complete daily routine to follow in airing, bathing, clothing, and diet. A classic for the nursery and the home.
12mo, Cloth, illustrated. $1.00, net.

FISHER, IRVING, Ph.D.

America's Interest in World Peace. (Revised Edition.) A presentation of the cause of the League of Nations—a résumé of the author's "League or War?" with new matter added that brings the subject up to date. This volume recounts the League's work and its influence on world affairs; shows how it has fared in American politics, and ends with a plea for America's entry into the League and also into the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague.
12mo, Cloth, 144 pages. $1.00, net. Special Paper-bound Edition, 60 cents per copy, net; 10 copies, $5.00, net; 100 copies, $30.00, net; 1,000 copies, $240.00, net.

FISHER, IRVING, Ph.D., and FISK, EUGENE LYMAN, M.D.

How to Live. (New Revised Edition.) The Rules of Healthful Living Based Upon Modern Science Authorized by the Hygiene Reference Board of the Life Extension Institute, Inc. This is the standard home book of health, completely revised, re-written, reset, and greatly enlarged, based upon the 18th edition, to which has been added information regarding the latest developments in medicine and hygiene. This pre-eminent book covers the whole subject of hygiene, personal and general, in a manner easily understandable to the average person. Many valuable illustrations and diagrams and a number of helpful exercises are included, making the volume as a whole the most valuable non-technical medical work available to the general public.
12mo, Cloth. $2.00, net.

FITCH, HENRY

The Perfect Calendar. This is a newly revised edition of this standard work which now contains, in addition to a calendar for every year of the Christian Era, a chronological record of important events in the history of the world from B.C. 10000 to 1926 A.D. The most practical of all perpetual calendars because it requires no manipulation and adjustment of mechanical devices, no wheels, sectors, pointers, or sliding-slips to consume time and tax patience. Its accuracy is absolutely assured—among other reasons because the work consists of but 14 different annual calendars arranged in the regular form of ordinary monthly calendars which cover all dates in the Julian or in the Gregorian System. Although intended primarily for commercial use and for modern dates, it will be found of special value to students of profane and sacred history.
8vo, Fabrikoid. $1.50, net.

FITZPATRICK, BENEDICT

Ireland and the Foundations of Europe. (Companion volume to the author's previous work, "Ireland and the Making of Britain.") This new volume presents a series of revelations which may prove revolutionary to the average person whose study of history has been through orthodox channels. Here, indeed, is an arresting story, founded firmly on fact, to which future historians must refer if the history of Europe is to be truthfully presented. The author spent many years in the preparation of this volume and searched into documents in many languages, in many museums, and in many out-of-the-way sources. It covers a period of time which is outstandingly poorly represented in histories—the Middle Ages. While of highest value to historians, this volume is of equal if not greater value to lay-readers—to average men and women interested in history and truth, and to those of Gaelic or Scottish descent.
8vo, Cloth. With map of Hybernicized Medieval Europe and chronological tables. $4.00, net.

GEMS OF ART

†Gems of Art. A set of six beautiful volumes on the lives and paintings of the six world acclaimed artists—Rembrandt, Reynolds, Greuze, Watts, Raeburn, and Constable. Each volume contains 8 full-page color reproductions of such celebrated paintings as Rembrandt's "Portrait of Himself," "The Burgomaster," "The Syndics of the Cloth Merchants' Guild"; Reynolds' "Miss Bowles ('Love Me, Love My Dog')," "The Strawberry Girl," "Heads of Angels"; Greuze's "Girl Leaning on Her Hand," "The Listening Girl," "A Girl With Doves"; Watts' "Life's Illusions," "Love and Life," "Hope"; Raeburn's "Boy With Rabbit," and Constable's "The Cornfield, or Country Lane." They are reproduced on the finest quality canvas grain paper. You are also given biographies of these painters giving trustworthy, informative and interesting records of their lives and works. Bound in artistic paper boards with medallion on cover, lettering in gold. Exclusive of the 8 full-page color plates, each volume contains 95 pages. The text pages are of a fine quality and the type is of a size noted for its readability. Size 7½ inches wide by 10 inches high. Each volume, $1.75, net; $10.50 per set, net.

GOUDISS, C. HOUSTON

Eating Vitamines. (Third edition, completely revised.) A standard text-book on healthful eating in which are given 200 tested recipes and menus for spring, summer, autumn, and winter, of delicious foods that are rich in vitamines, and which tend to overcome or prevent digestive disturbances and the breaking down of organic functions. The author, who is a national authority on nutrition, gives the latest information about the all-important vitamines, defining their essentiality to health, growth, and physical development. In simple terms he tells what foods (breads, meats, vegetables, fruits, etc.) contain Vitamines A, B, C, D, and the newly-discovered Vitamine E which is considered essential to animal reproduction. A chapter is devoted to "Wholesome Foods for the Little Child."
12mo, Cloth, 141 pages, $1.50, net.

"Here is a treasure for the housekeeper—a book about the most important elements in diet. Readable and interesting. Especially valuable, now that specialists are stressing the importance of diet from 2 to 7 years, is the chapter on Foods for the Little Child."—Oakland (Cal.) Tribune.

"'Eating Vitamines' now offers to every one the means for taking full advantage of the most important of recent nutritional discoveries—vitamines—and tells about them in plain non-technical terms."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

HAWTHORNE, NATHANIEL (Editor)

The Yarn of a Yankee Privateer. The personal record of a participant in the War of 1812 who describes privateering and privateersmen, thrilling fights on land and sea, hairbreadth attempts at escape from the prison at Dartmoor, England, and the famous massacre in that prison when many American captives were killed. This story, before its publication in book form, had a peculiar history. In the main, it was published in serial form—in a long forgotten magazine, The Democratic Review, edited by Nathaniel Hawthorne in 1846. A dusty and age-stained bound volume of the magazine was recently discovered in a public library and brought to New York for publication in book form. In New York it came under the eye of a well-known litterateur who had married into the Hawthorne family and who had an old manuscript about the war of 1812, which had been found in the effects of Nathaniel Hawthorne and which, on examination, proved to be a missing but rightful part of the serial story. It was fitted into the story and appears, as part of it, in the bound volume. This incident, however, did not disclose the author of either the story as published in serial form or the Hawthorne chapter. Neither could have been written by Nathaniel Hawthorne, for both were about the War of 1812 and Hawthorne was not born till 1804. The publishers of the book, Funk & Wagnalls Company, resolved to solve the mystery if possible by offering a prize of $500 to any one who could prove who was the writer. The contest, which excited international attention among literary folk, closed January 1, 1927. Four contestants solved the puzzle by proving that the story had been written by Dr. Benjamin Frederick Browne, a local druggist of Salem, Mass., and a man of unusual literary attainment who had been a neighbor of Hawthorne's and who had served in the War of 1812. The story was a narrative of his youthful experiences in war service and during his confinement as a prisoner of war, which must have been exceedingly trying and severe, for when he was released in 1815 he weighed only 94 pounds. The $500 prize money was divided between the four men who solved the mystery. The introduction to the book is by Dr. Clifford Smyth. The story is a throbbing human document, full of adventure and daring.

12mo, Cloth, 326 pages, Illustrated with old prints and drawings, $2.00, net.

"A book of continuous interest, of historical importance, of fascinating style. . . . A book that assures delight to every reader."—New York Evening Post.

"Written in the clean, quaint English of a century ago, the book is truly historical."—Atlanta Constitution.

"The narrative is of lively intrinsic interest."—Stuart Sherman in the New York Herald-Tribune.

"This important volume will without question immediately take rank among the most valuable books of the time."—Nashville Banner.

"Simply wonderful!"—Wm. Lyon Phelps.

"Puts flesh on the bones of the history of the War of 1812 and is a good yarn besides."—E. H. Anderson, Director, N. Y. Public Library.

"It is the kind of book I delight to own."—Kenneth C. M. Sills, President Bowdoin College.

HAYDEN, ARTHUR

Spode and His Successors (Limited Edition). This magnificent volume is the result of long and arduous exploration and will be indispensable to every one who is interested in English pottery and earthenware. This is the only complete and authentic record of the Spode-Copeland Factory and its productions which has been put into print. The author has traced the story of the Spodes from the beginning through all developments, filling up gaps, and dissipating many legends that have grown up concerning them. This volume will be noteworthy alone for its illustrations, which have been taken almost entirely from pieces in private collections. There are twenty-four plates in full color, mounted and tissued, and sixty-four half-tone plates.

KELLOGG, JOHN HARVEY, M.D.

The Itinerary of a Breakfast. Newly revised Seventh edition of a standard health book for the home, telling an interesting story of the new physiology of diet and digestion as revealed by recent scientific experimentation and X-ray studies. Dr. Kellogg, the author, is medical director of the Battle Creek Sanitarium and therefore competent to speak with authority on all matters pertaining to diet and hygiene. In this book he tells in simple, non-technical language just what one should know to keep well. He shows how to strengthen and restore health—to be physically and mentally alert and efficient. He gives accurate, authentic facts about the human machine, its mechanism, and daily requirements. Illustrated with colored plates showing the progress of a meal through the ten gates of the human body and the relative progression of later meals.
12mo, Cloth, 202 pages, $1.75, net.

"The purpose of Dr. Kellogg's book is to give the general public actual information as to the reason for the majority of headaches, indigestion, appendicitis, auto-intoxication, and various other human ills that very often there seems to be no real reason for."—New York Evening Sun.

"The author describes the psysiology of digestion and he tells it in a fascinating way."—Medical World, Philadelphia.

Similes and Their Use. A collection of over 4,500 of the most apt phrases, principally the creation of the keenest minds in the world but including hundreds which tho not of distinctive authorship are fully as descriptive and as virile, many of which have never before been collected into book form. An indispensable book and one which by the manner of presentation will commend itself to every one who works in words, and particularly to those who realize the value of phrases which in few words more vividly explain or describe emotions, scenes, etc., than hundreds of other less skilfully selected words. The volume is divided into four sections: 1. Prose similes. 2. Poetic similes. 3. Bible similes. 4. Miscellaneous similes.

Training for Authorship (A Complete Course in the Writer's Art). A comprehensive, authoritative, and inspiring guide for the prospective writer, and of practical value to the trained writer. It not only covers every phase of authorship, but explains every step so vividly and so graphically that any one who reads may follow them. Grenville Kleiser is perhaps the best-known teacher of the correspondence form of instruction in America and has trained, through his courses in public speaking and practical English, scores of thousands of men and women in every profession and occupation. This volume is the outcome of many years' practical experience and of outstanding success in writing and teaching.

LAUCK, W. JETT

Political and Industrial Democracy: 1776-1926. The author, who was formerly Professor of Economics and Politics at Washington and Lee University, shows how we evolved our Political Democracy—life, liberty, pursuit of happiness, government by consent of the governed, etc.—out of the Revolutionary War. He then shows how, out of the World War, we advanced toward Industrial Democracy—which aims at an end of war between Capital and Labor, new relations of employer and employee, new methods of promoting efficiency and productivity, and new educational and spiritual forces working toward the recognition of Industry as primarily an opportunity for service rather than purely for profit. The book bristles with historical facts and gives the names of twenty of the largest railroads and industrial corporations in America that have entered into cooperative plans with employees, and describes the plans in detail.
Crown 8vo, Cloth, 384 pages, $2.00, net.

"I find it a most excellent account and a very needed description of trends in American life. I shall expect to make frequent use of the book and refer it to my students."—Prof. Wm. F. Ogburn, Department of Economics and Sociology, Barnard College, N. Y.

"Any who have not been following closely the currents of modern industrial organization, as it relates to the manual worker, will find in this volume an acceptable sourcebook of documents and descriptive facts about those activities in a democratic direction, which are taking place outside of the labor movement itself."—American Federationist.

MAKINSON, J. T.

†Toy Manufacture. This book, believed to be the first serious volume in the English language to present information on commercial toy-making, is the work of a practical craftsman who has had wide experience in the trade, having served in German as well as English workshops. From practical experience he has been able to present in this book a large amount of information that will be new even to that public to which it makes its special appeal. 215 illustrations.

NATIONAL HEALTH SERIES, THE

In order to make available to the general public at moderate prices authoritative books on all phases of human health, the National Health Council arranged with the Funk & Wagnalls Company for the publication of The National Health Series. It contains thirty books of about 18,000 words each, written in easily-understood, non-technical language, by the leading health authorities of the country. The appearance of these volumes marks an epoch in the great work of prolonging life and promoting individual and community health in this country. The National Health Council is composed of the following representative organizations: American Child Health Association, American Public Health Association, American Red Cross, American Social Hygiene Association, American Society for the Control of Cancer, Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America, Council on Health and Public Instruction of The American Medical Association, National Committee for Mental Hygiene, National Organization for Public Health Nursing, National Tuberculosis Association, United States Public Health Service, American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons, National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, Women's Foundation for Health. Titles, authors, and brief descriptions of each book are as follows:

Man and the Microbe; How Communicable Diseases are Controlled. By C. E. A. Winslow, Dr. P. H.; Professor of Public Health, Yale School of Medicine. A description of germs and germ diseases and how they are spread, together with practical methods of disease prevention by means of sanitation.

The Baby's Health. By Richard A. Bolt, M.D., Gr. P. H.; Director, Medical Service, American Child Health Association. How to care for the baby so that it will be healthy, will develop properly, and be strong and free from disease.

Community Health; How to Obtain and Preserve It. By D. B. Armstrong, M.D., Sc.D.; Assistant Secretary, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. An outline of what the community should do for the health of its citizens and what each person should do to make his community a healthy place.

Cancer; Nature, Diagnosis, and Cure. By Francis Carter Wood, M.D.; Director, Institute for Cancer Research, Columbia University. The best statement about cancer ever written for the laity. It tells what it is and how to know it and have it cured.

The Human Machine; How the Body Functions. By W. H. Howell, Ph.D., M.D., LL.D., Sc.D.; Associate Director, School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University. A non-technical, literary description of the anatomy and physiology of the human body, the most wonderful machine of all.

The Young Child's Health. By Henry L. K. Shaw, M.D.; Clinical Professor, Diseases of Children, Albany Medical College. How to care for the health of the run-about child from two to six years of age.

The Child in School; Care of Its Health. By Thomas D. Wood, M.D.; Professor of Physical Education, Teachers College, Columbia University. Promotion of health habits in children of school age and exactly how to go about it.

Tuberculosis; Nature, Treatment, and Prevention. By Linsly R. Williams, M.D.; Managing Director, National Tuberculosis Association. Covers the whole field of tuberculosis, the cause, spread, treatment, prevention and duties of citizens, patients, and the community.

The Quest for Health; Where It Is and Who Can Help Secure It. By James A. Tobey, M.S.; Former Administrative Secretary, National Health Council. A statement of what health is, how it may be obtained, and a description of the actual help which the government, states, municipalities, physicians, and voluntary health agencies can give to individuals.

Love and Marriage; Normal Sex Relations. By T. W. Galloway, Ph.D., Litt.D.; Associate Director of Educational Measures, American Social Hygiene Association. The various elements, biological, social, and sexual which make up a successful and happy married life.

Food for Health's Sake; What to Eat. By Lucy H. Gillett, A.M., Superintendent of Nutrition, Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, New York. An outline of what and how to eat for maximum efficiency and health building.

Health of the Worker; How to Safeguard It. By Lee K. Frankel, Ph.D.; Chairman, National Health Council. Hygiene and sanitation in factory and shop and how industrial workers can protect and promote their health.

Exercises for Health. By Lenna L. Meanes, M.D.; Medical Director, Women's Foundation for Health. Illustrative material giving to individuals the type of exercise best suited to each one's personal needs.

Venereal Diseases; Their Medical, Nursing, and Community Aspects. By W. F. Snow, M.D.; General Director, American Social Hygiene Association. A non-technical discussion of cause, spread, treatment, cure, and prevention of each of these diseases and related social hygiene questions.

Your Mind and You; Mental Health. By Frankwood E. Williams, M.D.; Medical Director, National Committee for Mental Hygiene. Describes how your mind can be a friend or enemy and how it can be enlisted as your ally.

Taking Care of Your Heart. By T. Stuart Hart, M.D.; President, Association for the Prevention and Relief of Heart Disease, New York. How to avoid and prevent heart troubles which form the leading cause of death in this country.

The Expectant Mother; Care of Her Health. By R. L. DeNormandie, M.D.; Instructor in Obstetrics, Harvard Medical School. The health care needed during pregnancy in order that both mother and baby may be healthy and well.

Home Care for the Sick; By Clara D. Noyes, R.N.; Director of Nursing, American Red Cross. What to do in the home when illness is present. Practical suggestions for the care of the sick.

Adolescence; Educational and Hygienic Problems. By Maurice A. Bigelow, Ph.D.; Professor of Biology and Director School of Practical Arts, Teachers College, Columbia University. The scientific and sociological aspects of adolescence to explain the proper transition from childhood to adult life.

NEWMAN, E. M.

Seeing Italy. There have been many books published on Italy but this is unique. It is not a guide, nor a history, nor an academic description but an intimate story by an experienced traveler who tells of his visits to the most interesting and most popular places in this land which is so popular with tourists. The aim of the volume is to familiarize the traveler with the chief places and objects of interest, as well as to give him useful hints. Realizing that tastes differ, the author has written a book which includes something for everybody—for those who prefer art, architecture, ruins, history, human interest, and scenery. To see thoroughly what is included in this book will be sufficient to tax the energy of the most ambitious tourist whose time is limited. Yet it is a volume which every traveler will find of outstanding value—one which should be purchased long before a guide-book is thought of, and carried by the traveler in Italy for quick reference to the places which he is to visit. The host of illustrations will prove particularly fascinating as well as informative, and will make the identification of points of interest extremely easy.

PARIS, WILLIAM FRANCKLYN

Napoleon's Legion. A complete history of the creation of the Legion of Honor, the most famous of the orders of Napoleon, together with the record of the establishment of the American Society of the French Legion of Honor of which the author is founder. After tracing older orders of chivalry in France, the author takes up the present National order from the moment of its conception, and chronicles its varying fortunes through the Governments of Louis XVIII, Charles X, Louis Phillippe, Napoleon III, and the two intervening Republics. A special chapter is devoted to Foreign Légionnaires, another to the American Society of the Legion of Honor, etc. Throughout the book there are items of special interest to Americans, as the late War holds a large place in the recital. Records of regiments having won the right to carry the Legion of Honor with the regimental colors are given, as are the cities entitled to incorporate the insignia of the Legion in their coats-of-arms. The law governing admission into the Order; promotion; the wearing of insignia; the privileges and obligations attached to the quality of Légionnaire, are gone into at length, as are all topics that a member of the Order would value. In addition there are chapters describing the educational institutions maintained by the Legion for the daughters of members in reduced circumstances; the palace of Salm which houses the Grande Chancellerie of the Order; the new Museum of the Légion d'Honneur, just opened, and a chapter devoted to women Légionnaires, in which space is given to relief work by American women during the late War. Profusely illustrated.
Sold only by subscription.

PETRE, EDWIN ROBERT

When You Go to Europe. A handy pocket-manual for the European tourist and for the thousands of people who "want to go to Europe some day." The book answers practically every question one could ask about the trip, from the time of getting the passport and buying the ticket for the ocean voyage up to the moment when Europe has been "done" and arrangements are being made to return home. It gives steamship rates, ocean-travel customs, European railway rates, cost of living abroad, tells how to get along without knowing foreign languages and describes the most interesting sights in each of the 29 countries of Europe. 160 pages, besides colored maps of European countries, including a helpful distance map. Mr. Petre was commissioned to write this handbook by 25 leading transatlantic steamship companies and while it was still in manuscript form it was submitted to some 400 steamship and railway officials for suggestions. It is therefore absolutely authoritative as well as complete.

POST, EMILY

Etiquette: In Society, In Business, In Politics and at Home. ("The Blue Book of Social Usage.") New and enlarged edition, published in September, 1927. After appearing in 17 editions, with a total distribution of some 140,000 copies, this new 18th edition contains, in addition to the book's present contents, many entirely new subjects, such as: "The Woman in Business," "American Neighborhood Customs," "When You Are a House-Guest," "Etiquette in Washington," etc. This complete work on polite conduct and every-day ethics is written by a woman whose authority on the subject is beyond dispute and whose reputation as a writer is of long standing. No detail of the subject is too insignificant to be explained, from the selection of a visiting card to the mystery of eating corn on the cob. Clothes for men and women are treated with the same fulness of information and accuracy of taste as are the furnishing of their houses and the training of their minds to social intercourse. Apart from the wealth of social information this book contains, it is a delight in its sparkling style and a treasure-house of worldly wisdom. Crown 8vo. Cloth. With many new illustrations. Completely indexed.

$4, net. Bound in full leather, $7.50, net.

"It is the most complete book on social usages that ever grew between two covers. It is not a cyclopedia, however. It doesn't give lists of 'don'ts' and pages of 'how.' It is a readable, interesting book on a subject which becomes dull and 'precious' only when it is disassociated from life. When it is related to our every-day existence—as Mrs. Post relates it—the subject of etiquette is the art of living as disassociated from the mere act of living."—Chicago Tribune.

Parade. (A Novel of New York Society.) This is one of the most outstanding and revealing books of fiction published in recent years, not only because it deals with the aspirations and ambitions of every woman who has or craves the opportunity to get into society, and to climb after she gets in, but equally because of the charm and power and skill which the author displays in its composition. The volume deals with a young girl who would seem to be hopelessly handicapped socially because of her beginnings in life, but who rises and shines in that section of New York society which is all pomp and ostentation, and which forms the background of this vivid story, so aptly entitled "Parade."

POWELL-OWEN, W.

The Complete Poultry Book. An entirely new work designed to present the latest ideas and methods of poultry-raising in such a way as to meet the requirements of every keeper, whether he operates on either a large or small scale. Types of breeds for different objectives are fully described and illustrated; selection of layers and breeders by the "handling" system—of which the author is the recognized English expert—and the internal working of the hen are so described that the modern methods of feeding and housing for egg-production can be readily followed. Breeding, housing, feeding, ailments and their treatment—everything, indeed, connected with poultry-keeping—is dealt with in this volume, which forms a complete standard work on Poultry—an "Enquire Within" on the whole subject.

RICHMAN, JACOB

Laughs From Jewish Lore. A collection of folk tales and anecdotes which give the reader an insight into true Jewish character and habit of mind—the first book of its kind in the English language. These examples of wit and humor are not to be confused with the familiar "Hebrew yarn," which is offensive and not Jewish but merely about Jews. The stories in this collection will command interested attention not only through their quaintness but also through the charming manner with which they are told. The entire volume is a radical departure from anything that has ever appeared in the English language pertaining to Jewish wit and humor. The author, a well-known Hebrew scholar and authority on Jewish folk-lore, has made an exhaustive study of Jewish humor from earliest times to the present day and has as a result produced a decidedly unique and genuinely interesting work. The introduction to the book represents a comprehensive survey of the history and evolution of Jewish humor during 3000 years. A splendid book for reference or for casual reading.

SMITH, ISABEL COTTON

The Blue Book of Cookery and Manual of House Management. (Introduction by Emily Post.) This is not "just another cook-book," but an original and authoritative guide for the preparation of foods and for house management. All the originality and importance of this volume would be of limited value unless it were written by so capable and practical an authority as Isabel Cotton Smith. It contains more than 2000 recipes; gives complete information on the management of house and home, with invaluable suggestions for table economy, and includes everything for every season and every day in the year, for every possible repast from breakfast to late supper and from teas and picnic meals to specially designed menus for children at home and at school, as well as menus for vegetarians.

Conjunctions: Their Use and Abuse. Tells (1) What conjunctions are; (2) Their functions in English; (3) How they came into being; (4) How they have been abused; (5) How they should be used—the whole illustrated by examples drawn from Classic English literature and supplemented by rules that govern their use in correct speech and writing. 18mo, Cloth, 33 pages. 35 cents, net.

WAGNALLS, MABEL

The Mad-Song. An exceedingly interesting piece of fiction about two sisters and their experiences and adventures in the musical world. The principal characters are two Russian girls, both musicians of rare talent. Music to one, who seems doomed for sorrow, provides the means of spanning the globe. To her music is at once happiness, balm for her sorrow, the means for support and finally, leads to the supreme tragedy. To the other music brings tribulations, the open sesame to prison doors, and finally, love. The author has penetrated deep into the mysteries of Muscovite character to depict these two typical daughters of the race. 12mo, Cloth, 267 pages. $2.00, net.

WIMSATT, GENEVIEVE

A Griffin in China. A book full of little-known information about Chinese life. Written from a personal viewpoint by an American girl who went to China a few years ago and lived there for some time. She mastered the Chinese language, read Chinese books, ate Chinese food, frequented Chinese temples and theaters, and closely studied the Chinese people. She describes her experiences and adventures, dilates on Chinese art and superstitions, and takes the reader with her to the shows, restaurants, shops, and even to a Chinese funeral. A number of photographs illustrate the book. Explanations of various art objects, many of which are illustrated, permits one who has Chinese curios and antiques to identify them, and perhaps to read their symbols and markings.

"The book is a marvel of compactness, wealth of material, and practical value."—Rev. Bishop John H. Vincent, D.D., Chicago, Ill.

"I regard The Analytical Reference Bible as a most valuable contribution to our literature. It combines advantages which I have never seen before in one work. That it is a storehouse of valuable helps for every minister and theological student is very clear. There is no work with which I am acquainted that at all supplied the need which this work is sure to do. I fully believe it is a book which will open the Bible and the depth of its meaning to large numbers who have not yet seen it in the clear light in which it is here revealed."—Rev. Bishop John F. Hurst, D.D., Washington, D. C.

"The Analytical Reference Bible has superseded the  in use on my study table for sixteen years, and with it various Bible helps, all of which I find between the covers of this work in more available form."—Rev. Josiah Strong, D.D., Pres. Amer. Inst. Social Service, New York.

"It would not be possible to find in the compass of any other single volume so complete and valuable apparatus for the direct study of the text of the English Bible."—Rev. Dr. W. Henry Green, Princeton, N. J.

Windows for Sermons. A study of the art of sermonic illustration, with 400 fresh illustrations suited for sermons and reform addresses. 12mo, Cloth, 440 pp. $1.75.

Dramatic Stories of Jesus. Twenty-one short stories covering the life of Jesus. In the Bible numerous incidents of Jesus' life are condensed by the four apostles into mere statements of fact or a few short paragraphs. But as the complete details would prove of intense interest, Dr. Banks has endeavored to fill a few of these "silent places in the Gospels" with his "Dramatic Stories of Jesus"—stories, he says, "as they might have been." Necessarily the stories are fiction, and more entertaining in that they are in conversational style. Beautifully illustrated with 21 selections from the world's masterpieces (frontispiece in colors). 12mo, Cloth, 310 pages. $2.00.

BIBLE DICTIONARY, A NEW STANDARD

A completely revised, enlarged, and reset edition based on the original, which has been the leading authority for a number of years. Professor Melancthon W. Jacobus, Professor Edward E. Nourse, and Professor Andrew C. Zenos, the editors of the original work, spent nearly a year in the preparation of this new edition, with the help of thirty-seven of the ablest Biblical scholars of this country, Great Britain, and the Continent. So thorough has been the work of the editors that this is practically a new book. The latest findings of Biblical scholars are included and several new articles are added, Professor James Moffatt and Professor John E. McFadyen having contributed articles on The Right Approach to the Bible, thus affording a guide to the study of the Bible as well as to the most profitable use of the New Standard Bible Dictionary. Other added articles deal with English Versions of the Bible, The Religion and History of Israel, The Synoptic Problem, Greek Religion, and Roman Religion. Imperial 8vo, Cloth, 989 pp., $7.50; Buckram, $8.50; Three Quarter Morocco, $12.50. Thumb-notch index, 75 cents extra. Many illustrations.

Kalmbach, and numerous other illustrations in halftone. 12mo, Cloth, 355 pp. $2.00.

BRAZELTON, ETHEL M. COLSON

Writing and Editing for Women. This book offers a bird's-eye view of the new opportunities for women in newspaper, magazine, and other lines of writing, with practical instruction in each section of the field. It is intended at once as a textbook for the teaching of journalism and as a guide for women who wish to prepare themselves for professional writing through home study. Mrs. Brazelton is an instructor in Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University. She has done practically every kind of newspaper and magazine work, and into her book she has packed her accumulated knowledge, seeking to pass along to others the secrets of craftsmanship (likewise salesmanship) that have won success in her own career as free-lance writer, critic, and editor. At the end of each chapter are a dozen assignments for practise lessons or classroom work, and at the end of the book are useful appendixes on technical phases of the writer's work. There are several pages of advice by a score of prominent writers and editors in various lines. 12mo, Cloth, with Appendixes. About 300 pp. $2.50.

BURNABY, COL. FRED

†A Ride to Khiva. Tales of adventures in Central Asia, with portrait of the author, and seven illustrations. Crown 8vo, Cloth, 346 pp. $2.00.

BURRELL, DAVID J., D.D., LL.D.

A Quiver of Arrows. This volume is far more than a collection of pulpit discourses. It consists of seventy sermons, each of which has been reduced by severe, tho intelligent, epitomizing to a fifteen minutes' discourse — terse, clear, and forcible, by Thomas Douglas, Ph.D. The rhetorical divisions are few and plain and simple, making the sermons models of composition for the theological student, the young preacher and the class leader. A topical index of sermonic illustrations adds still further to the homiletic value of the book. The sermons in the book are grouped under the following classifications: Textual sermons, Expository sermons, Topical sermons, Doctrinal sermons, Biographical sermons, Ethical sermons, Sociological sermons, Anniversary sermons. 8vo, Cloth, 391 pp. $1.50.

The Lure of the City. Twenty-two chapters devoted to the young man who is just leaving the rural home to take up life in the city. 12mo, Cloth. $1.25.

BURTON, WILLIAM, M.A., F.C.S.

†A General History of Porcelain (Two Volumes). The author, Mr. William Burton, probably the greatest living authority on porcelain, here presents the most incisive, most authoritative, and most instructive work that has ever been published for the student and collector. The volumes contain a complete survey of the development of porcelain from the earliest Chinese production down to the present day. They are further enriched by a series of colored plates and other illustrations which are remarkable for their quality. Of these, there are 32 plates in color and 80 in black and white, while the text also contains reproductions, in facsimile, of works connected with the various periods and porcelain factories. The first volume deals with the porcelains of China, Japan, Korea, Persia, Italy, Spain, Portugal, and France, the second embracing chapters on the minor French factories, and the porcelains of England, Germany, Norway, Sweden, and other European countries. Two volumes, 8vo, Cloth, profusely illustrated, with many color plates. 460 pp. $30.00 the set.

†Josiah Wedgwood and His Pottery. This book is something different from any on the subject that has appeared hitherto. It is not so much a biography as a story of Wedgwood's work; it shows the development of the great potter's achievements — how his ideas were worked out, step by step, to ultimate successful practice. There is much that is of paramount historical and technical interest concerning Wedgwood's glazes, his kilns, his methods of working his clay, and of obtaining his designs, and the expression of his ideas. For a considerable time the author worked at Etruria, the world-famous works that Josiah Wedgwood built; he penetrated Wedgwood's technical secrets, he knew his formulæ, he discovered new facts concerning the man as well as his work. He therefore writes with authority. The color plates especially are triumphs of color photography. Their wide range of subject will doubtless surprize many who have come to associate the name of Wedgwood almost entirely with the "jasper" and basalt wares. Representative examples are given of every type of production of the Etruria kilns. There are 32 plates in color and 72 in half-tone. Edition limited to 500 copies for the United States. Super-royal 8vo, Cloth, 206 pp. $25.00.

BUTLER, ELLIS PARKER

The Incubator Baby. By the author of "Pigs is Pigs," and just as full of fun. A little classic brimming over with Satire—Sentiment—Sense. 12mo, Cloth, illustrated. $1.00.

BUTLER, GLENTWORTH R., A.M., M.D.

Emergency Notes. Every man and woman should posses the knowledge which this little volume imparts. It treats in a most lucid and comprehensive way all cases of accidents or sudden disorder which are likely to overtake one at any moment and gives valuable instructions as to what to do until the doctor comes. Easily understood descriptions of the body and its functions are included. The many drawings and diagrams with which the volume is illustrated will prove of the greatest practical value, particularly those referring to broken bones, bandaging, and drowning. 12mo, Cloth, illustrated, 102 pp. 75c.

BUTLER, J. GLENTWORTH, D.D.

CHARACTERISTIC FEATURES

1. An incomparably full and inspiring comment, explanatory of the sense or meaning of the text and suggestive of its underlying spirit.
2. Details touching the origin, structure, contents, and connections of the Bible and its several books—questions of Science and facts of archeology and chronology treated by expert investigators. Geographical and topographical matter and maps taken from eminent geographers and explorers.
3. Fulness of study is also largely insured by the Introductions and by numerous special treatises set in place throughout all the volumes. In these are condensed the substance of many small books in current use.
4. A carefully studied and largely interpreted Codification of the Laws given to Moses at Sinai.
5. The Four Gospels are condensed into a continuous Life History of the Christ, in the order of its events and, in the words of the writers, to "get a clear and accurate idea of the Master's Life."

CHURCHILL, A. L., and WICKENDEN, LEONARD

The House-Owner's Book. An ideal, non-technical volume of great practical value to all people interested in homes, from the architect to the carpenter, from the prospective builder to the landlord. It should be read by every one who owns a home, rents one, who is contemplating building one, or who possesses vast holdings. Loan associations, real-estate dealers, and builders will find it invaluable. "The House-Owner's Book" covers perplexing problems that have never before been brought together in book form, and is written with clarity and precision. It is complete along lines of wide-reaching interest. It tells the prospective house-owner how to select a site for a house, and how to finance the building of it; tells him what he needs to know about the construction of the house; has a full chapter on different kinds of common woods and their uses; a short chapter on metals used in the house; a chapter on plumbing and how to make ordinary repairs; a chapter on heating and ventilation; another on the water supply, with special reference to wells and their care; a chapter on painting, and how to do it where professional skill is not required; a chapter on electricity; a chapter on special appliances, such as the iceless ice-box, vacuum cleaners, etc.; and additional chapters on drainage, lighting, home electricity, the garage, etc. There is also a wealth of information on fire hazards in the house; gas accidents; dangers from electricity; and hazards from electrical appliances. 12mo, Cloth, with numerous illustrations. 404 pp. $2.00.

"The house-owner who objects to the high cost of repairs in these days may learn many money-saving tricks from this book. And even if economy is not his first thought, there are many things about the house—such as its electrical equipment, the treatment of hardwood floors, the water supply, etc.—that are explained so simply and thoroughly that the puzzled reader will be happy in the possession of the book."—Outlook, New York.

CLARK, REV. FRANCIS E.

CLAXTON, WILLIAM J.

†Insect Workers. The author gives a hint of the character of the work in his introduction: "We human beings think ourselves clever. Men talk proudly about the wonderful buildings they erect, the splendid machines they construct, and the grand furniture they make for their houses. But I shall show you some mechanics, laborers, carpenters and builders far more wonderful than man." As you read, you see beautifully laid out dwellings with terraced roofs adorned with cupolas; walls hung with lovely tapestries and inhabited by busy little masons. Soldiers, policemen, undertakers, cigarmakers, and representatives of nearly all professions and trades are met with. A delightful book from start to finish. With colored plates. 16mo, Illustrated. 75 cents.

COBERN, CAMDEN M., D.D., Litt.D.

The New Archeological Discoveries, and Their Bearing upon the New Testament and upon the Life and Times of the Primitive Church. With Introduction by Edouard Naville, D.C.L., LL.D. While filled with material that will be of intense interest to scholars and Bible students, this illuminating work is written in a style so popular as to make a strong appeal to every book-lover. Not only does it throw strong light on the text and style of the New Testament; it also presents a most interesting picture, drawn from the original sources, of the life, social and religious customs, art, literature, family relations, etc., of the early Christian centuries, that will make the people of New Testament times as real to us as our associates and friends of to-day. The book has many illustrations, is popular in form, yet loses nothing of scientific value by simplicity of presentation. Sixth edition, with author's final additions. Large 8vo, 742 pp. $3.00.

The first section of the book, dealing with the modern discoveries of papyri, presents some hundred large pages of great fascination. Also of great interest is the second chapter on the new light from papyri upon the language of the New Testament. . . . But this is only Part I. In Part II are studied the monuments, inscriptions and other remains with respect to their bearing on the life and times of the primitive church. The material comes mainly from Palestine, Pompeii, the Roman Catacombs, Phrygia and Syria. The excavations at the famous cities mentioned in the New Testament are treated in a special section, and finally the author considers new documentary and other evidence throwing light upon the early Christian centuries. This last section treats of classical texts in the light of new discoveries, non-Biblical Jewish literature which influenced theological and ethical thought of Palestine in the first century and the intellectual, social and religious life as seen in the papyri.—The Evening Sun, New York.

"I have known for some time that Dr. Cobern was planning this book, and I rejoice that it has been successfully completed. . . . Although I have been quite familiar with the material of the book, I have found much in it that is new."—Dr. Adolph Deissmann, great German Archæological Authority.

COWAN, SAM K.

Sergeant York and His People. A graphic, intensely interesting, and truthful account of the deeds of this American hero whom General John J. Pershing called the greatest civilian soldier of the war and whose feat Marshal Foch characterized as the World War's most remarkable individual achievement. Truthful in every statement, it will be found more fascinating, more interesting than a novel. To those who believe all Tennessee mountaineers to be "feudists," this book will provide many surprizes. To all who wish to know more of this great American hero, his home life, his friends, his surroundings, his lineage, his character—in fact, all the intimate details of his life and personality, "Sergeant York and His People" will bring hours of absorbing interest. It also reveals with mirror-like accuracy the condition and mode of life of the sturdy, pious, whole-hearted people of pure Anglo-Saxon stock who inhabit the mountain regions in Tennessee. The author's style is particularly pleasing, being direct, forceful, and easy to read. 12mo, Cloth, illustrated with 16 full-page half-tone illustrations. Jacket in colors. 292 pages. $2.00.

"We'll say there's a good honest American story in this book about Sergeant York, and if it doesn't hold a thrill and a smile and a tightening of the throat for you, then you are not the reader for whom we are editing this book page, that's all."—Daily News, Chicago, Ill.

"The story of Sergeant York gathers all the halo, official and romantic, into as thrilling a recital as anything in English literature."—Journal of Education, by Dr. A. E. Winship.

DIMNET, ERNEST, of the Faculty of the Collège Stanislas, Paris

French Grammar Made Clear. A grammar for schools and colleges, made up on a new plan which is designed to be of help to the pupil by giving him the rules that he must know and by leaving out all those that are unnecessary and confusing. Two of the outstanding features are the large number of phrases of the very latest coinage in both French and English, including military, aviation, naval, and war terms, political and economical expressions, etc.; and long lists of French and English conversational phrases embracing many of the most recent origin. Methods of address, types of French poetry, historical material, and other valuable information is also given. Great pains are taken to explain the differences between French and English usages, showing how impossible it is in many cases to translate directly from one language into the other, and how a paraphrase is often the only remedy. 12mo, Cloth, 253 pp. $1.50.

Latin Grammar Made Clear. (See under Petitmangin, Prof. H.)

DIX, DOROTHY

Dorothy Dix: Her Book. Messages of cheer, of wit and wisdom for all men and women—young, middle-aged and old—free from mushiness or sentimentality. A famous editor has described Dorothy Dix as "the most popular woman journalist in the world," because she "understands human nature, and with her sympathy and broad-minded tolerance she strikes a note that rings true in every heart." All she has to say out of her profound knowledge of life and human nature is pungent and sincere, and deals with all phases of our every-day life. 12mo, Cloth, 369 pp. $2.00.

"In the special niche in newspaperdom that Dorothy Dix has made for herself—that of adviser in general to the troubled, she has won high success. And so it has come about that she has been able to work out a practical philosophy of life that is shrewd, sympathetic, a bit cynical at times in its realism, honest and sincere and wholly lacking the ornaments of sentiment and romance in its brave facing of the disagreeable facts of life."—Times, New York.

"In her new book of 369 pages this fascinating writer has saturated her pages with thrilling interest for not only women readers but for a large group of men as well."—Globe, Boston, Mass.

DODGE, GRACE H.

A Bundle of Letters to Busy Girls. Helpful and practical talks to girls. 16mo, Cloth, 139 pp. 50 cents.

DORR, RHETA CHILDE

A Woman of Fifty. This unique autobiography of a most remarkable and courageous woman covers one of the most revolutionary periods of time in history—from virtually the beginning of a concerted movement to organize the women of this country in the fight for equality in politics and industry to the time when these hitherto unattainable causes were firmly established in our economic and governmental systems.

As journalist, lecturer, editor, and writer, the author has taken part in virtually every event that marks her generation; was the only woman war correspondent with the famed Russian Women's "Battalion of Death" on the last Kerensky offensive on the Eastern Front; spent three years in "after war" Europe, and is to-day in the thick of things in this country. Few men or women have met and overcome as many obstacles in life or fought harder for ideals as has the author of this volume —and fewer could relate their experiences in such a frank, forceful, and grippingly interesting style as this book reveals. There are no pages in which interest lags. 8vo, Cloth, 482 pp. $2.50.

†FAMOUS PAINTINGS

Exact reproductions, in all their exquisite color-tones and wonderful details, of 100 masterpieces selected from the world's greatest paintings, with an introduction by Gilbert K. Chesterton and a summary of the life, chief characteristics, and technique of the artist facing each picture. The collection includes representative masterpieces from all nations and all periods that are of the greatest interest and the rarest in available form. Each picture is reproduced on canvas finished paper to perfect its likeness to the original, and is mounted on art paper, ready for framing. Over 75 of the world's greatest artists are represented by some of their most famous canvases. Among the famous art galleries from which the paintings in this collection were taken are the Louvre and Luxembourg of Paris, the National, Tate, and Guildhall of London, the Rijks of Amsterdam, the Glasgow Art Gallery, etc. 2 vols., 4to, Half Leather Binding. Per set, $25.00.

"My family and I have had much pleasure in viewing the splendid copies in color of the master painters represented in the volumes. I consider such books of great educational value in the right appreciation of the beautiful in art."—Rev. H. H. Price, D.D., Aurora, Neb.

"I am delighted with the two volumes of 'Famous Paintings' bought of you. Their educational value in the highest and best sense is immense."—S. G. Heiskell, Former Mayor, Knoxville, Tenn.

"We consider them a great addition to our reading-room."—S. T. Moreland, Principal McDonogh School, McDonogh, Md.

"Their excellence was much beyond my expectations. It had not seemed possible that reproductions of so great merit could be offered at so low a price."—F. M. Geer, A.M. (Harv.), Batavia, N. Y.

"Surely these volumes are exceptional, as well for the beauty and artistic merit of subjects selected as perfection in reproduction. To be in possession of such a collection of rare and distinguished paintings so faithfully copied in beautiful coloring and effects is a privilege."—(Mrs.) Clara B. Whinnery, Findlay, Ohio.

FITZGERALD, JOHN A., A.B. (See under Petitmangin, Prof. H.)

FITZPATRICK, BENEDICT

Ireland and the Making of Britain (500-1100 A.D.). A dramatic and colorful account of an amazing Irish intellectual crusade which established and restored civilization in Britain, based on facts heretofore sealed in chronicles and records inaccessible to the general public. Reveals Scotland and Wales as Irish provinces, colonies, and political dependencies for centuries. Records surprizing Irish military conquests, political settlements, and cultural and missionary enterprises. 8vo, Cloth, 378 pp. $4.00.

Ireland and the Foundations of Europe. (Companion volume to "Ireland and the Making of Britain.") A new series revealing truths, amply authenticated, regarding Ireland's glorious past which may prove revolutionary to those whose knowledge of history has been gained through orthodox channels. It covers a period about which little has heretofore been known regarding Gaelic activities—the Middle Ages—and reveals Irish influences as the major force in the civilization and stabilization of all Europe. A vast amount of research covering a period of many years, and extending into scores of almost unknown sources, has yielded information which is now presented for the first time in modern times and most of which has never before appeared in English. It is of special interest to those of Gaelic or Scottish descent as well as to all lay-readers interested in history and truth. It is indispensable to historians. 8vo, Cloth. Map of Hibernicized Medieval Europe and chronological tables. $4.00.

GRASSET, JOSEPH, M.D. (Professor of Clinical Medicine, University of Montpellier, France.)
Marvels Beyond Science. (L'Occultisme Hier et Aujourd'hui.) A record of progress in the reduction of occult phenomena to a scientific basis. With a preface by Emile Faguet of the French Academy. Authorized English translation by René Jacques Tubeuf, Fellow of the University of Paris. Dr. Grasset aimed scrupulously to mark the boundary between things already known and those which still remain beyond our understanding. He believes that phenomena still regarded occult will, in a comparatively short space of time, be included in the catalog of accepted scientific principles. 8vo, Cloth, 410 pp. $1.75.

The Semi-Insane and the Semi-Responsible. "Demifous et Demiresponsables." Translated by Smith Ely Jelliffe, M.D., New York. Authorized American Edition. No contribution to psychiatry could be more opportune than this. Dr. Grasset discusses the medico-legal aspect of crimes committed by persons who, through genius, heredity, upbringing, or trouble, are not wholly insane, and yet are not wholly sane. This is the only literature on this particular classification. 8vo, Cloth, 450 pp. $2.50.

The Sandals. (See "Hour-Glass Series.")

GREY, H. G., M.A. (See "Readers' Commentary.")

GRIFFIS, WILLIAM ELLIOT, D.D., L.H.D.
The Call of Jesus to Joy. In this inspiring volume, the gospel of optimism is proclaimed with insistent hopefulness and undoubting faith. That men shall heed the call of Jesus to joy is urged, primarily, because the author contends that joy is a duty; because in the school of life we learn the true lesson of joy from its One Master; because the "house we live in" should be full of Christian cheer; because the highest joy of the thinker is when he thinks of God and Christ; and because the supreme joy of the student is in study, with Jesus as both student and teacher. 16mo, Cloth, 93 pp. 75 cents.

The House We Live In. Talks about the body and the right use of it. Twenty chapters of exquisite poetic sentiment in charming prose, with wise instruction upon physical conditions and facts of interest and sensible appeal to young and old, with sound religious reflection and physiological common sense. It voices a new and appealing dissent from the old interpretation of what is taught in Ecclesiastes about Life and gives a wholesome and serene view of it from the standpoint of threescore and ten. A delightful contribution by Dr. Griffis to the literature of right living, bodily and mentally, and of happily and healthfully growing old. 16mo, Cloth, 214 pp. 75 cents.

HAWTHORNE, JULIAN

Prince Saroni's Wife. And the Pearl-Shell Necklace. Two novels. In one volume. 12mo, Cloth, 117 pp., 75 cents; Paper, 15 cents.

HAWTHORNE, NATHANIEL

The Yarn of a Yankee Privateer. (Edited by Nathaniel Hawthorne; introduction by Clifford Smyth.) The publication of this volume of rare interest and of historical importance is the result of strange coincidences. Several years ago an unsigned manuscript, yellow with age, was found among some of Hawthorne's old papers. Its origin would have remained a mystery but for the finding, several years later, of a series of papers edited by Hawthorne in a long forgotten magazine for the year 1846. The old manuscript proved to contain chapters of the printed series which had never been published. The author, even now unknown, vividly narrates his adventures aboard an American privateer in the War of 1812; his capture and confinement on the isle of Barbados and in the ill-famed Dartmoor prison, and gives perhaps the only first-hand account of what led up to the Dartmoor massacre—the killing of American captives in this English prison. The illustrations are reproductions of old prints, drawings, etc. 12mo, Cloth, 326 pp. Illustrated. $2.00.

"A book of continuous interest, of historical importance, of fascinating style. . . . A book that assures delight to every reader,"—New York Evening Post.

HAYDEN, ARTHUR

Spode and His Successors. This volume is the result of long and arduous exploration and will be indispensable to every one who is interested in English pottery and earthenware. This is the only complete and authentic record of the Spode-Copeland Factory and its productions which has been put into print. The author has traced the story of the Spodes from the beginning through all developments, filling up gaps, and dissipating many legends that have grown up concerning them. This volume will be noteworthy alone for its illustrations, which have been taken almost entirely from pieces in private collections. There are twenty-four plates in full color, mounted and tissued, and sixty-four half-tone plates. Super Royal 8vo, Cloth, 224 pages, 88 illustrations. Limited Edition. $25.00.

HEXAGLOT BIBLE, THE

Comprising the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments in the original tongues. The work presents the Scriptures of the Old Testament in six languages, the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, English, German, and French, and the New Testament in Greek, Syriac, Latin, English, German, and French. The texts are conveniently arranged in six parallel columns, three columns on each of two opposite pages. Edited by the Rev. Edward Riches De Levante, M.A., Ph.D. Assisted by competent Biblical scholars. The prominent feature is the analytical character of each reference. The Bible student can, at a glance, find out four distinct points: (a) What the original Hebrew or Greek of any word is; (b) its literal meaning; (c) a correct and trustworthy exegesis, and (d) what are really parallel passages. The Hexaglot Bible is uniquely available for the rapid acquirement of French, German, Latin, or the older Greek, Hebrew, and Syriac—for here man's most beautiful thoughts, exprest in the accepted purest, most elegant diction of these various tongues, appear. Having learned the elements of a language, you can read the language itself with close, continued interest, in the Hexaglot, referring instantly when in doubt to the English, directly opposite. Six volumes, quarto, Cloth, $60.00; Sheep, $70.00; half Morocco, $90.00.

The texts are those of the highest authorities. The Hebrew is that of Van der Hooght, carefully revised. The Greek in the old Testament is Dr. Tischendorf's latest edition, with gaps supplied in brackets, from various sources, and in the New Testament, Dr. Tischendorf's eighth edition similarly supplemented. The Latin of the Old Testament is the Clementine edition of the Vulgate, and in the New Testament, Dr. Tischendorf's edition of the Codex Amiatinus, with gaps supplied in brackets, from the Clementine edition. The Syriac (in the New Testament only) is based on the noted "Biblia Sacra Polyglotta." The English is the Authorized Version; the German, Martin Luther's translation, and the French is the translation by David Martin with revisions.

It is not only a sumptuous book for a library, but is also a book of comparative versions which will be of incalculable convenience and value. . . . Each version has been committed to a scholar specially qualified for editing it, and the whole has been produced in a style of printing which places the work at the head of the Biblical texts of this country.—British Quarterly Review.

"The Hexaglot Bible is, I am satisfied, the most satisfactory available presentation of the Scripture in parallel versions of the six great languages. As the great Origen in Alexandria more than fifteen hundred years ago magnified the value of the Scripture by presenting it in several versions, so does this great work promise to do."—Chancellor H. M. MacCracken, D.D., of New York University.

HILL, ROYAL

The Stars and Constellations. A simple and practical guide-book of the heavens intended specially for those who are not proficient in astronomy. It gives easy helps with charts which will enable any one to learn the names and positions of all the important stars and constellations. The zodiacal charts show the relative size and the exact position of each star visible to the naked eye. The path of the sun is also indicated so that its precise location for any day in the year can be instantly ascertained. It includes a perpetual astronomical time-table. Large 4to, Cloth, 32 pp. $1.00.

"It is all that is needed to identify easily all the leading stars and constellations."—Prof. C. A. Young, Princeton University.

HILTON, WARREN, A.B., LL.B.

Basic Reading Course in Applied Psychology. (New Revised Edition.) A practical series of books on the application of psychology to the problems of personal and business efficiency, designed to make clear to the average man or woman the principles underlying mental operations and their utilization as a means to achievement in life. 12 volumes. Issued under the auspices of the Society of Applied Psychology. Apply for terms. (See page insert of detachable post cards facing inside back cover.)

"I consider the 'Basic Course of Reading in Psychology' the most remarkable books ever issued. I find them as fascinating as so many novels and read them as eagerly as I would the popular fiction of the day. Already I have experienced great benefit through application of the simple principles so clearly expounded. The world has been waiting for these books and the world will surely profit by them."—William Wallace Cook, Author, Marshall, Mich.

"The Society's books on Applied Psychology I consider the most valuable of any books on the subject that I have seen. I have read Spencer's Psychology, Munsterburg's Psychology, William James' Phychology, and many others, but from the view-point of usefulness these books, to my mind, are much more valuable. They are especially adapted to the purposes for which they are intended—the application of psychology to the affairs of every-day life."—Hudson Maxim, Inventor.

"In my opinion these texts should be taught in all the higher schools, thus insuring a century's advance to the present generation. Blindly I have groped for just this knowledge. The promulgators of these volumes should be hailed as benefactors of the race."—Dorothy Zimmerman, District Manager, The Supreme Tribe of Ben-Hur, Huntington, W. Va.

"I want to say that the twelfth volume alone is worth far more to me than was paid for all the volumes of Applied Psychology. You are making the world brighter and better."—John Benjamin Strasburger, City Statistician, Chicago, Illinois.

"I have been reading some of the best works on the subject of Psychology, but find it put up in the easiest form to read and understand in the Basic Course. It's just like A, B, C, the subject is made so reasonable and simple. I believe that younger students of this science who have found some of the best writers on the subject dry, uninteresting, and unintelligible, will not find this work so. My prediction is that a good many people are going to read and be benefited by this course who have never before given the subject any serious consideration or who have passed over it very lightly because it was not interesting."—M. W. Cook, Cortez, Pa.

The Heart and Blood Vessels: Their Care and Cure and the General Management of the Body. A general guide in the prevention of disease, for the public at large. Written after long medical practice, from a scientific basis and an intelligent appreciation of common needs. Breathes a benignant human spirit. It outlines in plain language the correct management of the body with regard to work, recreation, sleep, exercise, food, sex instinct, climate, and shows the way to reconstruct one's system after it has been mismanaged, at once removing nervous depression and irritability; tells how to lead a happy and efficient life even when the heart is sick and blood vessels are hardened; and helps in the choice of a physician, nurse, hospital, sanitarium, and places for recuperation in America and in Europe. 12mo, Cloth. $1.75.

"If the family library consists of but two or three books, this is a work that should be in the home."—Denver News.

"Tells in clear, understandable English, the surprisingly interesting story of the human heart, and how easily it may be kept sound without sacrifice of pleasure or money."—The San Francisco Call.

"There can be nothing but commendation for so sane and practical a treatise. He says nothing that can encourage hypochrondria or an adverse auto-suggestion. He tells us that nature intends us to be healthy and happy, and that we need do no more than obey her laws to be both."—Argonaut, San Francisco, Cal.

HOLLOPETER, WILLIAM C., M.D.

Hay Fever, Its Prevention and Cure (Revised Edition). The new fourth edition of this widely used work contains information on the latest methods of treatment and the most recent well-substantiated facts regarding the causes of Hay Fever. The Immunizing method receives extensive attention. Several sections of the book have been entirely rewritten, bringing the volume down to date and in harmony with the best practise of the day. For all who are annually sneezers this book can not fail to have special interest. It comes from the pen of an expert, and should command the confidence of all who suffer from the summer's widespread scourge. Dr. Hollopeter was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1877; served as interne in the Presbyterian Hospital of New York; and thereafter had large experience in private practice and as college professor, making a special study of diseases of the throat, eye and ear, with particular attention to Hay Fever. In this book he has written for laymen as well as physicians, and every Hay Fever victim should know what is the history, what are the causes, and what is the proper treatment of a disease which has been so baffling, so afflictive, and so inadequately understood, as told by one who in handling it has had great success. 12mo. $2.00.

"Self-interest alone should make its pages precious to all hay-fever sufferers as well as to physicians who have groped uncertainly for an efficient treatment for the scourge."—The Press, Philadelphia.

Subscribers' copies for six months (January-June or July-December) bound for $1.25, carriage charges in both directions payable by customers. Covers for respective volumes, suitable for regular binding, 75 cents, carriage paid.

The Homiletic Review contains discussions and information on all the important practical topics and problems in theology, the pulpit, religion, and pastoral work. It secures the best contributions from the leading thinkers, writers, and preachers of the Christian world. The attitude of the Church and pulpit toward all the live issues of the day receives full attention in its pages. The Review is a practical help to ministers, theological students, and other religious workers.

REGULAR FEATURES

EDITORIAL COMMENT discussing subjects of first importance in religion, theology, ecclesiastics, and social, ethical, and political movements as related to the minister and his thought and work.

THE GENERAL ARTICLES every month are from distinguished authorities and are of vital interest to the preacher and Christian worker.

THE WORK OF THE PREACHER: This section contains each month articles on preachers and preaching; on the manner and matter of the pulpit, and on every related theme of interest to sermon-makers and pulpit occupants.

THE WORK OF THE PASTOR furnishes articles on every approved and every possible new method in the work of the Church, discussing the pastorate in all its manifold relations, and dealing with every phase of the pastor's activity.

THE MID-WEEK PRAYER AND CONFERENCE MEETING SECTION contains thoughtful and inspirational material for each week in the year.

STUDIES IN SOCIAL CHRISTIANITY appear each month. Facts, information, and suggestions on the problems of our time are given by experts.

STUDIES IN THE BOOK comprise exegetical expository, and hermeneutical articles and hints, explanations of texts, side-lights of Scripture, analytical studies of passages, and exposition.

THE SERMONIC LITERATURE: This section presents a monthly array of the very best utterances of the modern pulpit of the world. It also includes a large array of suggestive outlines, sermon hints and themes for all occasions, suggestive themes and texts. Under this head may also be found ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PULPIT USE supplying feathers for the preacher's arrows, all fresh, especially selected from new sources and comprising in the course of the year nearly a new cyclopedia of homiletic illustration.

RECENT BOOKS gives the preacher a summary account of the best books as they appear, and furnishes him a guide to his reading.

"The Review made its welcome appearancce this morning. It is the most welcome magazine of its kind I have found on either side of the Atlantic Ocean. From its pages I have found more sermon helps than from all the rest put together."—Ernest Barber, Pastor, M. E. Church, Scituate, Mass.

HOYT, J. K.

Hoyt's New Cyclopedia of Practical Quotations. (Completely revised and greatly enlarged by Kate Louise Roberts.) A rich treasury of 21,000 of the choicest of usable quotations, drawn from the speech and literature of all nations, ancient and modern, classic and popular, in English and foreign text, including outstanding phrases coined during the momentous years of the recent World War. While based on the latest former edition of a world-known work of reference and retaining its most valuable features, this NEW edition, based on the simpler plan of one topical alphabet throughout, is virtually a new work, for it has been entirely reset, contains 4,500 more new quotations and has new features of its own. Hundreds of the old quotations have been replaced by others both newer and more valuable. Contains 21,000 quotations from 3,000 Authors; 1,036 Topical Headings; 115,620 Entries in Concordance—Index; 1,374 pages. Royal 8vo. Cloth, $7.50; Buckram, $8.50; Three-quarter Morocco, $12.50; Full Morocco, $15.00. Patent Thumb-index, 75 cents extra.

Among the most important features of the work are the quotations from foreign writers, Latin law maxims, and an extensive list of French and Latin mottoes. All foreign quotations are always followed by their English translations. The Cyclōpedia contains quotations from the Greek and Roman classic authors, from the great writers of the East, of Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal, etc. A complete list is given of all authors quoted, with the full name, the nationality, a few words of characterization, such as "statesman," "poet," "historian," the date of birth, and, if dead, the date of death. The three distinct reference keys which are afforded for finding quotations in English are: (1) The topics; (2) the entry of each significant word in the concordance, and (3) the name of the author, with the number of the pages containing his quotations. Foreign quotations can be found under: (1) the topic; (2) the author; (3) some word in the original, or (4) some word in the translation. The quotations are classified under subjects.

"The most the present reviewer can claim for himself is that he has dipt into this portly tome here and there and that he has done what he can to plumb its depths. He has found himself so agreeably allured that he has now and again abandoned his casual browsing to read a score of consecutive pages, finding many old friends, familiar as household words, and making many new acquaintances whom he will be glad to meet again."—Brander Matthews, in an article, "A Treasure House of Lost Quotations," printed in The Literary Digest International Book Review.

"It seems to me the most useful and best contrived book of its kind ever published."—Booth Tarkington.

HUDSON, H. N. (See Aldus Shakespeare.)

HUGO, VICTOR.

An Intellectual Autobiography. Translated by Lorenzo O'Rourke. It was recently brought to light from Hugo's papers and manuscripts, and is the only volume of his prose writings not heretofore published. 12mo, Cloth, 400 pp. $1.20.

"The volume is sure to awaken wide interest among readers who are in any way concerned with the mind and writings of the great French poet and novelist. Coming as it does from an epoch in his life, which is perhaps of the most vital interest in any study of his genius, the volume may be described as a sort of mind-biography. It has a literary quality which French critics have accepted as on a level with the best of Hugo's prose writings."—News, Detroit, Mich.

ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS, CYCLOPEDIA OF

Edited by Robert Scott and W. C. Stiles. The illustrations are entirely new; every one is fresh and drawn from an original source, from nature, from common life, from recent events, from science, from biography, from religious experience, from anecdotes, etc. The matter is arranged alphabetically under topical headings, with a thorough system of cross references. For the convenience of preachers, textual indexes are given, arranged in Biblical order and also in the alphabetical order of the topics. Large 8vo, 844 pp., Cloth, $5.00.

"A large, important, and useful work that will help enhance the utterances of men who speak in public; also after-dinner speakers, who desire to be at all times well equipped to arouse enthusiasm."—Boston Globe.

"The selections are admirable, and the books will prove useful to every one who has occasion to occupy the platform."—Chauncey M. Depew, LL.D.

"There is good evidence all through that the editors were able to discriminate between a real illustration and mere quotation or citation. All the entries in this volume are distinctly suited for public speakers' use."—Salt Lake Tribune, Salt Lake, Utah.

"The work represents wide research and shows an admirable practical arrangement of contents which should commend it to every class of speakers."—News, Chicago, Ill.

JENKS, PROF. J. W., PH.D., LL.D., and LAUCK, PROF. W. JETT

The Immigration Problem. A Study of American Immigration—Conditions and Needs. (Thoroughly revised and enlarged by Rufus D. Smith, M.A., Associate Professor of Public Economy, New York University.) Dr. Jenks, now Research Professor of Government and Public Administration in New York University, was an active member of the United States Immigration Commission, appointed in 1907, and Prof. Lauck, now Director of the Bureau of Applied Economics, at Washington, was officially connected therewith during the Commission's four years of searching work. Based upon the extended Report of that Commission, in forty-two volumes, this book's Fifth Edition has been revised, enlarged, and brought down to date by Prof. Rufus D. Smith, for this Sixth Edition. All available new data has been added to the text. The appendices now contain all Immigration Laws and Regulations from those of 1917 to the Immigration Act of 1924, together with all of the latest statistics. The three chapters written by Prof. Smith are of great importance—Immigration Problems of Other Countries, The Race Problem in the Pacific, and Present and Future Restriction. This Sixth Edition is thus made the standard compact authority on Immigration, in accordance with latest official figures and facts, holding place absolutely abreast with conditions affecting our nation's present and future. Cloth, 8vo. 744 pages. $4.00.

"This book will continue to hold its position as the authoritative digest of the reports of the Immigration Commission, and as such will serve a widely useful purpose."—The Evening Post, New York.

"The book is the most exhaustive study of the immigration problem in compact form that we have."—The Transcript, Boston, Mass.

"A non-partizan, clear-cut, authoritative presentation of a problem of pressing importance and of vital interest to all classes of citizens of the United States."—Tribune, Salt Lake City, Utah.

LAUCK, W. JETT

Political and Industrial Democracy: 1776-1926. The author, who was formerly Professor of Economics and Politics at Washington and Lee University, begins his book by describing the political evolution in America from the adoption of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, to the present time. He then tells the story of industrial reconstruction—how wage earners are now given a voice in determining working standards to an extent undreamed of before the World War. The author names twenty of the largest railroads and industrial concerns in America that have entered into cooperative plans with employees in late years, and describes the plans in full detail. The book affords much tangible evidence of how Capital and Labor are getting together in this country and solving the great industrial problem. It will interest every man who works for or employs some one else. 384 pages. Crown 8vo. Cloth. $2.

"A very needed description of trends in American life."—Prof. Wm. F. Ogburn, Barnard College.

LAUCK, W. JETT and SYDENSTRICKER, EDGAR

Conditions of Labor in American Industries. An authoritative study of the results of Federal and State investigations as to the conditions of wage-earners in the principal industries of the United States. Mr. Lauck was formerly associate professor of economics in the Washington and Lee University, and co-author with Jeremiah W. Jenks of "The Immigration Problem." Mr. Sydenstricker has done work along similar lines as expert investigator for the Federal Immigration Commission and the Commission on Industrial Relations. Crown 8vo, 416 pp. $1.75.

LAUCK, W. JETT, and WATTS, CLAUDE S.

The Industrial Code. W. Jett Lauck was Secretary of the National War Labor Board, and associated with him as joint author is Claude S. Watts, who was Chief of the Division of Investigation of the same board. A history of industrial development during the war and since the armistice was declared, a presentation, in an unbiased and non-partisan way, of the problems in the present relations of labor and capital, the principles that apply, and the enlightened opinion of different social and economic groups. The book is written with due regard for the claims of both sides and is a constructive one, taking up such questions as "collective bargaining," the Kansas Industrial Court, the Esch-Townsend Railroad Act, the "right of labor to a living wage," the "right of labor to a voice in the control of industry," "the work of women," etc., and furnishes a code of principles for the future working relations between labor and capital. It is a book that will appeal to men on both sides, to all economic students, and to libraries. 8vo, Cloth, 579 pp. $4.00.

MENTAL EFFICIENCY SERIES

Ten Volumes of uniform 16mo size, made up in the most careful manner from the writings of Aristotle, Socrates, Darwin, Spencer, William James, Muensterberg, Jastrow, Schofield, and other accepted authorities on mental science practically applied. But though in a broad way these men are the authors of these books, those who have done the actual work of collecting the material and putting it into this unusual form are a group of scientists and practical men prominent in this sort of work, not only in this country but abroad, where the study of mental efficiency has really reached a much higher plane. The great service they have performed has been to point out the practical day-by-day application of all this knowledge. The topics treated in these ten volumes are:

Poise: How to Attain It. Starke, D.

Force of Character: How to Develop It. Starke, D.

Timidity: How to Overcome It. Yoritomo-Tashi.

Influence: How to Exert It. Yoritomo-Tashi.

Common Sense: How to Exercise It. Yoritomo-Tashi.

Practicality: How to Acquire It. Nicolle, R.

Opportunities: How to Make the Most of Them. Charley, L.

Perseverance: How to Develop It. Besser, H.

Speech: How to Use it Effectively in All Phases of Daily Life. Xanthes.

Personality: How to Produce It. Laurent, H.

12mo. Cloth. Price, $10.00 the set; $1.00 a volume. In half leather, or "Luxart." Price, $15.00 the set; $1.50 a volume. Sold separately.

MERTON, HOLMES W.

How to Choose the Right Vocation. Designed to help boys and young men in making their vocational decisions. In this book Mr. Merton records the results of his unrivaled practical acquaintance with the subject, and his simple, direct, and sympathetic treatment of this most important question can not fail to be of great help to all young men and women who are striving to "find themselves" vocationally. To employers, teachers, students of business problems, and all who are interested in this comparatively new field of human effort, it will also appeal strongly. 12mo, Cloth, 322 pp. $1.50.

MODERN SERMONS BY WORLD SCHOLARS

Ten volumes of over seventy sermons, Edited by Robert Scott and W. C. Stiles, with introduction by Newell Dwight Hillis, D.D. Each sermon, given entire, was selected (oftentimes by the preacher himself) as most representative of the authors' style and force. In every instance, where the author was living, an approval of the selection was sought and obtained, so that the ten volumes are fairly representative of the modern pulpit as characterized by these world scholars. The topics embraced are of timely interest and furnish excellent reading for the layman, as well as for the clergyman. The following are a few of the many scholars whose best pulpit efforts are included in the ten volumes:

Lyman Abbott, Walter F. Adeny, Willis J. Beecher, Llewelyn D. Bevan, Hugh Black, Borden P. Bowne, James Denny, Canon S. R. Driver, James Drummond, A. M. Fairbairn, W. H. P. Faunce, George A. Gates, David Gregg, George Hodges, Franklin Johnson, Henry Churchill King, George Trumbull Ladd, James G. K. McClure, A. C. McGiffort, Edouard Montet, A. T. Pierson, James Orr, M. B. Riddle, James Stalker, George E. Reed, Milton S. Terry, Josiah Strong, Henry Van Dyke, G. Frederick Wright, and many others.

Daintily and substantially bound, small 12mo size. In a Box. Bound in cloth or half leather. Sold only by Subscription.

MOORE, DOROTHEA

†An Adventurous School Girl. This story of a schoolgirl of the days of the Jacobites opens with the news of the coming of the rebels, and the flight of everybody—except Lettice Fairfax and a maid, who are kept fast there by the illness of Lettice, with the result that she finds herself unwillingly embroiled in high affairs which carry her to London—and to Newgate itself. It is a good story in which every girl will revel. 12mo, Cloth, 286 pp., with several full-page illustrations in black and white and frontispiece in colors. $1.50.

MOQUÉ, ALICE LEE

Delightful Dalmatia. An intimate narrative of recent experiences in Dalmatian travel, with full appreciation of the great scenic and historic interest attaching to Pola, Sebenico, Gravossa, Spalato, Ragusa, and other towns, and the way between. 12mo, Cloth, with colored frontispiece and 48 other illustrations. $2.50.
